

The Action Free Press

THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1922

GRUMP AND GOOD CHEER

Old Man Grump plods along the road. Green and stern, and he packs a load of fear and gloom, for his way, are dim. But if you walk by the side of him, he'll tell you all about the park. That he has carried upon your back. So if you wish to be sorry and sad, just walk along with old Grump, my lad.

Young "Good Cheer" with a happy face Walks along at a merry gait. He says: "Of course life is not all joy." But it is. Travel with me, my boy. Your boat will lighten at every mile. And drive your trouble away a mile. If you travel to the sun and glad, just walk along with Good Cheer, my lad.

THE SPARE MINUTE

Oh, what will you do with the minute To the many little, gay little minute square?—"I'm free from the clique With never a worry or care!"

We'd better beware of the minute To spare.

And never refuse The chance to use That's always to ready some burden to bear.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

From the issue of the Free Press of Thursday March 27, 1902

The frogs have commenced their usual spring-time concert.

Holiday is Easter, when many visitors will be in town. Hot cross buns to-morrow.

The call is made already for the street sprinkler. Think of such a thing!

The Foundation for Mr. J. H. MacKenzie's new dwelling in Church Street is being put up.

Ex-Gardiner George Hamill was received the appointment of local agent of the Canada Life Insurance Co.

A fine new Karn chapel organ was installed in the Baptist Church last week, and will be used for the first time at the anniversary service on Sunday. The Young People's Society presented it to the congregation.

Last Friday Mrs. Wm. Smith, Sr., wife of the late Wm. Smith, M.D., J.B.A. Murray, Mill Street, met with an accident which will render her helpless for a long time. The old lady had walked into the parlor for her hymn book, and returning, tripped over the bumper standing on the floor chair, and fell to the floor and fractured her thigh.

On Sunday evening Mr. Jas. Ross of Limhouse, and Robert Murray, Jr., of Nassagawey, met with an accident at the Mill Street crossing of the G.T.R. They were waiting in a car for the train. The car was cut and Mr. Ross' head was broken, but still "all right" and thinking it was meant for him started across. The car had hit the engine, however, and as Mr. Ross crossed the track he had backed down and the buggy was caught. Fortunately one of the cars was a fast one, loaded with stone, and the young man succeeded in saving his life. The buggy was badly wrecked, but the horse and young men escaped unharmed.

An enthusiastic meeting of those interested in base ball was held in the Council Chamber on Tuesday. The officers for 1902 were elected as follows:

Hon. President—A. O. Hardinge.

Vice-President—W. A. Taylor.

1st Vice-President—J. H. Wallace.

2nd Vice-President—Jno. C. Dunn.

Secretary—W. H. Gould.

Treasurer—R. W. Marshall.

Manager—W. McNaib.

Managing Committee—A. J. Gentles,

N. Patterson, W. J. Gould.

DIED

ARNOLD—In Action, on Saturday, March 22, 1902. Mary Graham, wife of H. T. Arnold, aged 42 years.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

A little library growing larger every year is an honorable part of a man's history. It is a man's duty to have books. A library is not a luxury, but one of the necessities of life.—H. W. Beebe.

We learn wisdom from failure much more than from success. We often discover what will not do; and probably he who never made a mistake never made a discovery.—Samuel Hinsel.

Truth never yet fell dead in the street; it has such infinite worth of itself, that the world has broad cast will catch somewhere and produce its hundredfold.—Theodore Parker.

Most of the luxuries and many of the so-called comforts of life are not only not indispensable, but positive hindrance to the elevation of mankind.—Henry David Thoreau.

Few things are impossible in themselves, that is wanting to bring them to a successful issue.—Rousseau.

All the great events of this globe, whether the globe itself, of which one-half is in the full daylight and the other half is plunged in obscurity.—Voltaire.

The spirit of a person's life is ever shedding some flower. Just as a flower steadily bestowing fragrance upon the air.—T. Starr King.

Well-timed silence hath more eloquence than speech.—Martin Farquhar Tupper.

Influence is the exhalation of character.—W. M. Taylor.

Many have been relieved of corns by Holloway's Corn Remover. It has a power of its own that will be found effective.

