EDITORIAL

Newspapers That Drop Out

The passing of the Bruce Peninsula News, of Lion's Head; the Hepworth Journal, the Preston Progress, the Hensall Observer and the Chatham Planet, all within the past month, is unmistakable proof of the difficulty the present day publisher has to contend with in issuing a paper.

Parents! Do You Know the School Your Children Attend?

There is an unaccountable indifference on the part of many parents as to the schools their children are attending, the character and ability of their teachers, and the comforts, sanitary conditions of the school premises where they spend so many hours every week.

Respect Law by Living up to it

Folk who wink at wrong-doing and regard law violation as a trifling matter are travelling a dangerous path as it relates to their own sense of honor and good morals and as far as their word or deed exercises an influence on the community.

"Bootleggers" and Law Enforcement

The talk of rich harvests reaped by the bootleggers is all moonshine. When these gentry are called on for fines of a few hundred dollars they usually find difficulty in scraping together the money.

Sound for Prohibition

Last week THE FREE PRESS felt warranted in concluding that the Conservative party has no desire to be allied in any way with any proposal to enact legislation to make prohibition less effective.

The Legislature at Work Again

The Ontario Legislature opened its annual session last week with a lengthy docket of legislative proposals. The speech from the throne was one of the lengthiest delivered at any opening for some years.

Michigan's Draconic Anti-Betting Bill

The proposed bill to be introduced in Michigan Legislature is calculated to eliminate the gambling craze over there. It prohibits acceptance of bets on races or games of chance, and the maintaining of any place for the registering of such bets.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The progress of prohibition goes forward with surprising rapidity, and often in most unexpected places.

WHEN OUR FAULTS WEAR HALOS

As long as we associate our faults with halos for what they are, there is hope for us, but the situation is serious when we regard our faults as admirable.

Mr. Charles E. Bailey, of Fergus, formerly of Acton, was elected a member of Fergus Town Council by acclamation at the recent municipal elections there.

There is one feature in the speech from the throne at the opening of the legislature with which most people will heartily agree.

This is the emphasis laid on the need of economy, and the promise that additional burdens will be avoided as far as possible. So far, economy has not been a distinguishing mark of the present Government.
