New Entrance Into Guelph

The Toronto Suburban to Enter That City by C. N. R. Lines. The Guelph Mercury of Monday has the following interesting information regarding a new project for the electric railway into Guelph. "The announcement of new terminal facilities for the Toronto Suburban Railway in Toronto is of exceptional interest to Guelph at the present time, inasmuch as it is said that similar arrangements will shortly be made with respect to a new terminal at Guelph. The present cars of the Toronto Suburban connect on Dundas Street with the Guelph Radial Railway, whose cars they run over until they reach a point opposite the C. N. R. depot in this city. "It is understood that work has already been started on the construction of this change, and it is expected that by spring the change will be made. This extra track alongside the main line and the double-tracking of the bridge over the river will, but there is plenty of room for this. "This line will have to be electrified. "It is also understood that the C. N. R. is preparing to electrify their line between Guelph and Galt, and that they intend to run the Toronto Suburban cars over this line, giving a more frequent service than at present with the interlocking of the Toronto Suburban service. It was learned a day or two ago that the work of electrification will be proceeded with in a very short time. INTERESTING LETTER FROM NEW ORLEANS The following letter from Mr. P. R. Getting Back to Normal

During the war period there was a "let-it-go-Gallegary" style adopted with many of the customs and manners. Irrespective of class or position, there is a pleasure-mad programme on the go that costs a heavy amount of money and often interferes with the accounts are to be squared up to the end of the year. The only way to get back to normal conditions, is for every one to commence with themselves and in the same manner to help others. The Danger of Electric Current

Mrs. Rowena Williams, London, Elected in her Bath Tub. Mrs. Rowena Williams, aged 25, wife of David Williams, 25 Grafton Street, London, was electrocuted at her home last Saturday evening, when she fell out of a bathtub in which she was standing in connection with the operation of a portable electric heater. The bathtub had broken down in the shower, leaving the frame exposed, though the fact could not be discovered in ordinary use. While standing in the bathtub Mrs. Williams was in direct connection with the earth through the water pipe, and the current passed through her body. Her screams attracted her husband, who found her still standing in the bathtub with the heater in her hands. In attempting to wrest the heater from her grasp he also touched the pipe and was lightly shocked, though the fact could not be discovered in ordinary use.

Robins, Then, and Robins Now

I have been reading the reference to the robin in the Hamiltonian of Burlington, noticing the robin in his yard at the Parsonage at New Year's. Some who have been claimed as the first early robin, in this Province, to hand this morning. I recall in my schoolboy days, on the old Brock Road, our teacher, Miss Powers, hearing a bird sing out of season. She said it was a robin, and she was very much surprised. This is not of much account, but shows the subtle association of ideas. I wonder if my reverence recalls it. We were then about twelve years of age, which was, of course, several years ago.

Every year at this time we take stock and on going through our stock measure up and mark at a low price every end. You will find these ends on tables in the centre of the Store, with the length and price marked in plain figures on each end. In this lot you will find Remnants of Prints, Gingham, Shirtings, Denims, Cottonades, Tickings, Pillow Cottons, Sheetings, Dress Goods, Cottons, Satens, Towelling and Odd Towels. Drop in and look these ends over.
