HONEST TIMES

Scotland to ask for a receipt or promissory note was considered an insult, and such a thing as a breach of contract was rarely heard of, so strictly did the people regard their honor. The Presbyterian Witness tells a story of a farmer who had been to the Lowlands and had there acquired worldy wisdom:

After returning to his native place he needed some money and requested a loan from a gentleman in the neighborhood. The later, Mr. Stewart, complied and counted out the gold, when the farmer immediately wrote-a re-

"And what is this, man?" cried Mr Stewart, on receiving the allp of paper "That is a receipt, sir, binding me to give ye back your gold at the righ time," replied Donald. "Binding yo, indeed! Well, my man if ye cannu trust yoursel, I'm sure I'l
