PRINCIPLE

'Twas a sheep, not a lamb, that strayed away,
In the parable Jesus told;
A grown-up sheep, that had gone astray,
From ninety and nine in the fold.

Out on the hillside, out in the cold,
'Twas a sheep the Good Shepherd sought;
And back to the flock, safe into the fold,
'Twas a sheep the Good Shepherd brought.

And why for the sheep we earnestly long,
And as earnestly hope and pray?
Because there is danger. If they go wrong,
They will lead the lambs astray.

For the lambs will follow the sheep, you know,
Wherever the sheep may stray;
When the sheep go wrong, it won't be long
Till the lambs are as wrong as they.

And so with the sheep we earnestly plead,
For the sake of the lambs, to-day;
If the lambs are lost, what terrible cost
Some sheep will have to pay!

The anniversary services of the Methodist Church were held on Sunday and Monday evening. Rev. Dr. Briggs, the honored Book Steward of the Methodist Church, was the preacher of the day. On Monday evening a sumptuous repast was served by the ladies of the church in the school room where the orchestra played. The entertainment which followed was held in the auditorium of the church and consisted of music and a lecture by Rev. J. C. Treleaven, of Parkdale, entitled "Say So."

HUMOROUS

Better count your chickens before they are snatched—the darkey's hour is just before the dawn.

Sergeant: "What denomination are you? Church of England?"
Recruit: "Oh, I ain't particular. What are you short of?"

Julia: "Now, tell the truth. You men like the talkative women as much as you do the others?"
Jack: "What others?"

Hilda: "So you made up your quarrel with Tom?"
Doris: "Yes, but only temporarily. We're getting married next month."

He who has lost confidence in mankind has lost much, but he who has lost faith in the man under his own hat hath nothing more to lose.

Father: "What's the matter, Alice?"
Alice: "Freddie and I have parted for ever."
Father: "Um. In that case I suppose he won't be calling for a couple of nights."

Aunty: "And were you a very good little girl at church this morning, Sallie?"
Sallie: "Oh, yes, Aunty. A man offered me a big plate full of money, and I said, 'No, thank you.'"

AN INDIAN WIND SONG

The wolf of the winter wind is swift,
And the hearts are still and the cheeks are pale,
When we hear his howl in the ghostly drift
As he rushes past on a phantom trail;
And all the night we huddle and fear,
For we know that his path is the path of death,
And the flames burn low when his steps are near,
And the dim hut reeks with his grave-cold breath.

The hound of the autumn wind is slow,
He loves to bask in the heat and sleep,
When the sun through the drowsy haze bends low,
And frosts from the hills through the star-light creep.
But oftentimes he starts in his rreams,
When the howl of the winter—wolf drawn nigh,
Then lazily rolls in the gold-warm beams,
While the flocking birds to the south drift by.

—Peter McArthur.

SLIGHTLY DIFFERENT

The witness had been cautioned to give more precise answers.

"We don't want your opinion of the question," the judge told him. "We want it answered—that's all."

"You drive a wagon?" asked the prosecuting attorney.

"No, sir, I do not," was the decided reply.

"Why, sir, did you not tell my learned friends but a moment ago that you did?"

"No, sir, I do not."

"Now, I put it to you, my man on your oath. Do you drive a wagon?"

"No sir."

"Then what is your occupation?" asked the state's attorney in desperation.

"I drive a horse," was the reply.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FOR SUNDAY, JANUARY 25

JESUS COMFORTS HIS DISCIPLES

Golden Text—I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man (one) cometh unto the Father, but by me. John 14: 6.

Time—Tuesday night, April 4, A. D. 30.

Place—Upper Room, Jerusalem.

The Text Explained

1. "I will come again." 1-3.

The 14th. chapter of John is the most remarkable gold mine in the world—the Bible. The first clause of verse one is the keynote to the chapter, especially of verses, 1-27. Verse 27 ends as verse 1 begins, "Let not your heart be troubled," and all in between might fitly be entitled, "Thoughts for the comfort and encouragement of believers during the absence of their Lord." The remainder of verse 1 contains Jesus' infallible prescription for heart trouble; the one who truly believes in God and believes in Jesus Christ will never be troubled in heart (Isa. 26: 3). We can take our choice between believing hearts and troubled hearts. When faith comes in, anxiety goes out. A number of specific, comforting thoughts follow. The first is that of heaven, the Father's house, is a large place, room enough for us all, as well as Jesus. The second is that Jesus is coming back personally to take us to that place; the temporary separation is to be succeeded by eternal reunion. He does not send for us; He comes Himself. Anyone who has learned to interpret Scripture by Scripture can easily satisfy himself that the coming here spoken of is the personal second coming of Christ by a careful comparison of verse 2 with Thess. 4: 16,17. The return of our Lord has ever been the "Blessed Hope" of believers. Jesus here speaks of it, in interpreting this passage. He closes with, "Comfort one another with these words."

