A Prophecy of Good Times Coming
"Good times are coming," said Thomas A. Edison, the electrical wizard, to a prominent business man of New York, the other day.

Recovering from Lumbermen for Illegal Cutting
It looks very much as if the Provincial Government is "getting the hides on the fence" themselves, in the matter of the timber limits discussion.

The General Election
Parliament has dissolved, the general elections are on; and the electorate is already being studiously informed as to the issues before them.

The Stimulating Influence of Enthusiasm
The enthusiastic man is usually a successful man. The successful man has always an element of enthusiasm in his make-up.

The Promotion of Rural Industries
Speaking recently on the subject of unemployment Premier Duggan suggested as a partial remedy a revival of the village industry idea.

Boost—Don't Knock—The Provincial Highways
There is considerable complaint, especially among opposing politicians, about the amount of money being spent on public highways.

Young Folks; Be Alert and Interested
This is a busy life, and, whether it is in the new work which young folks have engaged in, or the new school duties of another academic year, they should be alert and interested.

"Patronize the Home Merchant"
In a letter published elsewhere in this issue F. J. Spear takes the Free Press to task for its articles on Patronizing the Home Merchant.

EDITORIAL NOTES
The women now have Canada's destinies in their hands. Over the Dominion they outnumber the men by a considerable number on the voters' lists.

NOT A MODERN FIRE BRIGADE
It was a sleepy village, and its fire department was anything but up-to-date.

PLEASED TO MEET HER
A minister told the story of a strap-plaited woman brought to the altar by a young bride to the man for matrimonial purposes.

TRUTH AT LEAST
A man was found by a policeman one evening investigating a building some-what shabby.

HIS MOVE
They had stopped on a lonely road, while the young man worked feverishly with the car.

PATRONIZING THE HOME MERCHANT

Editor Acton Free Press:
Don't Mr. I have repeatedly noticed your "Patronize the Home Merchant" articles, and have often felt inclined to enter the arena, but have always hesitated.

Like other millionaires, I have had some very arduous hickering with Mr. H. C. L. and asked an Acton "Home Merchant" his price for fixing the bottom of a pair of pants.

"I hope your Majesty will pardon me for saying that it is a rule with me that I will never allow the King of Honor to sit in her presence.

"I have also this story about the Queen:
The two subjects in which Queen Victoria showed the greatest interest in the last few years of her life were the making of her will, and about how she would spend her money.

"Who was for a ride with a tiger. They returned from their ride with the lady inside, and a smile on the face of the tiger."

"This is such a friendly soul that no one can help liking her."
I overheard these words one day on a railway train. I do not know to whom they referred for the woman sitting behind me were unknown to me.

"Nothing is a greater 'sweetener of life' than simple, human friendship. Nothing is so necessary in connecting together in a kindly and beautiful way the people of a community or an organization.
