The Dominion's Liability

The naval policy of the Dominions is being widely discussed in Australia, in South Africa and in Canada as a consequence of the difficulty that has arisen in regard to the British cruiser building programme.

Somewhat of a Similarity

The Acton Town Council has finally balked, thwarted, and flouted the Acton Chamber of Commerce in the matter of the illumination of the Parish Church clock.

One of Ontario's Noblemen at Rest

William Williams, B. A., President of the Collingwood Bulletin, passed away on Tuesday, July 28, full of years.

Canada's Contribution to Public Ownership

Canada's advanced position in the matter of public ownership was impressively brought before the British people by James Simpson, of Toronto, who presided at the Empire Labor Conference which is being held in the British House of Commons last week.

Perpetual Care in Cemetery Signally Successful

The Newmarket Era is very proud of the cemetery in that town, and justly so. In referring to the financial success of its perpetual care system the Era says: "Not only is Newmarket Cemetery noted as being one of the best kept cemeteries in the Province, but it has the unique record of being the first cemetery to have its Endowment Fund deposited with the Provincial Government, thus ensuring safe-keeping and permanent care of lots, because only the interest can be withdrawn."

600,000 Automobiles in Canada—Statistics prepared at Ottawa show that the number of automobiles in Canada have now passed the 600,000 mark for the first time in history.

A tribute to the Southside Tourist Park rapidly becoming a common-sense mark on the part of the motorists who visit the park camping site, was impressed in the Langlois of Burlington, one of the most travelled automobile tourists in Canada.

Evidence points to the fact that this is going to be a good year for the farmer. The crop outlook indicates a splendid harvest.

Without laboring them, it is estimated that the Canadian wheat yield will probably be as much as 365,000,000 bushels of which 343,000,000 will come from the west.

Statistics prepared at Ottawa show that the number of automobiles in Canada have now passed the 600,000 mark for the first time in history.

A WOMAN IN CAMP—Just a woman? old John Quarles repeated. "Yes, women are pretty things in the world, thank God! But I mind one time when I was glad to see the sight of a woman's face."

"One afternoon a party of hunters and Indian fighters rode up to camp. They thought with them a woman. It had been well on to two years since any of us had seen a woman. There were some two dozen of us standing there when she rode down her horse, our mouths open, hats off and knees wobbling something fearful, and there were more coming up from the diggings every minute."

"If a tide-wave ten feet high had come rolling up the mountains it wouldn't likely have made the fluttering among us that one woman did, just looking at us."

"Big Tom Taylor, couldn't wipe his face or brushed his hair—he offered an English waist coat for a clean shirt and a pocket-comb without being able to get so much as the loan of a comb. The ugliest man on the ridge, who had been five planks for a bit of looking-glass two inches square, but not being able to get it, he was rolling up the mountain in a general washing-up and combing and brushing, and his hair was all matted with sweat. About a dozen shaves with their jackknives."

"Before that woman came a body could easily count on two or three knots of hair, but we were so peaceable as butter-pats and blue-mange while she was around. One day Abe Knop-down show, but Abe just took Bill down the corner of the mess hut, and says he quiet and sensible. 'I'll wallop the ground with you.'"

"But then, Abe always was sort of easy-going. 'She was with us more'n a week, and she sewed on buttons and cooked lettuce and patched and sang songs, and had a pleasant word for even the low-downest of us as she passed by. She went away seemed like the whole diggings had lost the use of their teeth, not to say their digestion, for all the dinner that was eat that day.'

THEY KNEW MA—The train had stopped for a few minutes at a station out on the plain, and two or three bare footed little boys and girls had their backs against the depot and their fingers in their mouths, while they stared at the passenger.

Suddenly a boy of about ten years dashed round a corner of the station and called to his brother and sister: "Eh, Joey! Ma says if you ain't Maggie don't come right straight home, she'll—she'll—well, I forget what, but she'll do it, sure, for you know what Ma is when she gets started; no you'd better get home straight off."

"No, indeed!" said Mrs. Salter, indignantly. "They were very neat, quiet people, though they've never had city advantages. We had rooms in the front of the house, on the second story, and the chickens slept somewhere at the back of the house."

"I suppose you went to bed with the chickens while you were away," said one of the neighbors, after Mrs. Salter had returned from her vacation visit to a farm.

"No, indeed!" said Mrs. Salter, indignantly. "They were very neat, quiet people, though they've never had city advantages. We had rooms in the front of the house, on the second story, and the chickens slept somewhere at the back of the house."
