PEP

Vigor, vitality, vim and punch—
The courage to act on a sudden hunch
The nerve to tackle the hardest thing
With feet that climb and hands that cling,
And a heart that never forgets to sing,
"That's Pep."

Sand and grit in a concrete base—
A friendly smile on an honest face;
The spirit that helps when another's down,
That knows how to scatter the blackest frown,
That loves its neighbor and loves its town,
"That's Pep."

To say "I will" for you know you can,
To look for the best in every man;
To meet each thundering knock-out blow,
And come back with a laugh because you know,
You'll get the best of the whole blame show,
"That's Pep."

TWENTY YEARS AGO

From the issue of the Free Press of Thursday, September 20, 1906

Turnips are already being shipped from this section.

Mr. Elisha Lane has sold his farm lot 20, con. 3, Esquesing, to Mr. John MacIsaac.

The rink promoters are already making preparations for the coming frosty months, and are getting things in readiness for an early opening. They are evidently going to do their utmost to assure a successful season.

Acton's Lodge of Oddfellows was in Toronto yesterday taking part in the great I. O. O. F. celebration. They went in good force and took the band with them.

Reeve Swackhamer and the Council are taking steps to widen Mill Street, from the jog at John to Main Street.

Mr. H. H. Worden, who now lives in Portage La Prairie, has disposed of his house and lot on Church Street to Mr. Wm. Wiles, the present tenant. The two double brick houses on Young Street, belonging to the Elliot estate have been sold to J. H. Denny, Erin.

Every school child in Esquesing will be given a free ticket to attend the fair.

The annual Harvest Home was held at St. Alban's Church on Thursday evening and on Sunday. The church was decorated with fruit and flowers. Rev. Wm. Walsh, of Brampton, was the preacher on Thursday evening and the Rector, Rev. Matthew Wilson took charge of the Sunday services.

A team of Acton junior baseball players went to Erin on Friday last, and played a game with the Erin Juniors, at the Scotchmen's demonstration held there on Friday. They defeated Erin by a score of 10 to 6.

A FEW MISTAKES

People do not often make the mistake of giving too much. A certain lady who not long ago entered a Glasgow church was an exception to the rule, at least she thought so. She passed the collection box at the door and dropped in sixpence. Then she took her seat in the church and waited until the preacher appeared.

To her disappointment the officiating minister was not the Doctor H. whom she had come to hear. On inquiry she found that she had entered the wrong church. It was not yet too late to hear the preacher of her first choice, but the sixpence was another matter. To leave it in the box would be clear loss. The lady was equal to the occasion. Slowly descending the gallery stairs she requested the sixpence back, and received it from the officiating elder.

More to be excused was the shoemaker's apprentice of whom Christian Work tells. He possessed but a penny and a florin, and while in attendance at a country church dropped the florin into the plate in mistake for the penny. Discovering his mistake, he rose, left the pew, deliberately fished out his silver piece, and put in the copper coin instead.

A student attending an Edinburgh church put a half-crown into the plate by mistake, and the elder stoutly refused to give it back. He was determined to be even with that elder, however. For thirty Sundays he attended the church, and persistently allowed the plate to pass him. Then he was content. At a penny a Sunday the account was now even between him and the elder. Perhaps the thirty sermons did him little good, although they cost him but a penny apiece.

BAD AND GOOD NEWS

Bad news travels faster than good news. Let a man be converted at a church and there is not much stir, but let some resident be convicted of a crime and the news leaps by word of mouth from one end of the community to the other. How thoughtlessly unkind we sometimes are when neighbors of our suffer misfortune. We are prone to consider the ways of others when we should be watching our own step. Troubles are bound to come to us in some shape or form and what we say about other folks today may apply to us to-morrow. What folks say of one another sometimes hurts more than anything they could have done. Bad or good news becomes exaggerated and distorted with peddling. When the news is good it makes no difference how exaggerated it becomes for it will do no positive harm. But bad news, given wings, may bring sorrow and ruin upon people who are certainly not deserving of such a punishment. Just stop before you are about to let out a bit of bad news. Stop and think a moment and see if you can't think of something good to say in place of it. The chances are ten to one that you can and that you will!

