IDEAL PREACHING

He held the lamp of truth that day
So low that none could miss the way,
And yet so high to bring in sight
That picture fair "The Worlds Great Light."
That, gazing up the lamp between—
Too hard that held it scarce was seen.

He held the pitcher, stooping low,
The sins of little ones below.
Then raised it to the weary saint
And bade him drink when sick and faint:
They drank—the pitcher thus between—
The hand that held it scarce was seen.

He blew the trumpet soft and clear,
That trembling sinners need not fear,
And then with louder note and bold,
To raze the walls of Satan's hold:
The trumpet coming thus between,
The hand that held it scarce was seen.

But when the Captain says "Well done,
Thou good and faithful servant; come,
Lay down the pitcher and the lamp,
Lay down the trumpet, leave the camp,"
The weary hand will then be seen,
Clasped in those pierced ones—naught between.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

From the Issue of The Free Press of Thursday, September 8, 1907

Coal is selling at $7 in Guelph.

A new steam boiler is being installed by Messrs. W. H. Storey & Son.

J. B. Lake offers for sale his lot and barn on the corner of Church and Elgin Streets.

Mr. Warren Dayfoot, of Georgetown, was in his old place in the Methodist Sunday School Orchestra on Sunday afternoon.

At the recent examinations for Junior Matriculation, James Lawson passed in nine subjects.

Mr. E. R. Swackhamer has disposed of his outfitting business to Mr. Geo. Wallace, ticket agent of the G. T. R.

Turnip shipping season opened on Tuesday. W. J. Akins, Nassagaweya, brought in the first load and they were an unusually fine sample for early turnips.

BORN

SWACKHAMER—At St. Thomas, on August 26, 1907, to Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Swackhamer, a son.

MARRIED

GAMBLE-CHRISTIE — On Wednesday, August 26, 1907, by Rev. R. J. M. Glassford, assisted by Rev. Dr. Wardrope and Rev. W. G. Wilson, Wm. Paul Gamble, B. S. A., to Jean Telford Christie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Christie.

HORE-HAGEY—At the residence of the bride's parents, Preston, on Wednesday, September 4, 1907, by Rev. G. W. Barker, assisted by Rev. A. H. Hore, B. A., brother of the groom, and Rev. M. Wilson, of Zion, Dr. A. L. Hore, of Acton, to Ethel Edith, daughter of Mr. Joseph H. Hagey.

DIED

STEWART—In Esquesing, on Sunday, September 1, 1907, Annie McLean, wife of James Stewart, aged 40 years.

JOHNSON—At his home in Johnstown, N. Y., on Friday, August 30, 1907, Hector Johnson, aged 32 years.

DEFINITIONS OF HOME

The London Tid-Bits offers a prize for the best definition of home. Here are some of the best definition of home. Here are some of the best of 5,000 answers sent in:

The golden setting in which the brightest jewel is "mother."

The only spot on earth where the faults and failings of fallen humanity are hidden under the mantle of charity.

A little hollow scooped out of the windy hill of the world, where we can be sheltered from its cares and annoyances.

Home is a central telegraph office of human love, into which runs innumerable wires of affection, many of which, though extending thousands of miles, are never disconnected from the one great terminus.

A Prime Dressing for Wounds.—In some factories and workshops carbolic acid is kept for use in cauterizing wounds and cuts sustained by the workmen. For better to keep on hand a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It is just as quick in action and does not scar the skin or burn the flesh.

YES, DEAR!

The teacher had been giving a very graphic account of the reindeer, its haunts, habits and uses. One boy, however, was not paying the slightest attention, so the teacher asked—

"Now, what is the use of the reindeer?"

The startled urchin looked up and said:

"It makes everything in the garden lovely, teacher."

Asthma Cannot Last when the greatest of all asthma specifics is used. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy assuredly deserves this exalted title. It has to its credit thousands of cases which other preparations had failed to benefit. It brings help to even the most severe cases and brings the patient to a condition of blessed relief. Surely suffering from asthma is needless when a remedy like this is so easily secured.

