Announcing a Sale of Wilton Rugs

The rugs involved in the sale comprising a group of manufacturers' "slightly imperfect" which were offered to us SO FAR BELOW REGULAR PRICES that we literally "snapped them up," and that right quickly, confident that many of our customers would appreciate the opportunity to secure such unusual values, even if the rugs were not classed as "firsts" in quality—for the imperfections are of no slight a nature that they are scarcely to be detected in the appearance, and of such a minor character that the wearing qualities are affected not at all. Moreover in beauty of coloring and design they are not to be out classed by the newest offerings coming these days from the manufacturers at much higher prices.

That is a plain statement of the facts. We quote also the sale figures—and then we leave the rest to you—our friends and patrons in this vicinity. If you have a rug need, and are interested in a low price value, you will be as eager to investigate further as we were to secure the special purchase.