ONE ON WIFIE

The aviator's wife was taking her first trip with her husband. "Wait a moment, George," she said, "I am afraid we'll have to go down again."

"What's wrong?" asked the husband.

"I believe I've dropped one of the pear buttons off my jacket. I think I can see it glittering on the ground."

"Keep your seat, my dear," said the aviator. "That's a lake."

Worms in children, if they be not attended to, cause convulsions, and often death. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator will protect the children from these distressing afflictions.

USING MORE ELECTRICITY

The amount of electricity generated in Canada for Canadian use during the first five months of 1926 surpassed that produced in the corresponding months in 1925 by 17 per cent. and that of the corresponding period of 1923 by 38 per cent. Increased growth in Canadian use of electric power is indicative of increasing industrial activities since a much larger proportion of the electric power generated in Canada is used for industrial purposes than in more thickly settled countries where there is a larger proportional amount used for lighting. The rapid increase in power generation in Canada is due in some measure to the spread of home use of electric power, but in larger measure to the rapid installation of turbines for industrial use.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FOR SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 19

ENFORCING LAW

General Lesson Title.—Obedience to Law.

Scripture Lesson.—Lev. 26.

Reference Material.—Jer. 35: 1-10.

Golden Text.—Drink no wine nor strong drink, thou, nor thy sons with thee.—Lev. 10: 9.

Devotional Reading.—Rom. 12: 4-16 (beginning with "Even").

The Text Explained

"Similar exhortations are found at the conclusion of other codes of law, as in Exod. 23: 20f, and frequently in Deuteronomy, for example, in the 28th chapter. The leading ideas and phraseology are the same in all. There is the same insistence on the holy character of Jehovah, the same demand for holiness on the part of his people, the same promises on condition of obedience, and the same warnings against being led astray by the evil example of the idolatrous nations among whom they dwell" (Dummelow, p. 100).

3-13. A beautiful picture of material prosperity, as the reward of keeping God's laws.

14-20. An exceedingly impressive and dramatic picture of cumulative misfortune, as the result of disobedience to God's laws.

Lesson Themes

A Word of Explanation. The passage from Leviticus, which is given as our lesson material for this week, gives a description of material rewards and punishments which will come respectively to those who obey and to those who disobey the statutes and ordinances heretofore given in Leviticus and Exodus. Its immediate reference is to Israel and the Mosaic legislation. For our own day its actual teaching might well be summarized thus: The results of law-keeping are good; and the outcome of lawbreaking is always evil. Using the lesson in this accommodated sense we may consider certain things concerning the observance of law to-day. Note if you will the three points contained in the following paragraphs:

Law as the Expression of God's Will. God in His wisdom has set before His people laws of conduct for their guidance. We should be helpless without them. They furnish the standards according to which men must mold their ways of living. As men develop, the laws themselves change; through the agency of His faithful servants in all ages, God has given higher standards, new ideals; but the law of the time is to be reverenced by the time. It remains true that happiness lies in obedience to the law. On the other hand, woe betide him who in his selfishness follows his own devices! Physical punishment, mental punishment, the ruination of his soul await the man who sins against the light which God has given him.

The Necessity of Lawfulness. We have seen recently in various parts of the world what chaos cometh to nations when the established standards are brushed aside and that which universal opinion has agreed upon as right is cast away. There can be no lasting order, no enduring happiness under such conditions. Law and order—the foundation upon which all nations are built—must be regarded and upheld by all right-minded citizens.

