signal for prolonged applause. "You have invited me to be your candidate, said Mr. Carter, when he arose to address the convention, "and I would be very unemotional indeed, if I did not feel clated at the honor done me, especially as I did not seek and in no way, directly or indirectly did I solicit the bopor; but before accepting .it I want to speak plainly." Mr. Carter then informed the convention that a suggestion had already been made to him by Provincial U. F. O. officials that he be the candidate of the Farmers in South Wellington, and he realised that without the united strength of the progressive forces in the riding it would be impossible to best Hon, Hugh Guthrie, the present

"I have no wish to return to public life," said Mr. Carter. "but I will sacrifice my home life principally because I am very much opposed to the actions of the present member, who is only being made a tool of by the Conservative party in order to smash the Liberals, I fought for Unionism in order to win the war, but I have no use for the brand of Unionism of Hon.
