Election Language

Do scoundrels and imbeciles rule in Canada That is the question any innocent bystander might well ask after reading the pre-election speeches and literature that are poured forth on platforms of various kinds and from the press of all parties. For if one is to regard seriously anything that is said of issued he must question the mental ability and the moral integrity of almost all candidates for parliamentary halls-provincial or federal. Why canno men differ decently? They do in daily business of regular kinds, but when the issues are political the man with the serpent tongue and a fine mastery of invective and an ability for "mud slinging" is the "hero" of the day. Opponents forget the real issues of the campaign in heartless and unchristian flavings of each other. True it is that much of this is forgotten as soon as the battle of the ballots is over, but in not a few cases some cruel scars are left forever. -Canadian Baptist.

The New Provincial Cabinet

Premier-elect Ferguson has been fortunate indeed in having so many men of experience and outstanding ability elected from whom to select his cabinet. This will tend to ensure stability to the adminisfradition. In this respect he has been especially for- Nassagaweya, gave the largest majority of any polltunate in having a man of the marked ability and ing place in the county for Premier Drury-180. Mr. force of character possessed by Hon. W. F. Nickle, Hillmer received 44 votes and Mr. Dale 20. K. C., for the position of Attorney-General, the most important portfolio of the cabinet.- It is a striking co-incidence that Mr. Nickle was offered the position of Attorney-General in Mr. Drury's government, before Mr. Raney took office, and it is understood that it was then only his disinclination to remove from Kingston and the social and professional ties there which stood in the way of his acceptance of the portfolio. The call now comes even stronger and he has been persuaded to accept. Mr. Nickle is known and esteemed by all parties and is eminently qualified for his new office.

These men made possible the Canada of to-day. The farmers of Canada, then, have a rich history and a noble tradition to live up.to. Upon them Canada's progress has always, in the main, depended; upon them it will-always, in the main, depend. What, then, is necessary for the farmers of to-day? Simply the application of those qualities we have referred to-energy, courage, economy, and efficiency, and under present-day conditions the return is sure and speedy. A very high percentage of farms owned by farmers in this country have been acquired and paid for in the farmer's own