Loyalty and Law Here Now. The Law is the Law. If men start discriminating between laws and ignoring those which they do not like they break down that fine sentiment of respect for law which should control every civilized nation. This country's greatest domestic problem to-day is law enforcement—the enforcement of the Prohibition Amendment and the Temperance Act. As these stand they are part and parcel of our country's law. We have the right and the legal privilege to work for their modification or repeal, if we think them wrong. But if we disobey them we are lawbreakers, destroyers of law and order. The question resolves into this: Shall a man set his personal desires above the welfare of his country?

For Study and Discussion

What results follow obedience to law. What results follow disobedience? How does lawlessness affect a nation? What is our great present problem? What is the right attitude for any respectable citizen at this crisis? What other lessons for the present day are contained in our scripture lesson?

GEMS OF THOUGHT

The growing good of the world is partly dependent on unhistoric acts; and that things are not so ill with you and me as they might have been is half owing to the number who live faithfully a hidden life and rest in unvisited tombs.—George Eliot.

Will it matter at last whether you have been rich or just lived from hand to mouth? What will the Master say? Ah! that is the question.—Dr. J. B. Shaw.

A wise business man counsels young men who are seeking success to throw overboard envy and ill-will as worse than useless ballast.

Intercession is sympathy with God. No one more desires the return of the prodigal than his own father.—I. O. R.

Confidence in your own powers is not conceit, but trust in God who gave you those powers.

Hard and soft, corns both yield to Holloway's Corn Remover, which is entirely safe to use, and certain and satisfactory in its actions.

THE SPIRIT OF YOUTH

Some one has said, "If there is anything I like better than to-day, it is to-morrow," and you have a feeling that you would like to make his acquaintance. You have no such impression about the person who is partial to yesterday, who prefers the past to either the present or the future. These latter are the bitterest critics of everything around them. "It was not that way once," is their constant cry. Since everything that is suffers in their estimation compared with that which has been, they are naturally discontented, gloomy, depressing associates.

The persons who love to-day and look forward to to-morrow, keep up the morale of the human race. They are cheerful over events as they are, and hopeful that they will be better. It is the spirit of youth, real youth, unspoiled by morbid questioning. It is the spirit that keeps hearts eternally young.

Asthma Doesn't Wear Off Alone.—Do not make the mistake of waiting for asthma to wear away by itself. While you are waiting the disease is surely gathering a stronger foothold and you live in danger of stronger and yet stronger attacks. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy taken early, will prevent incipient conditions from becoming chronic and saves hours of awful suffering.

ANCIENT AND MODERN MEET IN ROCKIES

Upper—Leather spring coach used to travel in Rockies, before the motor car age.

Lower Left—Modern sight-seeing cars of to-day.

Lower Right—Motor car of 1902, used in the Canadian Rockies.

As the evening shadows began to lengthen across the Bow Valley in the Canadian Rockies on the last day of May, a diminutive, time-worn, rust-bitten, two-cylinder motor car of 1902 vintage chugged through the portals of the Rockies into Banff, there to join the throng of motor cars on Banff Avenue and unwittingly form a historic pageant indicating the developments in motor transportation during twenty-four years.

As it happens at such times, the shades of the past arise to refresh the memories of old-timers and bring forth reminiscences indicating the progress made within recent years. And so with the shades of the past evoked by one of the first "horseless carriages," mingling with its glittering brothers of the modern age.

When it too glittered with newness the mountain valleys knew not the odor of gasoline and the ordered roar of the exhaust, the old-timer onlookers said. No fine pavements such as at the present grace the streets of the famous resort, smoothed out the irregularities. The dirt surface of Banff Avenue knew only pedestrians, saddle and pack-ponies, and the iron tired wheels of the lumbering leather spring coach, used as the first sight-seeing vehicle in the Rockies.

