Ontario's Greatest Commercial Benefactor

In the death of Sir Adam Beck, Ontario has lost the greatest commercial benefactor who was ever intrusted with executive power in this province. The late Controller F. S. Spence had a great vision of electric energy for the benefit of the people generally of Ontario. Sir Adam Beck, with admirable prescience, put this vision into practical execution with the result that electric power was made attainable to our people, rank and file, for all purposes of power and heat and illumination, with a facility and at a cost, the ratio of which is unequalled in any other country in the world. The people of this province of ours owe unbounded gratitude for this vision and achievement.

Mental Tests for Children in Elementary Schools In some of the elementary schools to-day, mental tests are made, and guaged by the quickness shown in solving certain problems pictorially. One test, known as the Porteus maze, measures temperament as well as mind. Eleven mazes, progressively graded in difficulty, are printed on separate sheets, and the pupil is told that they show the paths in a garden surrounded by walls. He must find his way out by the quickest route. The showing made depends upon the pupil's ability to work under pressure and to withstand distraction by unessentials in the material or by noises in the room. A cube imitation test volves the touching of four numbered cubes in a certain sequence as indicated by the teacher, the combination of numbers being made more and more difficult. Each test gives a certain score, and by combining the scores the mental age of the pupil is arrived at. The test of London boys and girls between, the ages of eight and thirteen showed some interesting sex differences. The girls excelled in the memory tests and the boys in reasoning.-St. Mary's Journal.
