A Measure of Safety

BY EDWARD MONTAGNA

MART McULLOUGH was sitting here, in the kitchen, with the rest of the family...

His small, brown, freckled face was lit up with a smile...

"You can get through college with a few dollars more than you need..."

"I don't know," said Mart, looking at the clock. "I should have been at the office ten minutes ago..."

"They soon arrived at the place where they were to begin their survey..."

"Why don't you go on?" came Blair's clear call after a few moments...

Costs Only $2 Worth Considerable More

Did you ever stop to consider just all that a subscription to the Free Press really means...

It takes some time and a great deal of thought to prepare all the local news every week...

Then you have all the select family reading, the current witticisms, the Sunday School lesson explained...

Then for the old folks there is the "Old Man's" Reveries each week...

Then for a newspaper in a town the size of Acton compare the Editorial columns of the Free Press with that of any other paper you know of...

You are not only kept posted on Acton, but every week the towns and hamlets of the county have a synopsis of what is happening in their places...

The careful buyer considers any paper incomplete that does not give him or her the information of where they can do their shopping to best advantage...

There are numerous other features that make the Free Press an exceptionally good investment at $2.00 per year...