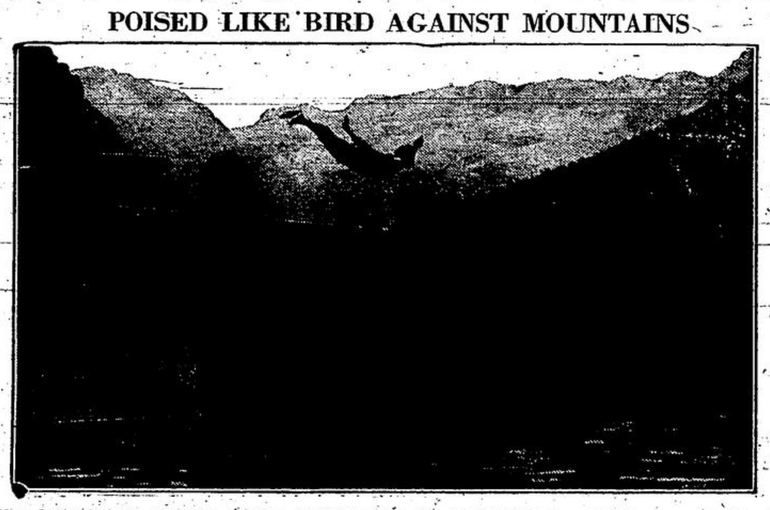
In 1916, the Canadian Government opened the park gates to motor travel. In 1925, the motor sight-seeing equipment used to carry tourists and passengers by motor through the Rockies from the Banff Springs Hotel to the chain of other Canadian Pacific railway hotels and bungalow camps, numbered a hundred modern motor and sight-seeing busses. In 1926, the system carried 220,000 passengers a total of approximately a million miles in three of Canada's mountain national parks. Thirty-six thousand motor cars, carrying 126,000 holidayers, passed through the gates of the Kootenay and Banff National Parks during the same season.

On June 16, the new Lake Louise to Field Highway was opened to the motorists, uniting the three national parks by motor road and increasing the grand total of modern highway in the mountains to approximately 230 miles. But when the diminutive motor vehicle was the latest creation in automobiles, the mileage of roads in the mountains could be counted on the fingers of both hands.

The day following its arrival in Banff, R. Stacey Kelso, Washington, filled the gas tank of the 1902 car and set out over the Banff-Windermere Highway enroute for home. He is driving the car from Edmonton, Alberta, where it recently won the prize in the light car class of the old car contest, conducted by the Edmonton Journal.

In crossing the two summits on the highway, a modern car was called into action to aid the ancient vehicle over the top. By afternoon it reached Radium Bungalow Camp, at the south end of Kootenay National Park, where the owner called it a day after covering ninety miles.

POISED LIKE BIRD AGAINST MOUNTAINS



Miss Lydia Fulcher, champion of the Calgary Swimming Club, has shown Lake Louise, its yellow, orange, and white poppies, its distant mountains and gay tourist throngs, how the swan dive should be done. She is a true mermaid of the Canadian West, schooled in the acquatic art in the Canadian government's great pool, the Cave and Basin, at Banff, where she has many times swum since her youngest days.

Miss Fulcher became champion last year at the Banff Winter Carnival, when swimmers dived into the Cave and Basin, filled with hot sulphur water from sulpher Mountain, while the temperature outside through the open roof of the Basin was sinking below the zero mark. The fancy diver has also demonstrated her ability as a speed swimmer. The above photograph shows Miss Fulcher poised in mid-air in the most graceful of dives, with an excellent view of Mount Victoria in the distance—some six and one-half miles away. With the diver is shown also the glacier as well as the foreground in sharp detail despite the fact that the exposure was timed to the infinitesimal fraction of second.

The new pool, situated at Lake Louise, is one of the most popular in the Canadian Pacific Rockies. It is about 90 feet in length, and eight feet in depth at the deepest point. There are springboards at various heights to suit the expert or amateur diver, and the water is warm enough to attract those not wishing to venture into the cooler depths of Lake Louise itself.

FACT AND COMMENT

Some people save for a rainy day and drink it all up as soon as it starts to sprinkle.

Hate is the microscope of faults and weaknesses. Love is the microscope of our good qualities.