TAKING THE CENSUS OF GRIZZLY BEARS

Bella Coola, B. C., Man Undertakes Strange Task which will Interest Big Game Hunters

One of the strangest attempts at taking a census is now being made by Andrew Widsden, of Bella Coola, B. C., according to information received by the Canadian National Railway officials at Prince Rupert, B. C. At the request of Harlan I. Smith, of the National Museum of Canada, Mr. Widsden is taking a census of the grizzly bear population of some eleven valleys, along the fiords which are included in the "Norway of America" traversed by the steamship journey between Prince Rupert and Vancouver. The coast line between these two ports is a noted big game hunting spot, and attracts many grizzly hunters each year from all sections of the continent as well as from other parts of the world. In order that it may be known to what extent grizzlies roam in these territories, trappers and hunters in this region, which is in and about Mackenzie Park, named for the famous adventurer-explorer, have been asked to make a careful record of the number of grizzlies they encounter on their journeys through the forested slopes of the mountains. This work has been going on for some time, and the reports from the "men of the woods" are now in the hands of Mr. Widsden, who is compiling them and will shortly announce the result.

Muscular Rheumatism Subdued.—When one is a sufferer from muscular rheumatism he cannot do better than to have the region rubbed with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Let the rubbing be brisk and continue until ease is secured. There is more virtue in a bottle of it than can be fully estimated.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FOR SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 4

General Lesson Title—Solomon's Wise Choice.

Scripture Lesson—1 Kings 3: 4-15.

Golden Text—

Happy is the man that findeth wisdom
And the man that getteth understanding.—Prov. 3: 13.

Devotional Reading—Psal. 6: 2-10; (ending with "all men").

The Text Explained

4.—The King—Solomon (Peaceable), son of David and Bathsheba. He was a very young man at his accession to the throne. Gibeon—an ancient shrine, which had not yet been superseded by Jerusalem as the supreme centre of the religious life of the nation. High place—The Amorites and Canaanites had worshipped their gods on the summits of hills; and, when the Israelites came into the land they imitated the custom of the old inhabitants and worshipped upon "high places"—in many instances they even appropriated the former heathen shrines for the worship of Jehovah.

5.—In a dream—The shrine at Gibeon was regarded as the seat of an oracle. It was supposed that, if, after offering sacrifice, the worshipper slept at the shrine, Jehovah might visit him in a dream. Solomon fulfilled the requirements and was rewarded with this dream. God said—In the dream. Naturally we owe the account to Solomon's memory of the event.

6.—Thou hast given him a son—A son to perpetuate his line, was one of the greatest blessings that God might give to an ancient Israelite. Particularly did this apply in the case of one who had founded an empire and who wished his life-work to be preserved.

7.—A little child—This statement is not to be taken literally; it is typical Oriental exaggeration. Solomon was probably about twenty years of age. I know not how to go out or come in—The old Hebrews regarded all life as a matter of "going out and coming in"—birth and death; morning and evening; a journey and the return; the undertaking and the completion of any enterprise. So Solomon's words meant: "I do not know the right way to do anything."

8.—Solomon's idea of "a great people" was of course influenced by the tiny kingdoms of his time. The empire of David and Solomon, including all its tributaries, was about 400 miles North and South, by 200 miles East and West.

9.—Heart—The Hebrews regarded the heart as the seat of the intelligence; they said "heart" where we would say "brain."

11-12.—We should bear in mind that this is God's promise as Solomon dreamed it.

15.—He came to Jerusalem—His capital. Stood before the ark—He bore in mind his father's plan to make Jerusalem the religious centre of the kingdom. Made a feast—In celebration of his accession and of the good omen of his dream.