2. The way of the Father. 4-6.

The third comforting thought is that they knew the place where He was going; and how to get there. Verse 6 is one of the mountain peaks of Scripture. It tells us that the way to God; Jesus Himself is the Way. We get to God through Him, and in no other way. That way is open to all. How Jesus is "the Way," the Bible makes very plain. He is not only "the Way," but "the Truth," also He is the "Truth" incarnate. Other messengers of God teach the truth: Jesus is the truth. If, then, we are to know the truth, we must know Him. He is also the "Life." If you wish life, you must take Him. As soon as you have taken Jesus, you have life. If you have not taken Jesus, you may have existence but you have not life. If you are anxious to know what life, real life, is, look at Jesus and you will see.

3. "He that hath seen me hath seen the father." 7-11

If Jesus were a mere man and not divine, in a sense that no other is divine, then verse 7 would be appalling and blasphemy; but Jesus had a right to say, "If ye had known me, ye would have known my Father also." for God perfectly and fully revealed Himself in Jesus. To know Jesus is to know God; to see Jesus is to see God; to know Jesus fully is to know God fully. Jesus is "God manifest in the flesh. There is deep significance in Philip's cry, "Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us." Yes, that will suffice us—to see God—and nothing else will. For several years Philip had been looking at God and not seeing Him or knowing Him. There are many in this day just as blind as Philip. Jesus longed to have Philip and the rest of the disciples believe that He was in the Father and the Father in Him, and he longs to have us believe it also. His works prove it to all who have a discerning eye.

4. "He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also." 12-14.

Verse 12 contains another of the comforting thoughts. They certainly do not describe the experiences of the average Christian, but we must not bring God's Word down to the level of our experience; we must bring our experiences up to the level of God's Word. Jesus meant just what He said. We are now, by our faith, united to the risen and ascended Christ, the One who possesses all authority in heaven and on earth, and by reason of this union we have power to do greater things than Jesus did during the days of His humiliation. Those to whom Jesus first spoke these words saw three thousand converted in a single day. That was a far greater work than any that Jesus did while on earth. Of course, He, the risen Lord, was the real doer of it. Work in the domain of the spiritual are greater than to raise one physically dead. It is for each of us to claim our measure of this power: verses 13 and 14 tell us how. These verses tell us of the power that gets just what it asks, and anything it asks. It is the prayer of those who are united in Jesus Christ by a living faith that shows itself in an obedient love, and it is the prayer upon the ground of Christ's claims upon God, knowing that we ourselves have no claim whatever upon God. It is far more than to add to your petition, "All this I ask in Jesus' name." We may say that, and still in reality not be praying in our own name, thinking that we have some claims upon God. But Jesus has given us a right to approach God upon the ground of His claims upon Him, and when we do it, no matter how sinful we may have been, Jesus Himself will do what we ask of the Father in His name.