WHAT CAUSES WINDS

Winds are produced by a disturbance of the equilibrium in some part of the atmosphere, a disturbance always resulting from a difference in temperature between adjacent areas. The greater the contrast of a certain extent of ground becomes higher, the air in contact with it becomes heated, the air expands and goes toward the colder or higher regions of the upper air. This, in turn, produces winds which blow from hot to cold countries. But at the same time the equilibrium is destroyed at the surface of the earth, and the older, less active parts are greater than that which has been heated, and hence a current will be produced with velocity dependent on the difference between the increased and the distinct winds will be produced—an upper one setting outward from the heated region, and a lower one setting inward toward the cold region.

There is nothing repulsive in Miller's Word Powders, and they are as pleasant to take as sugar, so that few children like to eat them. In fact, they cause vomiting through their action in an unsound stomach, but this is only a manifestation of their cleansing power, no indication that they hurt. They are thoroughly depended upon to clear worms from the system.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FOR SUNDAY, MARCH 26, 1922

REVIEW.

Golden Text—"Jehovah is righteous in all His ways, and gracious in all His works"—Psalms 145: 17.

Social Teachings of the Quarter's Lessons.

Lesson I.—Injustice is certain to rest on the one who practices it. It is not Hebboman's kingdom.

Lesson II.—God does not call his servants to danger, and then force them to take it.

Lesson III.—Victory comes until the forces of righteousness are ready to stand forth and meet wrong in the ranks.

Lesson IV.—The believer's place is at the front till he receives his discharge from the great Commander.

Lesson V.—No compensation can be had for the loss of a soul who gives his body by becoming a Christian.

Lesson VI.—Those who walk with God in the present world are the only ones who can hope to be with Him in the next.

Lesson VII.—The cross of comfort shared with others insures the deepest satisfaction to the giver.

Lesson VIII.—The divine blessing is for all who are willing to go all the way in carrying out the divine commands.

Lesson IX.—"Fear" will take flight before the power of the truth that God is our defense.

Lesson X.—The importance of sinful men is precious in the sight of the Heavenly Father.

Lesson XI.—Those who yield to the lusts of the flesh can not escape the wages of sin.

Lesson XII.—No nation is stronger than the moral fiber of the people.

DAILY READING FOR NEXT WEEK.

Monday, March 27.—A Good King (2 Chron. 14: 1-4).

Tuesday, March 28.—Trusting God in Time of War (2 Chron. 14: 9-12).

Wednesday, March 29.—Trusting God in Time of War (2 Chron. 14: 13-18).

Thursday, March 30.—A Strong Trust (Psalms 37: 1-14).

Friday, March 31.—God's Reward (Psalms 45: 4-10).

Saturday, April 1.—Through Prince of Life (John 3: 18-19).

Sunday, April 2.—The Power and Goodness of God (Psalms 146: 1-10).

HIS RECOMMENDATION

"Want a job as driver?" queried the manager of the City Coal Company, advancing a young man in overalls and jumper standing before his desk.

"Few, sir."

"How is it that you are through at the Whistle Stop Coal Company?"

"I was discharged, sir, because I was slow," replied the young man, fanning his cap nervously.

"No recommendation, I suppose?"

"No, sir."

"What has Burke started yet?" asked the manager, turning to the weigher.

"No, sir."

"Will you have him drive the gravey, sir?" said the manager, looking his eyes.

"I am sure he is fit for it," replied the manager, finally allowing his eyes to rest on the boy.

For Burke, and Dan were the most valuable horses owned by the concern, and had cost eight, hundred dollars each.

As the manager said the boy left the office, the manager turned to a police officer who had come in to leave an order for coal.

"That boy is a pirate," he said.

"The most careful man with horses I ever saw. Have watched him a number of times when he had a heavy load on. Always trying to favor his horse. Made him a little sore, but you know horses are safe with him."

"We'll see him drive the gravey, sir," said the manager, fanning his cap nervously.

"I am sure he is fit for it," replied the manager, finally allowing his eyes to rest on the boy.

For Burke, and Dan were the most valuable horses owned by the concern, and had cost eight, hundred dollars each.

As the manager said the boy left the office, the manager turned to a police officer who had come in to leave an order for coal.

"That boy is a pirate," he said.

