Mrs. Tribble had to confess that she had forgotten it. "Or, rather," she added, "I lost it. In fact, I didn't get it."

ROD AND GUN FOR MARCH

The story of Three Yankee Hunters, who came up from New York to have some hunting in New Brunswick, is well described by Charles E. Williams, of New York, one of the Irish, in the March issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, and all sportsmen will enjoy this narrative. For those who have never visited Jasper National Park, or for those who wish to renew their remembrance of this beautiful spot, C. E. Williams' well illustrated article on "Rod and Gun in Canada" contains something to interest all lovers of hunting, fishing, shooting and kindred interests, while there are articles dealing with many phases of outdoor life.
