Rainfall Record for August and September
The rainfall for the month of September, as recorded by the Physics Department of the University of Toronto, was 5.31 inches. Last year it was considerably less, 3.34 inches, and the average for the last thirty-eight years has been 2.53. August showed the highest record ever known in this part of Canada, when the precipitation was 4.55 inches.

No "Lady of the Snows" Here
"I think if any of our English friends are looking for a 'Lady of the Snows' in the open air on the plaza, they would regard Kipling's 'Lady of the Snows' as rather a misnomer," said Dr. Farmer to the Press "Times" on Monday evening, as he and Mrs. Farmer were out for a walk in the breezes of that evening at their home.

Where the Milk Bottles Go
Carelessness of the citizens of Woodstock in returning milk bottles to the dairy company when empty was demonstrated very forcibly when the Ontario Dairy Company announced that as a result of a contest held, in which prizes were offered for the boys and girls who brought in the most milk bottles not in current use. No less than 2,312 bottles were handed in, and the great majority of them were found lying in cellars and attics, while many others were in use as flower vases, pickle bottles and wine containers.

A Firm Believer
Speaking at the luncheon to the Simcoe and North York Press Association, recently held at the Hotel McEwen, Mr. J. P. Byrnes, formerly manager of the T. Long Company, Collingwood's largest dry goods store, declared that he was a firm believer in advertising. He had, he said, very carefully watched the effects of his advertising while in the retail business, and had come to the conclusion that between 75 and 80 per cent of the customers of his store were brought in by advertising.

Difficult to Eradicate the Corn Borer
The following from the Brussels Post was passed by the committee of this district who depends on the growth of corn, is contained in the admission of Ontario to the Agricultural Department that the corn borer is here to stay and cannot be eradicated. It will not be so easy, after all, for other crops may pay better in the end. Down in the land of Dixie a grateful farmer erected a monument to the boll weevil. The prevalence of this pest caused the farmer to turn from the cotton to a main crop and to the end of the cotton, which brought cash and prosperity to the town.

"London 500,000"
London, England, has just installed its 500,000th telephone. The instrument was connected up recently in the Press Gallery of the House of Commons, which, strange to say, has hitherto been provided with telephone service. In this hall has been installed London's 500,000th telephone. It is a standard pedestal instrument and has attached to its base a silver plate inscribed: "This is the 500,000th telephone connected with the London Telephone Service, July 1st, 1926." London's telephones have increased 100 per cent in the last ten years. In the same period, Bell telephones in Ontario and Quebec have increased about 145 per cent.

How the Oats May be Saved
Oats and alfalfa, which have been damaged by excessive rain may yet be turned into palatable and valuable feed, according to Prof. Lester Stevenson, of the O. A. C., Guelph. Prof. Stevenson recalls a season in the Fraser Valley, B. C., in which the damage was more severe than in Ontario this year, and the crops were saved by the use of certain chemicals. The entire oat crop was lost in the Fraser Valley, and the alfalfa crop was almost entirely lost. Prof. Stevenson says that the oat crop might do the same thing in Ontario, and that the alfalfa crop might be saved by the use of certain chemicals. He suggests that Ontario farmers might do the same thing in the Fraser Valley, and that the alfalfa crop might be saved by the use of certain chemicals.

Tell Us the News
Many good items of news are lost to the newspaper because of the failure of people, who hesitate to tell the reporters of matters concerning themselves. It is not that they do not want to appear in print, but that they are afraid of being published themselves. Forward this in the wrong file. From the reporter's standpoint, the man who will stop a newspaper reporter on the street and inform him that he has seen away to some other town, that he is going to get married or his wife entertained friends or presented him with a new suit, is the best man alive. May his likeness increase throughout the earth. If you have done anything mean or disagreeable to any newspaper, please to tell it, for there are already plenty of people who will do that for you. It is the good things about yourself and your neighborhood that the newspaper man wants you to give him.

BOYHOOD INSPIRED MY PIRATE FILM
Friends frequently ask me how it is that I happened to make a picture dealing with boyhood in the heyday of the Spanish Main, as did "The Black Pirate." Somehow to me it seems the most natural thing in the world that I should, for I have been interested in pirate lore and stories. I recall as a boy how we used to play at being pirates, and invariably I wanted to be cast as Captain Kidd.

As a matter of fact I had definitely planned on doing a pirate picture for quite a number of years. The difficulty was to locate a suitable story. Then when I read "The Black Pirate" I knew I had the material I wanted. Originally, "The Black Pirate" was scheduled for production preceding "The Tiger of Bengal." But, however, I realized that the story was not suitable for a picture, taking the research department into account that several years of preliminary work would be necessary before we could actually commence the production, so I had to abandon it for the time being.

We also had to build 18th century galleons, and see to it that their rigging and accoutrements were authentic. The research department was particularly busy in securing the plans of the "Wonderland Theatre, Acton, on Friday.

The beginning of hardship is like the first taste of bitter food—it seems as if it were unbearable; yet, if there is nothing else to eat, it is necessary to take another bite and find it possible to go on.—George Elliot.

TRAGIC DEATH OF A ROCKWOOD MAN
Succumbed to Injuries Sustained by Motor at Thornton

Word was received here on Monday of the death at Thornton of Daniel Mitchell, prominent resident of Rockwood, who succumbed to injuries received when he was hit by a motor car while crossing a street in Thornton.

Mr. Mitchell was widely known throughout the district. He went to the school of pharmacy at Hamilton, Ontario, where he originated the private telephone system, of which he later became president, and which is now the largest of its kind in Ontario. He took a great interest in politics, being a staunch Liberal.

He survived by his widow, two sons, George C. of the Toronto Police Department, and Charles H., who is attending the School of Pharmacy at Toronto, and two daughters, Mrs. V. Fry of Thornton, Ont., and Mrs. W. H. of Hillsburg, Ont. He was the last one of a family of five.

The body was taken to Rockwood, and the funeral held there on Tuesday at Everton Cemetery.
