THYAGE IT TO ITS SOURCE
 When you feel like saying something disagreeable; if you feel generally you want to stop long enough to think that before you say it. Perhaps you remember how hard your employer was to please after that recent slump in business. Your work was as good as it had ever been, but his nerves were less steady than usual, and when he was unreasonable, you made all-wise decisions. You understood what was back of it.
 If you feel like making a disagreeable remark about the breakfast coffee, ask yourself whether you would feel like spitting if you had not eaten Welsh rabbit at midnight. If you are tempted to make a perfect withering reply to your friend's wish to borrow something, trace that impulse to its source, and you will find that your history teacher's realistic criticism of your last week's theme is responsible.

Brief Local News

—To-morrow.
 —The next day.
 —And then—Christmas.
 —The Post Office is a busy place these days.
 —The Community Christmas Tree was erected on Tuesday afternoon.
 —It's too late to do your Christmas shopping early, but it can still be done locally.
 —It's no trouble getting errands done promptly this week by the younger boys and girls.
 —A splendid community gathering is anticipated at the Christmas Tree on Christmas eve.
 —Heave Mason and Mr. W. J. Akim attended the Warden's Dinner at Milton on Tuesday evening.
 —There has been real Christmas weather the past week and the feeling of delight has added to the charm.
 —The store windows up and down the street, give many a Christmas suggestion and have been most attractive.
 —Christmas morning comes the delight of receiving those really wrapped Christmas packages.
 —The Post Office employees need your help these days. Don't be impatient if mails are late or delivery not as prompt as usual.
 —From Mr. Stuart Lowrie, in far off Yokohama, Japan, this Press Press received a Christmas card, bearing his Christmas message, the past week.
 —One big difference between a screen door and a storm door is that climatic conditions are usually more favorable for the hanging of the screen door.
 —There are other pleasant words which we appreciate at this time besides "Merry Christmas." They are "Enclosed please find my renewal for another year."
 —The announcement of the construction of a new road from Ottawa, connecting with the No. 7 Highway to Barabara, will mean largely increased traffic through here.
 —Even the rigors of a Christmas eve snow fall are condoned when there's a chance of catching a glimpse of Santa Claus on his route, most of the juveniles think.
 —The minister began, "As I look about me this morning, I see a great many bright and shining faces—Immediately a multitude of powder puffs made their appearance.
 —The Christmas tree harvest has been engaged in by several farmers in this section. The couple of car loads were shipped and truck loads to the cities have been numerous.
 —The money that pays for occasional advertising is money spent, but the funds put into continuous advertising in money invested—and it pays its dividends in sales and good will.
 —In a short, Santa! And answer the prayers revealed by those intimate peeps into the Christmas mail of good little girls and boys, who are sure to hang up their socks on Saturday night.
 —We are not weather prognosticators, but have observed closely the weather of the past week. First it ritz, an' then it blew, an' then it snowed, an' then it ritz, an' then we'd rain, an' then it ritz an' blew an' snow an' then it all over again. That should surely settle things for real old-fashioned Christmas weather for the coming week.

DUBLIN
 An enjoyable time was spent at Dublin School on Friday evening, although the attendance was somewhat less than usual. Mr. Lorne Mullin very ably filled the duties of chairman for the evening. The program consisted of choruses, dialogues, recitations, drills and pantomimes. The pupils, generally interested, interspersed with their own numbers by the Junior and senior Dublin Orchestra. At the close of the program, Santa Claus appeared, to distribute the well-laden Christmas tree. The most generally appreciated gift of all, however, was not the tree, being in the form of a fine, neat platform presented to the school by the secretary, Mr. Mullin.

POPULAR PICTURE COMING TO WONDERLAND
 Syd Chaplin as Old Bill!
 To those who know Syd Chaplin only through the amusing female impersonations in "Charlie's Aunt," we recommend a visit to Wonderland, where he is playing the screen version of "The Better Ole" next Tuesday night. They will see Syd Chaplin transformed; fairly living the role of Old Bill.
 His impersonations of the famous old soldier of the Bruce Balfour's cartoons will amuse you first by the sheer perfection of his makeup. There is Private William Husby, in his British uniform, with his trusty knifed muffer around his neck, a recalcitrant forelock straying down beneath his lumpy fatigue cap whose very incline cabbily over his right ear, his tips ambushed behind a full-grown walrus moustache, and the famous stub of his bristly pipe peering forth timidly from the brush.
 But watch him, as he develops the character. He seems to have got into the very soul of the man, and turned it into your imagination. And it's a wonder you don't see him everywhere today, slow-thinking and so unversally human that, while the very essence of his humor is British, we don't don't that even the most militant Junker would be compelled to laugh at him, and love him at the same time.
