The New Bridge at Oakville in a Bad Way

Expert Engineer Declares the Construction is Good, but the Bridge Wrong Type

CANTILEVER PLAN NOT SUITABLE BECAUSE OF THE PRESSURE OF MUCK ON SIDES AT FOUNDATIONS

The Toronto Star, which went to the trouble to take photographs and interview engineers, in the matter of the new highway bridge at Oakville, Ont., on Monday: "The new bridge at Oakville is like our new Union Station, still closed to traffic."

The Star says: "The new cantilever bridge at Oakville is opened for traffic this summer. Will it ever be closed? The bridge is a bad one, here, both in design and in construction, and experts in official circles, in any case, the bridge will not be thrown open to the public until it is well on its way to being a total failure."

The detour now opened down away with the necessity of passing to the north of the town and links up the Toronto-Hamilton highway, which is 150 yards on each side of the unused bridge, saving the motorist many awkward turns.

The bridge is causing considerable anxiety as to its safety. Pressure of settling earth has moved the foundations of the bridge, and the main structure is so that it has become seriously cracked and twisted out of shape. The entire bridge is in danger of being washed away by the force of the water.

Heavy timbers and a double row of jacks have caused the weight from the western approach section of the bridge, which is separated from the main structure by a six inch crack. Beneath this, the most serious danger is a section, which is in danger of being washed away by the force of the water.

One day last week as Charles Cunningham was working about the truck foundation of the bridge, the truck slipped and he fell with his left hand and foot on the truck wheel. The thumb and first two fingers were broken and the hand crushed. It was found necessary in dressing the wounded hand to amputate the thumb at the first joint. Mr. Cunningham has had a painful time with the wounded members since, but they are now healing nicely.

Improving Mill Street Store Building
Mr. James Fairbanks, baker, has commenced the work of improving his building on Mill Street, which is being enlarged to the full size of the building, and will be completed, New York City, in the near future. The walls will be replaced, the frame sliding which has stood the weather for over sixty years, will be replaced and the building will be transformed into an appearance and utility when the improvements are completed. The cost of the new cellar and foundations is already in progress.

Well Instructed in Dreammaking
The second of the two classes in sewing and dreammaking, under competent instruction, organized by the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church last Friday. There were about forty members in the two classes, and the instruction was continued for four weeks. The ladies who were enrolled are well satisfied with the instruction received, and feel that the Women's Society has provided an opportunity which functioned into very practical results. Each member made a dress during the course of the term of instruction.

Easter Thank-offering Meeting
The Easter thank-offering meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church last Thursday afternoon was an occasion of much interest. The address by Miss Garrow, missionary from China, was inspiring and contained a wealth of detailed facts regarding the conditions of the Chinese women and girls which gave entirely new views respecting the mission work in that country. The success of the "writings" in some localities. The address throughout was greatly enjoyed by the ladies present. Miss Edna Johnston rendered a piano number which was much appreciated. Mrs. A. T. Brown presided. At the completion of the program, ten was served.

Allan Bowman, of Paris, who was sentenced to two months in the county jail on March 12, for refusing to testify, has got his liquor license and is permitted to operate with heavier loads than are permitted during the present month.

Mr. Benello, Ferguson Street, Guelph, was fined two hundred dollars and costs at Tuesday morning's Police Court, Guelph, when she pleaded guilty to keeping liquor in her home other than a private dwelling. A like charge against Miss Benello, her husband, was dismissed.

Chas. Wolf, 54, pleading guilty to 15 out of 16 charges of house burglary in Galt, and three charges of the same nature in Preston, was on Saturday morning sentenced by Magistrate Hamilton to 14 years in Kingston Penitentiary. He is also wanted on similar charges in London, Guelph and Kitchener and will now go on trial in the latter place.

Knox Church Choir Concert

The Cantata "Redemption Song" was Splendidly Rendered

Knox Church Choir was greeted with a well-filled house at their Good Friday evening concert. The programme embraced two parts, the cantata, "Redemption Song," and a section contributed by Prof. Kelly, Miss Hattie Kelly, Mr. Gordon Grierson and Mr. Harry Kelly.

The cantata was given under the direction of Prof. Kelly. It was a vivid Easter theme, impressive in conception, interpretative of the tragedy of the crucifixion, and the joy of the resurrection of Christ. It was a peculiarly appropriate offering for a Good Friday commemoration.

The solos, duets, quartets and choruses were rendered with a volume and expression which Knox Church Choir is well able to give, and the cantata throughout was greatly enjoyed by the large audience. An offering for the cantata, grand chorus, "Rejoice and be Glad."

Part two of the programme comprised a solo, "Dream of Paradise," by Mr. Harry Kelly; a solo, "How Beautiful Upon the Mountain," by Mr. Gordon Grierson, and a descriptive fantasia on the guitar, by Mr. Kelly. Mr. Kelly gave a reading, "The Legend of the Organ Builder." All these numbers were rendered with a volume and expression which Knox Church Choir is well able to give, and the cantata throughout was greatly enjoyed by the large audience. An offering for the cantata, grand chorus, "Rejoice and be Glad."
