

Births, Marriages and Deaths are now charged for at the following rates: Births, 10c; Marriages, 10c; Deaths, 10c. Addit. 10c for Memorial Cards, etc., for per line extra for phone.

DOHN

MATHEWSON—At Coningsby, on Tuesday evening, October 12, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Mathewson, a daughter.

WILLIAMS—In Action, on Tuesday, October 11, 1921, to Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Wilson, a daughter—Doris Anderson.

GUTHRIE—In Action, on Sunday, October 2, 1921, to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crooman, a daughter—Margaret.

CALDWELL—At Brampton Hill, on Monday, October 12, 1921, to Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Caldwell, a daughter—Margaret.

MARSH—MARRIED—At "Marine" Hotel, Guelph, Ontario, on Friday, October 12, 1921, to Rev. Gen. J. Hinshelwood, brother of the groom, Earle Hinshelwood, to Katie J. daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pollo Peacock, all of Kincardine.

HINSHELWOOD—At "Marine" Hotel, Guelph, Ontario, on Friday, October 12, 1921, to Rev. Gen. J. Hinshelwood, brother of the groom, Earle Hinshelwood, to Katie J. daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pollo Peacock, all of Kincardine.

THE ARTIST FREE PRESS

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1921

Brief Local Items

—Rockwood Fair to-day.

—The time all the roots were up now.

—The pumpkin crop is good this year.

—Dig your potatoes without further delay.

—The clowns are well represented again.

—Erin Fair next Tuesday and Wednesday.

—Jack Trout is beginning to assert himself.

—The politicians are getting real busy now.

—Thanksgiving—three weeks from Monday next.

—Overcoats and winter clothing are now being donned.

—The hunting season has commenced and we have the tragedies.

—Excellent quality Erin potatoe have been selling here during the week at $1.50 per bag.

—W. E. McCrady, Milton, will be the returning officer for Halton at the general elections.

—Beauty and attractiveness are the result of cleanliness and order. Let's take this to heart.

—Sister, red, tan and gold; gay butterflies of full, flutter softly to the ground those days.

—Some of our citizens are succeeding in the discovery of plentiful supplies of mushrooms.

—An exchange says the first step in building up a town is to induce the knocker to move elsewhere.

—It will be just as well to get in the plants you wish to winter now. Hover frosty air up at any time.

—I tender you this rhyme—pray do not let it stink; do your Christmas shopping early and thereby avoid the rush.

—Don't drop paper, wrappers, cigarette cartons on the streets. The practice is slovenly and tidy citizens get a poor opinion of you.

—Action is no example in neighborly courtesy last Friday. Hundreds of our citizens attended the Georgetown Fair that day.

—Please the Puss Press to absent members of the family. You haven't time to write such a complete letter to the old home every week.

—Toronto police court reporting show a record of 260 convictions for drunkenness in that city since the referendum was sent out on July 1.

—A grain binder costs more than a washing machine, but the latter puts in more than ten times as many hours. Get your wife a good washer.

—A good many collars will miss the customary stroke of prime apples this winter. Spots and blight and bollworms are more scarce than for twenty years.

—A few new topic cards were given out at the meeting of the Young Peoples Guild on Monday evening. A rich list of subjects will be presented during the winter.

—The Chamber of Commerce, Guelph, has let the contract for $1,000 for fitting up a rest room for the farmers' wives and families who go to that city to do their shopping.

—A little girl visited us at one of our farms this other day because when she saw the yellow pumpkins among the corn, "Oh! I've found a jack-o'-lantern patch."

—The $50 "Special" prize given by Mr. Mairi, Barrister, Georgetown, for the best essay on "Requiescat" at the Georgetown Fair, was won by Miss Margaret Lawson, Acton.

—A Hamilton wholesale house speaking of business improvement throughout the country, says: "The most likely start the scene to feel the thrill of life about her."

—"Candy Day" was a big day in town on Saturday. Hundreds of people of every age disposed of in the two stores in town, handling this delectable product of Canadian manufacture.

