Tea Production Today

If the Chinese, who first discovered tea. had realized the possibilities of the trade and had studied the nature and requirements of the plant, China might still be the largest tea producing country. Centuries of neglect, however, stunted the growth and caused the quality to deteriorate. In the mountains of Ceylon and India, tea was found to flourish. Scientific methods of cultivation and manufacture were introduced with remarkable results. Now the finest tea grown in the world and by far the largest quantity comes from these countries. The chorus had triumphantly sung through to the place where the soprano solo takes up the refrain, "I know that my Redemmor liveth." The singer was a beautiful

Her breathing was faultless; her noteplacing perfect. After the final note there was a pause and all eyes were turned to ward the old conductor to catch his look of approval. Great was the surprise, however, when with a look of sorrow the leader said to the singer: "My daughter, you do not really know that your Redeemer liveth, do you?'

She replied: "Why, yes. I think 1 "Then sing it," he cried. "Sing i from your heart. Tell it to me so and all who hear you will know, and know that you know the joy and the power of it."

This time the young woman sang with no thought of herself or of technique and applause from her hearers. She sang the truth that she knew in her heart and experienced in her life, and that she wished to send home to the hearts of her listeners. As the last notes died away there was no wonder at the craftsman's work, but there were quickened heart's that had been moved by the glorious message they had received. As the singer stood
