Limehouse School Case Fails

The Boy Charged with the Depretations Bweers that His Signed Confession was Not True

On Saturday morning Harry Klawse, stalwart son of Austria, over six foot in height, was brought before Palice Magistrate Moore by Chluf Mc-Pherson, charged with being drunk on the public street of the presions Buturday afternoon. Harry in his broken English denied the allegation. Two witnesses gave evidence that he was very drunk. One of them, a fellowemployee at one of the tunneries, said. "I met Harry on Mill Bireet, took hold of him and told him he had better make for home or he would get pinched." Another said, "I saw him from our store, and it is such an unusual thing to see a drunken man on the street that I went to the door to life if I was mistaken. He was very drunk and staggered up the street." A fine of $10.00 and costs was imposed, and an alternative of thirty days lu juli, at hard labor. The bly Austrian said. "I'll go to jail; me get a good rest." A couple of hours in the lock-up changed his uttitude in the matter. Harry sent for a couple of his friends, arranged to pay the fine and couts, and got his liberty.

Ed. McDowell, who lives not far from the corner of Mill and Main Streets, took a short cut the other day with his car and turned the corner Mr. and Mrs. Peter Smith and Miss on the left side of the silent policeman; do it again, but will see that officials of the town and other folks who cut corners come before the beak on the first opportunity.