—Mrs. O. A. Gane, of Winter Haven, Florida, has kindly sent the Puss Press copies of illustrated papers and maps showing the attractions of that fine country in the heart of the orange belt.

—The suggestion made in some quarters to do away with the smaller country fairs doesn't appear to be a very popular one, judging from the success of the ones held this fall—Milton Reformer.

—The Hope Contest has engaged James, Parker & Beattie, consulting engineers, who superintend Astoria waterworks construction, to furnish estimates and plans for paving Walton, Mill and Ridout Streets.

—The rules of the past week did much good to the third land. Hills came down rapidly, light and fast continually for thirty-five hours. It is a couple of years since such a prolonged rain was experienced here.

—Are you a subscriber to the Puss Press? If not why not? Do you see any other paper that gives as much local and community news as that? The subscription price is only 25c per year or less than four cents a week. Send offer to us to the end of the year 1921.

—The first snow storm of the season came on Sunday morning. It was not very serious. The snow soon disappeared. Last year the first snow fell on October 1, about 10 inches. It was gone within twenty-four hours and there was fine weather for a month afterward.

Interesting Old Country Trip
Rev. T. Albert Moore, D. D. Writes on Shipboard of His Trip to the Continent

The following very interesting letter from Rev. T. Albert Moore, D. D., was received on Monday by his brother, the editor of the Puss Press. It was not written for publication, but contains much of interest which I think may be given to it in these columns.

Moore—Metagamog—September 20, 1921

My Dear Brother:—
We left Liverpool at 3:00 p. m. today. And this my first opportunity to write you. We will meet you in the north of England in a week's time. Our ship will go to Scotland on Friday afternoon.

—And I am sure you will go forward on some boat, and will go to you about noon on Saturday. I am sure you will know of my arrival.

—My two months have been a very eventful period. I have great pride in it. I think if I could have taken it twenty years ago I would have been helped much in my ministry.

You will know that in turn I was in England, Ireland, Scotland, France, Germany, Switzerland, Northern Germany, Holland, France, England, Ireland, Scotland and again in England. It is wonderful to me how the lands and people are so different, but the same spirit of mutual interest, brotherhood, and their unusual methods in business and social life. Although I was twelve before across the ocean, I have now seen much of the life of these peoples.

—The three world-gatherings attended were exceeding privileges—Ecumenical Assembly of the World's Religious Congress and International Anti-Alcoholic Convention. Each was a mighty gathering and together they give importance to the advances being made in behalf of human betterment and national improvement. As the meetings in Prague and Lausanne were largely carried on through interpretation, I am sure you will be interested in what I heard.

—Mr. H. Morrison, of Harrogate, is back home after his trip with Quelch and Armstrong.

—Mrs. Margaret Blighan has returned home after holidays with Quelch and Armstrong.

—Harvest home and thanksgiving service will be held in the Methodist Church, Coningsby, Sunday, October 11.

—Victoria Mission Band of Knox Church held a meeting of members in the classrooms of the church last Monday evening. A new member was served after the meeting. Many new members joined the band.

—I think the first virtue is to restrain the tongue; he approaches nearest to the gods who know how to be silent though he be in the right.—Cato.

—And now we are home bound. Of all those countries none can equal Canada for its beauty and grandeur. That my wife and I are our own Dominion, I am "fed-up" on England.

—There's an interesting assumption of our countrymen, that all unexpected utterances make a true Quaker in dignified. I could describe many instances, but will rather wait till I can tell them of their relations.

—I had a great time in Ireland. I think I wrote you after my first visit. My second was even more enjoyable—during my period of a week, I went to Dublin, sending telegram to London, George, as well as to the many political leaders, including prominent and world-known newspaper journalists who frequented it. There were some most intense discussions. There was a great deal of fun. There was some more intense discussion, though, in the Independent Press, the correspondence of the Standard, News, Mail and Telegraph, as well as many other British, Canadian and American papers, with which men as the leaders of political parties in Ireland, were often there, and gave me constant opportunity to study men and movements.

