TEN "DON'TS" IN USING ELEC-TRIC EQUIPMENT

To minimize the possibility of accidents or fires from electrical causes, City Electrician Israel Lovett, Omahs, Neb., has published procautions against careloss handling of electrical equipment, extracts from which as published in the Electrical World as given in the following: Don't fail to insist that your elsotrical contractor secures permit and inspection for any new electrical wirng. You help to pay the salaries of the inspectors; why not have something to show for your money? Don't- use pennies for fuses. There used to be a practice of hanging a ponkey wrench on the safety valve. This has become unfashionable. Don't use or handle electrical appliances such as vibrators, heaters, etc., while sitting or standing in the bath tub. . Don't leave the electric fat 'Iron connected to the circuit and go to use the telephone, visit with the neighbors while if was difficult at first, their reognition of Jesus was timally complete and very certain. Mark states thut Jenus "was manifested in unother form", as these two walked on the way into the country, The disclosure of Jenus was gradual, but at last, so vivid that it was over afterward a hlessed memory (verse 12). Verse 17 .- What communications are these ?-Jenus Trads the disciples to tell IIlm their troubles. This was not or lik information, but to give them the relief of self-expression. Verse 31 .-- We hoped-They date heir hope in the past. They now have no hope. They had heard the Easter morning report, of the women. They had made search for their Master and had found only an empty temb. Verse 27 .- Heginning from Mosesaus used the historical method of explaining the Heriptures. He interproted "the things concerning Himself" uli the Scriptures). The disciples must not abandon the hopes of a coming Messiah which glowed in the hearts of the holy prophets. Their faith was thus strengthened and in the twilight "He was known of them in the breaking of the bread.".

So it happened that Jenus went to them and walked-with them. It is part of the Easter message and the Easter glory that being risen and ascended into heaven He can now draw near to every one of us, whereever we may walk in the rough ways of life. No Christian disciple heed walk alone. The social quality of the gospel is strikingly prominent. "I will not leave you desolate. I come unto you," said Jesus, and He has also said that He who loves Him shall be how He was made known to them in the breaking of the bread. Thus the sublimest truths are revealed in the commonest of occurrences. These everyday happenings are needed to bring the divine truth into touch with the commonplace. The Eastertide is the time of the guickening of all life's forces. It is the preparation of earth to receive the message of Christ the Immortal Hope,-Because Christ lives we look forward and are not afraid. He is the Door, and beyoud those fair portals heaven must lie. In Christ the questions of life are answered in so far as they require an answer,.