Lesson Themes

God's Offer.—How our childish imagination used to thrill as we came to the point in the story where the fairy godmother gave to the hero the privilege of asking and receiving his wish! Again the imagination is stirred at the picture of the young king, Solomon, with all the glory of his father's successful reign behind him and the still greater glory of vast possibilities before him, hearing in his dream the voice of the Almighty: "Ask what I shall give thee." Solomon's dream is typical of that which comes to every youth, when the playtime of childhood is being replaced by the large aspirations and visions of achievement of young manhood and young womanhood. It is the time that desires to dare, and to do. Childish irresponsibility is passing. God sets before us an open book, and says: "What record will you write? Which way of life do you choose?" We are now free agents and upon our decision hangs unmeasured happiness or sorrow.

The Gift of Wisdom.—Considered by itself, the choice which Solomon made in his dream was ideal. Wisdom or rather intelligence, sound common sense, properly balanced judgment is a guide to all the other blessings of life. Moreover, true wisdom is God's special gift. "If any of you lacketh wisdom, let him ask of God, who giveth to all liberally and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him." (James 1: 5-6.)

The Silly Wise Man.—Question naturally arises as to the true appraisal of Solomon's character. What shall we say of his widely famed wisdom? (a) Solomon in a dream asked God for wisdom and was told that he should receive it. Inasmuch as Solomon made his choice in a dream, Solomon himself must be accepted as the sole authority for this statement. As he had the dream, he must have been the one who told about it. (b) Solomon's reputation for wisdom seems to have been based on cleverness—a ready wit in little every-day affairs and a good knowledge of human nature. He was highly educated and had a vast store of information about all sorts of things. He showed great ability in the utterance of epigrams, wise sayings, proverbs, such as the Oriental mind has ever delighted in. He is to be credited with having started the collection of wise sayings which ultimately grew into our Book of Proverbs. (c) The building of the Temple was indeed commendable, but the idea originated with David, not with Solomon. Moreover, it is to be noted that Solomon, who indeed gave seven years to the building of a House of God, spent thirteen years in the erection of a palace for himself. (d) Solomon's luxurious extravagance led him into unwise and oppressive taxation. This tyranny was rendered much worse by the fact that he especially exempted his own tribe Judah from the burdens that he laid upon all the rest of the nation. This short-sighted and unjust policy led directly to the destruction of his kingdom. (e) He was so extravagant that he found it necessary to borrow from Hiram of Tyre, and ultimately had to give up to that heathen king several Israelite towns in order to pay his debt. (f) Although a tyrant at home, he appears to have been notably weak in his dealings with other nations. Countries which David had conquered, rebelled and were not put down. Solomon's fine army, with its great equipment of horses and chariots, was used seemingly only for display. (g) The crowning folly of his career was that he not only had a vast harem but that he permitted his heathen wives to lead him into the worship of their idols. Well may it be said of him, as was said of Charles II. of England:

"Here lies our sovereign lord the King,
Whose word no man relies on.
He never said a foolish thing,
And never did a wise one."

For Study and Discussion

What choice did Solomon dream that God set before him? Does God set such a choice before everybody? What does the Bible mean by "wisdom?" How can we find the fullest wisdom? Does the record of Solomon's career agree with his reputation? What does his "wisdom" appear to have consisted in? Why did he fail so miserably after making such a good start? Are you moved by the desire to make the most of yourself, or to get the most for yourself?

TRAVEL IN EFFIGY ON PIONEER RAILWAY

Upper—The figures that sat in conference for three weeks in Vancouver during Diamond Jubilee weeks.

Lower — Being unpacked at Vancouver.

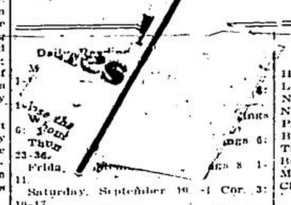
Travelling in effigy on the Railway that made possible the union of the Canadian provinces, the Fathers of Confederation recently journeyed from Toronto to Vancouver via the Canadian Pacific Railway. Their trip was part of the programme of a Vancouver department store in connection with the Diamond Jubilee Celebrations.

The "Fathers" were sculptured in Toronto by Merle Foster after months of research among the archives at Ottawa. Little did these stalwarts dream that reproductions of themselves would travel in far greater comfort than their real selves could command six decades ago.