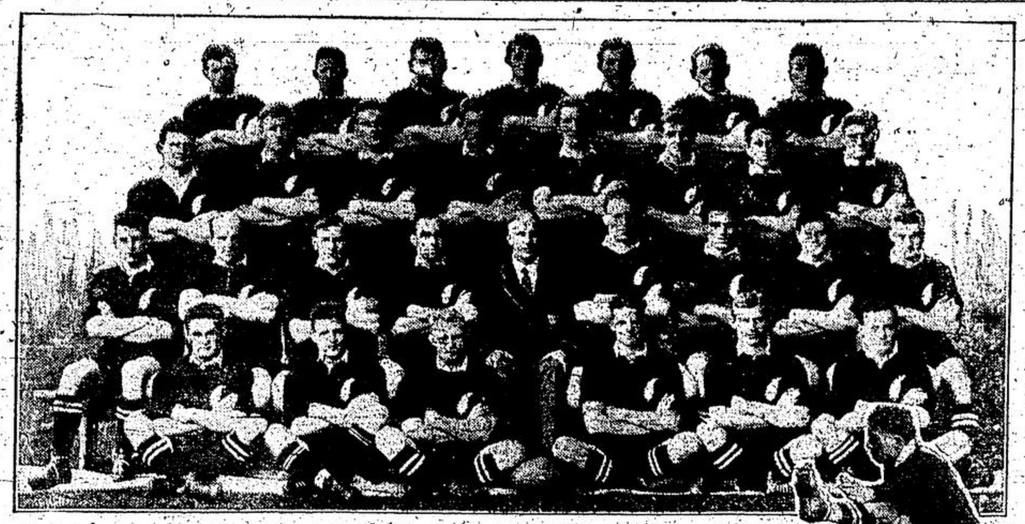
WHITE COLLAR JOBS

There is a rather unfortunate trend among the present-day young men in favor of the "white-collar jobs." Some young fellows would rather take a small salary, and be able to dress well and keep their hands immaculate, than earn twice the money at a job which means greasy overalls and blackened nails.

A young fellow of this sort, talking with an older friends after graduation from high-school, says, earnestly, "Of course, I don't want a dirty job." The friend answers emphatically, "Of course you don't, but remember that the dirty job is the one that leaves smut on your soul, not the one that blackens your hands." If you go into any occupation in which you are required to misrepresent, in which you take advantage of the ignorance and inexperience of the public to make gain for somebody, you have a dirty job, even though you go about looking like a tailor's advertisement.

The white-collar job is all right if it is your job, not otherwise. The young fellow who turns his back on the occupation for which he is best fitted because it means wearing overalls and getting grease on his hands, does not deserve to succeed.



ALL BLACKS TO PLAY IN CANADA

Photographed at Newton Abbott, on the spot where their famous predecessors, the "All-Blacks" of 1905 posed at their training quarters, twenty years ago. Back row, left to right: H. W. Brown, M. Nicholls, R. R. Masters, H. Harvey, J. H. Parker, Q. Donald, B. McCleary. Second row: J. Steel, M. Brownlie, R. F. Stewart, C. Brownlie, L. F. Cupples, A. H. West, L. Paewai, A. White. Third row: A. C. Robilliard, H. G. Munro, R. Irvine, C. G. Porter, S. S. Dean, J. Richardson, G. Nepia, A. H. Hart, A. E. Cooke. Front row: J. Mill, N. J. McGregor, W. C. Dalley, F. W. Lucas, K. S. Venson, C. Badeley. Inset: G. Nepia taking a place kick.

Canada is to see the famous "All-Blacks" rugby team of New Zealand, and British Columbia will see them in action, the Canadian Pacific Railway announced when making public the fact that this galaxy of stars, on the conclusion of their tour of the British Isles and France, will return home. The team, landing at St. John, N. B., will visit Toronto, Niagara Falls, the Canadian Pacific experimental farm at Strathmore, Calgary, Banff, Vancouver and Victoria. At Banff they will see and probably take part in the Winter Sports Carnival, as they are interested in Canadian Winter Sports and have expressed a keen desire to see a good game of hockey. They are to play rugby at Vancouver on February 18. Next the team will proceed to San Francisco, where they will probably play another game, and on February 25 they will sail for home aboard the Canadian-Australian liner "Tahiti."

The "All-Blacks," who have played 30 matches in the British Isles and France before they leave, and who are scheduled to fly across the channel to play at Paris and Toulouse, are probably the most famous rugby football team in the world, and it is expected that there will be a tremendous demand for seats for the games on the Pacific coast. Successors to the "All-Blacks" which toured England and America in 1905, and was only once defeated, the present team has set itself the goal of returning to New Zealand with a complete list of victories and seems to be well within sight of this object, as out of 30 games on the European schedule it has thus far won all. Managed by S. Dean, and captained by C. G. Porter, there are 29 athletes in the touring aggregation, of whom the average age is 24, height 5 feet 10 inches and weight 171½ pounds, figures which speak for a team of unusually big men. The forwards, who are said to be the stronger portion of the side, though the whole team is a remarkably well balanced one, are all under six feet, but average 180 pounds in weight.

Forty-two persons make up the total "All-Black" party as the team has with it a commission whose object is to promote trade between Canada and New Zealand. E. S. Williams, land inspector, Department of Natural Resources, Canadian Pacific Railway, of Calgary, who was in charge of the Canadian Pacific exhibit at Wembley last summer and became friendly with the men there, has been invited to meet them at St. John and accompany them across Canada.

