H. C. OF L. CORNER

Are those prices a high-sear or an eyecore?

When money talks how many days it tells a sad story.

Nearly all the things are testaments that those who don't could hold a conversation in a telephone booth.

The price on some of the hats in the shop windows suggest the desirability of a reduction in overhead charges.

The H. C. L. could be considerably reduced if business who do the buying would touch their dollars to have more sense.

We ought to be able to talk the Canadian flag to the mast—we have tax enough—H. C.

THE CHILD AT THE DOOR

There's a child outside your door. He may never pass it more.

Let a little wandering wail find a shelter sweet and safe. In the love and care of home—let him come.

There's a cry along your street day by day. There's a cry of little feet.

Open wide your guarded gate for the little ones that wait. Till their voices of love from home like theirs come.

There's a voice alive from sweet calls to-day. Will you let those little feet stray away?

Let the lambs be homeward led, and you it shall be said, "You have done it faithfully 'Unto me'."

TWENTY YEARS AGO

From the issue of the Free Press of Thursday, August 2, 1900

The electric light has been installed in Hill's Hall.

Ex-Councillor and Mrs. Francis entertained the members of the Golf Club very hospitably last Wednesday evening.

The first golf match in the history of Acton was played on the links of the Acton Golf Club last Saturday afternoon between the Hampton Golf Club and the local club.

The weather of the last harvest of the century will be long talked about as one of the most successful.

The celebrated missionary, Rev. Dr. John G. Eaton, addressed a large audience in Knox Church last evening.

The stonework of the Warren Block is about completed and the carpenters are setting the doors.

A tennis match with a team from Guelph was arranged to be played on the courts in the park on Tuesday afternoon.

MAKING HOME-GROWN SEED

Although the cost of seed that is used in planting vegetables is small compared with the returns, it is very easy to know the seed man's suit and measure, if you want to secure a supply of home-grown seed.

Hand-picked seed of most vegetables can be grown in the garden, and it is better to grow your own seed than to buy it.
