OVERCOATS!

Intensified Values at

Knowing a thing or two about human nature, we half suspect that the General Public is more interested in securing value than in paying what most stores throughout the country consider a reasonable profit.

Having had many years' business experience, we certainly are convinced that a great number of customers, each at a small profit, is better than a few thousand, each paying a handsome tithe,

Putting two and two together, we are carrying out a policy of intensifying values-a policy which lessens the buyer's cost on each Oavercoat-but which sells MORE Overcoats.

And so we are concentrating on the popular prices of $25. $30 and $35, intensified values sufficiently attractive to bring any man to Guelph from Acton.
