Neighborhood Jury Says Burt D'Angele Supplied the Fatal Liquor in Halton

D'Angelo, the Hamilton man now awaiting trial on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the deaths of three men at Oakville from poison liquor, was again linked up last Friday evening. A coroner's jury at Oakville that night, inquiring into the creumstances surrounding the death of George Gill, found that wood alcohol was the cause and that Burt D'Angelo had brought the liquor to Gill's home, a fact admitted by D'Angelo himself, according to the evidence of a Hamilton police officer. . That the alcohol which was .responsible for the deaths of so many people in Ontario, and the three persons at Oakville, was smuggled into Canada from the United States, hidden under loads of coal, was the opinnection with the shipment of bootleg liquor. It is stated that the deadly liquor and numerous level crossings by way on the involces. The liquor is said to have been delivered to a notorious which it was assigned.

Mr. White added that the investigation had only begun, and that the along the Niagara border had amax-D'Angelo will probably be placed on trial at the Court House, Milton, today or to-morrow. BALLINAFAD
