

THE MAN WHO LOVES A GARDEN

The man who loves a garden... Will never have it harden... Oh, if you have a garden...

THE OLD MAN... OF THE... CREEK...

REMINISCENCES, 1857-1927

Full three score years and ten have passed... Since first my eyes did see the light...

THE DEAN'S LESSON

Jonathan Swift, the Dean lived a well known to fame, dearly loved a joke...

OLD FOES IN NEW PLACES

The rat is a great danger to the health and the general well-being of the community...

CANTANKEROUS UNCLE JAKE

"Uncle Jake" was one of the characters of Bunbury. He was a dear old fellow...

A FREEZE-OUT

Said a bald-headed man to a waitress: "See here, young woman, my cocoa's cold..."

THE TIBS-IF-I-HAD-EATEN PLAN

In these gloomy days of high prices, anxiety for families are eager for seeking helpful hints...

SAVED BY SHEER PLUCK

The Rev. Joseph J. Tulejick, for nearly fifty years pastor of the Anglican Church in Hart...

NOT LOOKING FOR TROUBLE

Several years ago the government forbade anyone among the Indians an order that was issued...

IT'S MOSTLY ENDS

"See that Irene has a bow drawn," "Yes, she made it from odds and ends..."

SEEING ALL AND BEING NOTHING

To ride in a railway-car and gaze across the side at your fellow passengers is almost to become convinced that life is no longer worth living...

THREADED FOR THE BEACON

Henrik Ibsen, although not a man to be approached by a difficult problem, found one once that, according to Erik Lie in 'The Reminiscences of Henrik Ibsen'...
