The hope for lower cost of living expenses has little in sight to base expectations upon. "No one can imagine prices are going down much in the next year or two," Premier Lloyd George declared before the Agricultural Committee of the House of Commons last week. The shortage of raw materials and foodstuffs is too world-wide to permit a reduction ha said.

if army foodstuffs were offered to the public, the peace has come. poor man could get his bacon at 36 cents too .-Guelph Mercury.

During July war taxes collected by the Department revenue of the department from all sources for the month was $4,586,088, a large increase over the month of June, 1918, when the revenue amounted to $2,993,630. Canada is surely bearing up well under the extraordinary financial demands of the past five years, and has the power of restoration well devel-

The Reeve of Arthur is taking a laudable interest in getting the people of the community of a wide area in his county together to enjoy a social time and to confer upon matters of community interest. H has asked the Guelph Chamber of Commerce to hold a picnic there some time in August suggesting that the representatives from the surrounding municipalities be invited, and that matters pertaining to the interests of all parties concerned be discussed. The invitation has been accepted, and the Forum Committee will be instructed to make all arrangements. Much good will accrue from such social gatherings.

The trend of events at Ottawa looks as if the big Liberal Convention there is already having its influence. Some of the members of the Union Government are evidently taking action to square themselves with the Liberal party. Hon. Frank Carvel Minister of Public Works, has taken the lead along this line. He claims to have fulfilled his pledge, made when entering the Union Cabinet, to support it during the war and until demobilization was accomplished. The probabilities are that a number of changes in the Union Cabinet will take place within a few days.

The rural leaders of the province, who were in the great benefits of the Ontario Temperance Act, and a firm belief that an honest attempt is being made 13 enforce it, despite opposition, in a resolution passed by the convention, at its concluding session last Thursday. The resolution also expressed the opinion tics. Coming from widely separated sections of the province, and representing all parts of the community this expression of opinion comes with unusual force and influence.

And when the cation suited to a successful career. country was asked to pronounce judgment, it voted for Union Government, against Its initial prejudice to the contrary, very largely because of the attitude of the Liberal press of Canada, which, outside of Queboc, was, with a few insignificant exceptions. strenuously for the coalition. The Reformer declines to take any stock in the proposition that Rowell and Hearst dictated the policy of the Liberal editors of Canada. And seriously, does Mr. Dowart?-Simcoc Reformer.

It is presumptuous, impertinent, unfair and dis-Toyaf to the most heroic and home-loving body of men in Canada to include all our returned soldiers as a class as opposed to prohibition, as a certain organization allied with the liquor interests is doing. There are, it is true, differences of opinion among them on this great question, as there is amongst the rest of us. They are citizens now and interested in the well-being of our country at home, as they wer. when overseas. Being a soldier for three or four or five years does not make these brave men opposed to the efforts to keep homes sober, wives happy, kid dies comfortable, and the community peaceful. It is a libel on our brave men to classify them as a body with the supporters of the barroom and license to sell intoxicating liquors again. Dr. Grant, the head of The referendum vote in Ontario, says, "I am not in mold public opinion. Public men who merely sit on the least afraid of the returned soldier. Iam not as the fence, and dismiss an important issue on the plea much afraid of the soldier as I am of the apathy and that it has been referred to the people, are playing indifference of the people at home, who believe in a pusillanimous part and abdicating their duties as the Ontario Temperance Act, but who would not leaders of opinion. A statesman has convictions and think it worth their while to come out and vote." tries to persuade others to think as he does. Great Tens of thousands of the soldiers of Ontario will vote policies and reforms were not carried to triumph until to keep liquor out of this province forever.

The Collingwood Bulletin very kindly remarks: "The Acton Free Press has entered upon its fortyfifth year and is going strong. For forty-one years the editorial chair has been occupied by the present scribe, H. P. Moore, and he, too, is good for many more years of usefulness to Canadian.journalism and

Mr. Cody is taking the initiative in numerous reforms able to do than to be peddling such a tale as the one of features of our school system. > While the Leaders of the old parties in Ontario hedge on prohibition, and few politicians in the Federal or Provincial arenas have the courage to express their personal views, the United Farmers of Ontario squarely face the issue. They have put an out-and out plank into their platform and they stand on it Their adherence to it is reaffirmed in the latest issue of their organ, The Farmer's Sun, which says:

"There may be lack of clearness and precision as to the attitude of the Leaders of the two old parties in this Province on the question of prohibition. There is no doubt whatever ex to where the United Farmers of Ontario stand on this important matter. Their stand was unequivocally stated at the last convention of the U. F. O. held in Toronto, when a resolution was unanimously adopted calling for 'prohibition of the manufacture, importation, and sale of intoxicating liquors as beverages in Canada." "Organized farmers have not waited for public opinion to express itself in a referendum. They are helping to so mold opinion that right expression will be given thereto. They are for prohibition not merely as a war-time measure, but for the same measure as a means of increasing the efficiency and the happiness of the people in peace time as well." The Farmers' Sun goes to the root of the matter when it says the United Farmers are helping to men were ready to fight for them.-Globe.