"The most careful man with horses I ever saw. Have watched him a number of times when he had a heavy load on. Always trying to favor his horse. Made him a little sore, but you know horses are safe with him."

"We'll see him drive the gravey, sir," said the manager, fanning his cap nervously.

"I am sure he is fit for it," replied the manager, finally allowing his eyes to rest on the boy.

For Burke, and Dan were the most valuable horses owned by the concern, and had cost eight, hundred dollars each.

As the manager said the boy left the office, the manager turned to a police officer who had come in to leave an order for coal.

"That boy is a pirate," he said.

"The most careful man with horses I ever saw. Have watched him a number of times when he had a heavy load on. Always trying to favor his horse. Made him a little sore, but you know horses are safe with him."

"We'll see him drive the gravey, sir," said the manager, fanning his cap nervously.

"I am sure he is fit for it," replied the manager, finally allowing his eyes to rest on the boy.

For Burke, and Dan were the most valuable horses owned by the concern, and had cost eight, hundred dollars each.

As the manager said the boy left the office, the manager turned to a police officer who had come in to leave an order for coal.

"That boy is a pirate," he said.

"The most careful man with horses I ever saw. Have watched him a number of times when he had a heavy load on. Always trying to favor his horse. Made him a little sore, but you know horses are safe with him."

"We'll see him drive the gravey, sir," said the manager, fanning his cap nervously.

"I am sure he is fit for it," replied the manager, finally allowing his eyes to rest on the boy.

For Burke, and Dan were the most valuable horses owned by the concern, and had cost eight, hundred dollars each.

As the manager said the boy left the office, the manager turned to a police officer who had come in to leave an order for coal.

"That boy is a pirate," he said.

"The most careful man with horses I ever saw. Have watched him a number of times when he had a heavy load on. Always trying to favor his horse. Made him a little sore, but you know horses are safe with him."

"We'll see him drive the gravey, sir," said the manager, fanning his cap nervously.

"I am sure he is fit for it," replied the manager, finally allowing his eyes to rest on the boy.

For Burke, and Dan were the most valuable horses owned by the concern, and had cost eight, hundred dollars each.

As the manager said the boy left the office, the manager turned to a police officer who had come in to leave an order for coal.

"That boy is a pirate," he said.

"The most careful man with horses I ever saw. Have watched him a number of times when he had a heavy load on. Always trying to favor his horse. Made him a little sore, but you know horses are safe with him."

"We'll see him drive the gravey, sir," said the manager, fanning his cap nervously.

"I am sure he is fit for it," replied the manager, finally allowing his eyes to rest on the boy.

For Burke, and Dan were the most valuable horses owned by the concern, and had cost eight, hundred dollars each.

As the manager said the boy left the office, the manager turned to a police officer who had come in to leave an order for coal.

"That boy is a pirate," he said.

"The most careful man with horses I ever saw. Have watched him a number of times when he had a heavy load on. Always trying to favor his horse. Made him a little sore, but you know horses are safe with him."

"We'll see him drive the gravey, sir," said the manager, fanning his cap nervously.

"I am sure he is fit for it," replied the manager, finally allowing his eyes to rest on the boy.

For Burke, and Dan were the most valuable horses owned by the concern, and had cost eight, hundred dollars each.

As the manager said the boy left the office, the manager turned to a police officer who had come in to leave an order for coal.

"That boy is a pirate," he said.

"The most careful man with horses I ever saw. Have watched him a number of times when he had a heavy load on. Always trying to favor his horse. Made him a little sore, but you know horses are safe with him."

"We'll see him drive the gravey, sir," said the manager, fanning his cap nervously.

"I am sure he is fit for it," replied the manager, finally allowing his eyes to rest on the boy.

For Burke, and Dan were the most valuable horses owned by the concern, and had cost eight, hundred dollars each.

As the manager said the boy left the office, the manager turned to a police officer who had come in to leave an order for coal.

"That boy is a pirate," he said.

"The most careful man with horses I ever saw. Have watched him a number of times when he had a heavy load on. Always trying to favor his horse. Made him a little sore, but you know horses are safe with him."

"We'll see him drive the gravey, sir," said the manager, fanning his cap nervously.

"I am sure he is fit for