OVERHEARD IN CHURCH

A minister who had the reputation of never relaxing from his dignity was trying to prove to a few congenial friends that the reputation was not deserved. "Why, one day I laughed right out in the pulpit," he said, "and I did not get over the disgrace of it for several weeks. But it was one of those times when my sense of humor got the better of my ministerial calm.

"It was one hot summer day, and my church which was close to a house. The windows of the church were open, and we could hear distinctly the murmur of voices next door. I had just offered prayer, and there was the intense silence which always follows an invocation. In the solemn silence a woman's harsh voice screamed:

"'John, where are the nails?'

And a gruff voice answered:

"'In the coffee pot, you fool. You put them there yourself.'"

TAKING YOURSELF FOR GRANTED

Many young people are too inclined to take themselves for granted. They consider themselves decidedly above the average, and they do not make any investigations with the object of finding out whether or not their complacement opinion is justified.

No matter what our status in the beginning, there is a possibility of improvement. If we are ignorant, we can learn. If we are cowardly, we can act as if we had never known the meaning of fear. The only hopeless case is that of the self-satisfied.

Complacency is a pretty good proof that we do not know ourselves as well as we should. How near do we come to our ideal man or woman, and what progress are we making in that direction? Let us not go on taking ourselves for granted. This is far too important a matter to leave to chance.

The Friend of all Sufferers.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is a valuable remedy to all those who suffer pain. It holds out hope to veryone and realizes it by stilling suffering everywhere. It is a liniment that has the blessing of half a continent. It is on sale everywhere and can be found wherever enquired for.

FIRST AID TO DISCOURAGEMENT

A successful business man in the days when he was having a hard struggle to make both ends meet, was in the habit of studying the biographies of famous men in his evenings, in order to make up for some of the lacks of his early education. Often when he sat down to his reading he was dejected and discouraged, and under the impression that no one else ever had such a hard time as he. As he read of the difficulties these famous men had encountered and conquered, his own began to shrivel, and by bed-time they had shrunk to the most insignificant proportions.

If you are easily discouraged, read biography. If you think that no one ever had as hard a time as you are having, read the lives of the men whose lives shine like stars in the firmament. The chances are that you will come to the conclusion of the man referred to, that your mountains of difficulty are only little insignificant sand-hills.

WORTH MONEY

Some prominent business concerns hire a man to find fault with them. They realize that sometimes an outsider sees that which is wrong better than those who are too close, and they think the criticism is worth good money. When you young people lose your temper over criticism, you are acting in a rather short-sighted fashion. It is worth money to you to see your defects as an outsider sees them, and when the motive behind the criticism is friendly or unfriendly does not make a particle of difference in the results.

If a business firm will pay a large salary to a man for picking flaws, why should you become angry at some one who does this service for nothing? To know your shortcomings is worth money. Take what criticism is given you and be thankful.

TREE PRUNING

Results which may surprise many practical horticulturists have been obtained by scientific experiments on the Woburn fruit farm, in England. It has been observed that the less a fruit tree is pruned the larger and heavier it becomes, even when allowance is made for wood removed in annual pruning of normal trees. The fruit crops are also increased in the amount of pruning is diminished. The general conclusion is that the less pruning the better as regards growth and fruit. This applies, however, only to healthy and established trees.

ELECTRIC POWER

The amount of power required to operate some domestic machines is small. A plant of sufficent capacity to operate one or two machines often makes it possible to use it for other purposes. Six horsepower will drive a grain elevator or thrash 2,500 bushel of oats in ten hours; three horsepower will make 6,000 pounds of milk into cheese in one day; six horsepower will run a feed mill, grinding twenty bushels of corn an hour; five horse-power will grind from twenty-five to forty bushels of feed, or ten or twelve bushels of ear corn an hour; seven horse-power will drive an eighteen-inch separator, burr mill, corn and cob crusher, and corn sheller, producing from twelve to fifteen bushels of feed an hour, and from five to eight bushels of fine meal; six horsepower will run a heavy apple-grater, grinding and pressing from 200 to 250 bushels of apples an hour; five horsepower will drive a thirty-inch circular saw, producing from fifty to seventy-five cords of stove wood from hard oak in ten hours; six horse-power will saw all the wood four men can pile in cords; twelve horse-power will drive a fifty-inch circular saw, sawing 4,000 feet of oak or 5,000 feet of poplar in a day; ten horse-power will run a sixteen-inch ensilage cutter and blower, and elevate the ensilage into a silo thirty feet high, at the rate of seven tons an hour; one horse-power will pump enough water from a well of ordinary depth to supply a farmhouse and all the buildings.