—Bavarian Times Harry was invited to attend a meeting in private, confidential representation, by Lloyd George, as well as the Secretary of State for Ireland, the spokesman for Ireland, and others. These were times I shall never forget.

—Then I went to Belfast and just had time to dash in when the Belfast Daily Express met with the Belfast Press.

—I was fortunate in being present at the opening of the Northern Irish Parliament, October 1, 1921, at Belfast, the Prime Minister, and both heard his speech and had a brief conference with him. He is a strong man and extremely bright as bigoted a Protestant as Catholic as he was.

—There were some most intense discussions. There was a great deal of fun. There was some more intense discussion, though, in the Independent Press, the correspondence of the Standard, News, Mail and Telegraph, as well as many other British, Canadian and American papers, with which men as the leaders of political parties in Ireland, were often there, and gave me constant opportunity to study men and movements.

—Bavarian Times Harry was invited to attend a meeting in private, confidential representation, by Lloyd George, as well as the Secretary of State for Ireland, the spokesman for Ireland, and others. These were times I shall never forget.

—Then I went to Dublin and just had time to dash in when the Belfast Daily Express met with the Belfast Press.

—I was fortunate in being present at the opening of the Northern Irish Parliament, October 1, 1921, at Belfast, the Prime Minister, and both heard his speech and had a brief conference with him. He is a strong man and extremely bright as bigoted a Protestant as Catholic as he was.

—There were some most intense discussions. There was a great deal of fun. There was some more intense discussion, though, in the Independent Press, the correspondence of the Standard, News, Mail and Telegraph, as well as many other British, Canadian and American papers, with which men as the leaders of political parties in Ireland, were often there, and gave me constant opportunity to study men and movements.

—Bavarian Times Harry was invited to attend a meeting in private, confidential representation, by Lloyd George, as well as the Secretary of State for Ireland, the spokesman for Ireland, and others. These were times I shall never forget.

—Then I went to Belfast and just had time to dash in when the Belfast Daily Express met with the Belfast Press.

—I was fortunate in being present at the opening of the Northern Irish Parliament, October 1, 1921, at Belfast, the Prime Minister, and both heard his speech and had a brief conference with him. He is a strong man and extremely bright as bigoted a Protestant as Catholic as he was.

—There were some most intense discussions. There was a great deal of fun. There was some more intense discussion, though, in the Independent Press, the correspondence of the Standard, News, Mail and Telegraph, as well as many other British, Canadian and American papers, with which men as the leaders of political parties in Ireland, were often there, and gave me constant opportunity to study men and movements.

—Bavarian Times Harry was invited to attend a meeting in private, confidential representation, by Lloyd George, as well as the Secretary of State for Ireland, the spokesman for Ireland, and others. These were times I shall never forget.

—Then I went to Belfast and just had time to dash in when the Belfast Daily Express met with the Belfast Press.

—I was fortunate in being present at the opening of the Northern Irish Parliament, October 1, 1921, at Belfast, the Prime Minister, and both heard his speech and had a brief conference with him. He is a strong man and extremely bright as bigoted a Protestant as Catholic as he was.

—There were some most intense discussions. There was a great deal of fun. There was some more intense discussion, though, in the Independent Press, the correspondence of the Standard, News, Mail and Telegraph, as well as many other British, Canadian and American papers, with which men as the leaders of political parties in Ireland, were often there, and gave me constant opportunity to study men and movements.

—Bavarian Times Harry was invited to attend a meeting in private, confidential representation, by Lloyd George, as well as the Secretary of State for Ireland, the spokesman for Ireland, and others. These were times I shall never forget.

—Then I went to Belfast and just had time to dash in when the Belfast Daily Express met with the Belfast Press.

—I was fortunate in being present at the opening of the Northern Irish Parliament, October 1, 1921, at Belfast, the Prime Minister, and both heard his speech and had a brief conference with him. He is a strong man and extremely bright as bigoted a Protestant as Catholic as he was.