Every consideration was given for their welfare, their faces were carefully protected with soft gauze, their bodies swathed in the best of excellator. They travelled de luxe in individual cradles wrapped in chilling paper—dustproof and exclusive.

On arrival carpenters carefully helped them from their resting places and brushed their clothes as assiduously as if they had been millionaires in a barber shop. They were then comfortably seated around the conference table where they continued in conference day and night for three solid weeks. Those in charge of their tour have not yet decided upon a future itinerary.

Alexander T. Galt (left) and Thos. D'Arcy McGee emerge from their exception as fresh as ever after travelling nearly three thousand miles by Canadian Pacific Railway from Toronto to Vancouver.



STILL LOOKING

The Colonel was defending the climate of India.

"All nonsense," he said. "There's no better climate in the world, but there's a lot of young fellows who come out to India, and they eat and drink, and drink and eat, and die, and then write home to their friends and tell them that the climate has killed them. Of course, lots of people die in India, but tell me any country where they don't and I'll go and end my days there."

A GREAT IMPROVEMENT

The vicar: "How did you like my sermon, Mrs. Brown?"

"It was splendid, Mr. Smith! It was always my favorite sermon since I was a little girl. And I think that by omitting that long bit in the middle it was greatly improved."

VERY IMPORTANT

The master was holding a lesson on modern inventions.

"Now, Jones," he said, "can you tell me one thing of importance which did not exist fifty years ago?"

"Me!" was the surprising reply.

ROYALTY BEFORE THE CAMERA

The photographer to the British royal family tells in Tit Bits of his experience while engaged in his work and of the formalities to be observed on the occasion. The last time I was at Buckingham Palace, he says, I took six different photographs of the King and Queen and other members of the royal family. When I was taking a group of the royal children, Prince John suddenly laughed just as I exposed the plate. The Queen, who was in the room, said to the little prince, "Now you have spoiled the photograph and another will have to be taken. You must not spoil this one."

"I am very sorry," replied the prince most solemnly, "but it wasn't my fault; some one pinched me," an explanation that made Her Majesty and the lady in waiting smile. The next picture was taken without accident. Royal patronage is, of course, very valuable to a photographer. All royal sittings are paid for, whether the photographer is permitted to publish the photographs or not.

When a photographer is summoned to any foreign court, he is supposed to wear evening clothes. Some years ago I was summoned to a well known West End hotel, where the King and Queen of Spain were staying, to photograph their majesties. I went in my frock coat, and when King Alfonso's equerry entered the room where the sitting was to take place he glanced at my attire, and exclaimed:

"Good gracious! You cannot appear before their majesties dressed like that!"

"Well," I replied, "that is the way I dress when I am summoned to Buckingham Palace."

"Oh!" replied the equerry doubtfully. "Well, I must explain it to His Majesty."

King Alfonso at that moment entered the room, and the equerry began his explanations about my attire, but the Spanish monarch quickly interrupted the recital with a laugh. "I think Mr. looks very well indeed," and the sitting then proceeded.

Miller's Worm Powders, being in demand everywhere, can be got at any chemist's or drug shop at very small cost. They are a reliable remedy for worm troubles and can be fully relied upon to expel worms from the system and abate the sufferings that worms cause. There are many mothers that rejoice that they found available so effective a remedy for the relief of their children.

NO DOUBT WHATEVER

An old negro on being asked the meaning of "phenomenon," answered as follows:

"Yestiddy Ah was walkin' down a country road admirin' de scenery. Ah seen a cow, peacefully chewin' her cud in the field. Ah passed on and pretty soon Ah seen a thistle growin' by de roadside. A little further on Ah heard a bird singin' in a tree. Now, if Ah seen dis cow sittin' on dat thistle an' singin' like a bird, Ah'd call dat a phenomenon."

How To Reduce Varicose Veins

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way

Many people have become disspondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first class drug store and apply it night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is a harmless, yet most powerful remedy and two ounces last a very long time. Indeed, so powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic sores and ulcers are often entirely healed and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. E. J. Hassard sells lots of it.