It testifies for itself.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil needs no testimonials of its power other than itself. Whoever tries it for coughs or colds, for cuts or contusions, for sprains or bruises, for pains in the limbs or body well know that the medicine proves itself and needs no guarantee. This shows why this Oil is in general use.

KEEPING FIT

Nine times out of ten, ill health in young people is something of which to be ashamed. They are out of condition because they sacrifice sleep for pleasure, and are disinclined to take exercise. Also, they eat that which they want regardless of the effect on their indigestion. In other words, they are not well because they are lazy, greedy, and lacking in common sense and self-control.

It is your business to keep fit. If you need a doctor's aid, get it at once before your case becomes unnecessarily serious. Most young people could be well if they cared to take the trouble, and these deserve condemnation rather than commiseration for their ill health.

Miller's Worm Powders attack worms in the stomach and the intestines at once, and no worm can come in contact with them and live. They also correct the unhealthy condition in the digestive organs that invite and encourage worms, setting up reactions that are most beneficial to the growth of the child. They have attested their power in hundreds of cases and at all times are thoroughly trustworthy.

TO GET THE MOST FROM A DOLLAR

For few people who do not know the full value of money to have charge of a charge account is dangerous, and there are few young people in school or just starting as wage earners, who do know the value of money. Of course vast numbers of older people are ignorant, too. There are thousands who will buy an article they will not have to pay for till next month who would not buy it if they had to pay cash. Others have an idea that an extravagant purchase is not bad if the payment can be stretched over a year or two.

Debt, of course, may encourage thrift as in the case of the young couple who buy a house, paying a few hundred dollars down, and arranging for monthly payments on the remainder. This is an investment, however, and quite different from indulging oneself in extravagance. The way to get the most out of a dollar is to wait to spend it until you have it.

Baby's restless nights might be avoided

Scalded skin and other skin troubles are common causes of restlessness, and often could be avoided by careful bathing with Baby's Own Soap.

Its fragrant lather cleanses and heals Baby's skin, and prepares for restful sleep.

THE SUCCESSFUL HOPE CHEST

Judicious selection is the secret of the linen trousseau of modest extent. The articles should be durable in texture and tasteful in design as is the matching and selection of the wood in the cedar chest in which they are tucked away. Rather than have one or two exquisite pieces that are almost to elaborate for moderate use, it is better to make a complete survey of the hope chest, and to make sure that all the fundamentals are first in place. The following list has been compiled by authorities on the linen subject, and is worthy of consideration.

3 2x2 yards table cloths.
1 2x3 yard table cloth.
1 dozen napkins (breakfast size).
2 dozen napkins (dinner size).
1 table pad.
2 hemstitched tray cloths.
2 dozen bedroom towels.
½ dozen bathroom towels.
6 pair hemstitched cotton sheets (double bed size).
3 bedspreads with bolster covers.
2 pair blankets, double.
1 dozen dish towels.
1 dozen glass towels.
1 comforter.
1 luncheon set.
2 dozen tea napkins.

Now that the verdict has been read, and we know the essentials for the chest, let us take a peek at the tempting things which every bride dreams about.

First on the list comes the China luncheon set with its dainty border design in blue. What could be more attractive for the table set for two? For the more elaborate company luncheon, runners of handkerchief linen with inserts of filet may dress the table.

A tea cloth of shadow embroidery is an accessory in which every bride takes great pride when she is entertaining her first guests. Not only does it give the hostess a sense of security but it gives a thrill of satisfaction of the visitor who has come to see how her tea set fits into the home.

Another piece that will be called forth on one of the early at-homes is the luncheon set of Irish linen with orange inserts.

The service cloth for the porch party will not go begging for admiration when made of closely-woven cloth, and decorated in red and blue embroidery of the Russian pheasant shades.

All of the bright colors and festive designs should not be reserved for the social affairs of the cottage. A color effect should be worked out for the kitchen as well. Red and white dust cloths, red outline figures on the glass towels, and a little red house embroidered on the kitchen apron make the hours of baking seem much shorter.

The bathroom finds its spot of color in a purple or yellow guest set. This might consist of bath towel and wash cloth with lavender stripes, and a face towel with embroidered baskets of flowers in shades of purple and lavender. This room must also have its masculine touch, a real linen towel for the cold shower bath. Bottles for lotions to match the color scheme can be decorated with enamelac or sealing wax.