—There were some most intense discussions. There was a great deal of fun. There was some more intense discussion, though, in the Independent Press, the correspondence of the Standard, News, Mail and Telegraph, as well as many other British, Canadian and American papers, with which men as the leaders of political parties in Ireland, were often there, and gave me constant opportunity to study men and movements.

—Bavarian Times Harry was invited to attend a meeting in private, confidential representation, by Lloyd George, as well as the Secretary of State for Ireland, the spokesman for Ireland, and others. These were times I shall never forget.

—Then I went to Belfast and just had time to dash in when the Belfast Daily Express met with the Belfast Press.

—I was fortunate in being present at the opening of the Northern Irish Parliament, October 1, 1921, at Belfast, the Prime Minister, and both heard his speech and had a brief conference with him. He is a strong man and extremely bright as bigoted a Protestant as Catholic as he was.

—There were some most intense discussions. There was a great deal of fun. There was some more intense discussion, though, in the Independent Press, the correspondence of the Standard, News, Mail and Telegraph, as well as many other British, Canadian and American papers, with which men as the leaders of political parties in Ireland, were often there, and gave me constant opportunity to study men and movements.

—Bavarian Times Harry was invited to attend a meeting in private, confidential representation, by Lloyd George, as well as the Secretary of State for Ireland, the spokesman for Ireland, and others. These were times I shall never forget.

—Then I went to Belfast and just had time to dash in when the Belfast Daily Express met with the Belfast Press.

—I was fortunate in being present at the opening of the Northern Irish Parliament, October 1, 1921, at Belfast, the Prime Minister, and both heard his speech and had a brief conference with him. He is a strong man and extremely bright as bigoted a Protestant as Catholic as he was.

—There were some most intense discussions. There was a great deal of fun. There was some more intense discussion, though, in the Independent Press, the correspondence of the Standard, News, Mail and Telegraph, as well as many other British, Canadian and American papers, with which men as the leaders of political parties in Ireland, were often there, and gave me constant opportunity to study men and movements.

—Bavarian Times Harry was invited to attend a meeting in private, confidential representation, by Lloyd George, as well as the Secretary of State for Ireland, the spokesman for Ireland, and others. These were times I shall never forget.

—Then I went to Belfast and just had time to dash in when the Belfast Daily Express met with the Belfast Press.

—I was fortunate in being present at the opening of the Northern Irish Parliament, October 1, 1921, at Belfast, the Prime Minister, and both heard his speech and had a brief conference with him. He is a strong man and extremely bright as bigoted a Protestant as Catholic as he was.

—There were some most intense discussions. There was a great deal of fun. There was some more intense discussion, though, in the Independent Press, the correspondence of the Standard, News, Mail and Telegraph, as well as many other British, Canadian and American papers, with which men as the leaders of political parties in Ireland, were often there, and gave me constant opportunity to study men and movements.

—Bavarian Times Harry was invited to attend a meeting in private, confidential representation, by Lloyd George, as well as the Secretary of State for Ireland, the spokesman for Ireland, and others. These were times I shall never forget.

—Then I went to Belfast and just had time to dash in when the Belfast Daily Express met with the Belfast Press.

—I was fortunate in being present at the opening of the Northern Irish Parliament, October 1, 1921, at Belfast, the Prime Minister, and both heard his speech and had a brief conference with him. He is a strong man and extremely bright as bigoted a Protestant as Catholic as he was.

—There were some most intense discussions. There was a great deal of fun. There was some more intense discussion, though, in the Independent Press, the correspondence of the Standard, News, Mail and Telegraph, as well as many other British, Canadian and American papers, with which men as the leaders of political parties in Ireland, were often there, and gave me constant opportunity to study men and movements.

—Bavarian Times Harry was invited to attend a meeting in private, confidential representation, by Lloyd George, as well as the Secretary of State for Ireland, the spokesman for Ireland, and others. These were times I shall never forget.

—Then I went to Belfast and just had time to dash in when the Belfast Daily Express met with the Belfast Press.

—I was fortunate in being present at the opening of the Northern Irish Parliament, October 1, 1921, at Belfast, the Prime Minister, and both heard his speech and had a