Canada's Indians last year reaped over a million bushels of grain and bred 50,000 head of livestock on their lands.

A Power of its Own.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has a subtle power of its own. All who have used it know this and keep it by them as the most valuable liniment available. Its uses are innumerable and for many years it has been prized as the leading liniment for man and beast.

IT SEEMED LOGICAL

One day at dinner a physician explained to his little daughter where meats come from. "They take a cow and kill it," he said, "remove the hide, cut up the flesh, cook it, and that is the beef you eat."

The little girl's face showed her astonishment, and as her father went on to tell of pork, mutton and chicken, her amazement grew until she could restrain herself no longer.

"O papa, papa," she broke forth, "when they make angel cake do, they kill an angel?"

WILSON'S FLY PADS

Will kill many times more flies for the money than any other fly killer. Each pad will kill flies all day, every day, for three weeks. At all Grocers, Druggists and General Stores—10c and 25c per package.

DEFINING AN EPIDEMIC

The inspector was paying his annual visit to the village school and was putting the children through their paces.

They did quite well until he asked them the meaning of the word "epidemic." Nobody knew, so he had to help them out.

"An epidemic is something that spreads. Now, can anybody give me an example of epidemic?"

There was a long silence.

"Can no one tell me?" said the inspector at last. "Remember, something that spreads."

Then came a small voice: "Jam, sir."

The Oil of the People.—Many oils have come and gone, but Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil continues to maintain its position and increase its sphere of usefulness each year. Its sterling qualities have brought it to the front and kept it there, and it can truly be called the oil of the people. Thousands have benefited by it and would use no other preparation.

BROWN AND GREEN

Bob is an old negro janitor in one of the New England colleges, and through long service has become part of the institution. Indeed, says a writer in Lippincott's Magazine, Bob secretely believes that he outranks the president of the college in importance.

He is shrewd and quick-witted, and a ready match for the students who joke with him. One day he had burned off some of the dead grass in the college campus, when a freshman came along and said:

"Well, Bob, that grass is just the color of your face."

"Yes, sah," said Bob, suavely; "but dat don't matter. In about three weeks it'll be jes' de color o' yo' face."

Many infants are infested by worms which cause great suffering, and if not promptly dealt with may cause constitutional weaknesses difficult to remedy. Miller's Worm Powders will clear out the stomach and bowels of worms, and will so act upon the system that there will be no reoccurrence of the trouble. And not only this, but they will repair the injuries to the organs that worms cause and restore them to soundness.

THE MONEY-WORTH'S WORTH

Mr. N., a struggling lawyer in a small town in Ohio, received a call from a farmer who wanted legal advice.

Mr. N. took down a much-used volume from his small bookcase, and gave the required advice, for which he charged his client the modest sum of three dollars.

His client handed him a five-dollar bill. With a troubled look Mr. N. took it. He flushed in the face as he passed his fingers nervously all through his pockets, and his embarrassment increased as he continued his search among the papers on his desk.

"Well," said he, taking down the law-book again, and turning over the pages, "I'll give you two more dollars' worth of advice."

McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets Fine For Thin Underdeveloped Kids

Children Love Them Because They Are Sugar Coated and as Easy to Take as Candy

It's your duty, Mother, to see that the frail, peaked, sickly youngster grows up to be strong in body, keen in mind and robust in health.

Extract from the livers of the lowly codfish are the health, weight and the strength-producing vitamines that are found in McCoys Cod Liver Extract Tablets, which are sold by pharmacists all over North and South America.

Doctors know about them and so does the druggist, and if your children need building up ask for these tablets to-day if you want to give your loved ones a good appetite and put pounds of good healthy flesh on their bones. But be sure to get McCoy's.

They are not expensive—60 Tablets—60 cents, and if you are not pleased with the improvement after 30 days—your money back.

A very sickly child, aged 9, gained 12 pounds in seven months and is strong and healthy.

One skinny woman gained 9 pounds in 24 days.