In all the hope-chest planning, consistency should be the prevelant note. The modest or extent of the home, the quality of the furnishings, and the style of the silver and the china should all be taken into consideration. The linen trousseau must not overshadow or be overshadowed. Though it abounds in individuality, it must not go to the point of being obstrusive. With a little forsight and common sense the desperate patching together of odds and ends can be overcome, and a truly worth-while linen supply established.

No child should be allowed to suffer an hour from worms when prompt relief can be obtained in a simple but strong remedy—Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

DON'T RUN ON FLAT TIRES

A flat tire makes hard going. The air you pump into your tires does not seem to amount to much, but it is as essential to a pleasant trip as the gasoline in the tank.

Courtesy is like air in the tire. It does not supply motive power, but it makes the journey comfortable. It cases the jolts. Your education, combined with your natural ability, may carry you forward in life at a wonderfully rapidly rate. Without plenty of gas you are bound to come to a standstill. On the other hand, you may have all the gas you need, and yet feel every bump in the road. It is courtesy that inflats the tire, and makes the going easy.

WOMAN'S GLORY VALUABLE

Few people realize the enormous price paid for human hair of various tints and qualities. Usual prices of good varieties of hair of ordinary color vary from $100 to $250 a pound; while the rarer hues, particularly white and auburn, are much more expensive. For pure white hair there is always a large demand, and the prices paid for the best qualities range from twenty-five to thirty dollars an ounce.—Before the World War a well known dealer sold white hair for $500 per pound.

Next to white hair comes the Titian tint in point of value. A few years ago a well known woman, who was blessed with exquisite red tresses no less than five feet in length, sold three feet of them to a Paris dealer for $5,000. The cutting of the locks was done with a pair of golden shears, which were afterwards presented to the lady.

Most of the fine hair sold is European, and, in normal times, about five hundred thousand pounds is imported into this country from Europe, and twice that amount from China. The latter is cheap and coarse. The best hair comes from the southern part of France, from Italy, and Bohemia; in fact the dealers say that the French hair is the finest quality of all. The demand is constantly increasing. No doubt this is due to the fact that wigs have been brought to a great degree of perfection, and also because of the increase of baldness on the continent.

TOO EASY

When affairs are too easy we lose interest, and when they are too hard we lose courage. We need to meet obstacles in our various endeavors, in order to retain our zest; but of course, if the obstacles are multiplied till there is no possibility of our getting the best of them, our courage slumps, and we have no choice but to give up.

To claim that each one of us is equal to every possible combination of circumstances is foolish, of course. Obstacles may be too much for the most determined, but this happens less often than we might suppose. As a general rule, the difficulties we encounter are no more than enough to keep our enthusiasm alive. Everyone gets desperately tired of work which is too easy, work in which there is nothing to overcome.

TALENT REQUIRED

After the manufacturers have put in a few more controls on the wheel and dash and have added a few dinguses for the feet to manipulate, the only person who will be able to drive a car will be the pipe organists.—Detriot Motor News.

WHEN in need of Chevrolet Service look for the big, blue Trade Mark Sign.

ONE reason Chevrolet owners have sufficient confidence in their car to travel anywhere, is that wherever they go they find Chevrolet Service available.

Fact is, there are over 2,000 Service Stations in Canada showing a sign similar to the one above.—In practically every city, town or village, one can obtain efficient Chevrolet service.

Which, of course, is one more reason why you should consider Chevrolet.

"She Was Too Sick To Try Entrance Exams."

Jeanne was one of the many children in New Ontario who travel miles each day to school. Fair weather or foul, they trudge along the rough roads eager for the little bit of education possible for them. Fifteen years had passed since Jeanne's birth and she had never enjoyed the best of health during that time. Six of these years she had spent in going to school, helping around the house and at odd times working here and there to earn a little money.

One day she was caught in a sleet storm on her way home from school. Before long a terrible cough set in, which finally ended in Consumption. Of course, it was impossible for her to try the entrance examinations. "Another year, perhaps, but certainly not now," said the doctor.

Now she is resting at the Muskoka Hospital for Consumptives. Her pleasing shyness still remains, her curly, fair hair refuses to behave, while her blue eyes with the aid of her lips radiate cheer and hope. "Sure," says Jeanne, "I'm going to High School. Why not?" and we echo, "Why not?" and the doctor says "Why not?" because Jeanne is on the road to Wellville.

Will you help her and others to reach the goal by contributing to the Hospital funds? Gifts may be sent to Hon. W. A. Charlton, President, 233 College Street, Toronto, Ontario.
