Brief Local News

—Winter is half gone and no sleighing to speak of yet.

—The frost is on the forest and the winter world is gay.

—The changes in temperature are very sudden and quite frequent.

—The proposal to operate the rink this year seems doomed to failure.

—With half the winter gone it is safe for anyone to predict an open winter now.

—The young people are very much interested in the new rink plans in The Free Press windows.

—It's hard to get out of a rut whether you are driving an automobile or living a secluded and narrow life.

—Everybody can tell when the moon is full, but it takes a conference of scientists to define when a man is.

—Notwithstanding that this is leap year, we think that a girl should not propose to a man except as a last resort.

—Those ghost stories played up in front parges of the dailies these days, are a little overdrawn in these times of enlightenment.

—A lynx that had been raiding poultry houses in Nelson Township was shot last week. The carcass weighed forty pounds.

—Every car maker seems to have a "finer mechanical and more beautiful car." If many more make their advent, the descriptions will be monotonous.

—Mr. Bert Scott received some very fine grape fruits last week from Dr. Joseph McAndrew, of Georgetown, who is spending the winter in Orlando, Florida.

—Please check up your label. If the date is not correct advise us immediately so that we may correct it now; Or it can be altered to suit us both for $2.00.

—Secure your motor licenses without delay. The privileges of your 1927 markers definitely expire on January 31. After that day the traffic "cop" will get you sure.

—Johnston, the young Hamilton bank robber, declares he would not have committed the crime if he had not been drunk. However, The Spectator points out, the law calls for some other punishment than the cancellation of his "permit."

—The Guelph liquor dispensary has had rather an undesirable influence on a number of citizens the past month or so. Several charges of drunkenness have been heard in Police Court here lately, and others were liable to have been. The liquor store is admittedly responsible.

—In a letter to Mr. Wm. Swackhamer, last week, the condition of Mrs. Homer Swackhamer, of Montreal, who was injured in an automobile accident in November, is still stated as very serious. Mrs. Swackhamer is still in the hospital at Brockville and the physicians in charge now give hope that she will recover. She will be confined to the hospital for some months yet.

TWO ODD FARMS

One of the oddest farms in the world is be seen in Japan—a farm from which a crop of ten thousand snapping turtles is shipped every year. It is the property of Mr. Hattori, says Professor Mitsukuri in the National Geographic Magazine, and has solved the problem of preserving the supply of water is to the Japanese as great a delicacy as the diamond-back terrapin is to some Americans

The farm consists chiefly of a number of ponds. Once a day a man goes over the shores and and with little wire baskets covers up all new egg deposits. Sometimes thousands of these wire baskets are in sight at a time, marking the place where the eggs lie and preventing the turtles from scratching the earth from them.

Hatching requires from forty to sixty days, according to the weather. The young, as soon as they appear, are put in separate small ponds, and are fed with finely chopped fish. They eat this during September and October, and late in October burrow in the mud for the winter, coming out in April or May

Most of them are sold in the market when they are from three to five years old, at which time they are most delicate.

Japan also contains a unique fishery in a pearl oyster farm. In the bay of Ago a Japanese has established plantation from which he is reaping a harvest of jewels.

In May or June stones weighing six to eight pounds are sunk in shallow water, and in August the tiny shells begin to appear on them. Here the stones remain for two months, but the young oysters cannot stand cold. In November, therefore, all rocks in less than five feet of water are moved farther out where the temperature is more even. At the end of three years, when the shells are about two inches across, they are taken from the water nuclei for pearls are inserted in them, and they are put back again, thirty of them to every six feet square bottom.

They are left there four years. Then, being seven and a half years old, they are removed and searched for pearls.

The harvest of artificial or "culture" pearls is very large, but unfortunately three are only little more than half-pearls, for although large, lustrous and of fine quality, they are flat on one side. This the farmer hopes to remedy in time; but the market for half-pearls is always very large.

He has an additional source of income in the natural pearls which his oysters produce, for there is not lacking among them the usual proportion of perfect gems to be found among oysters of this variety.

Entered Into Rest.

JOHN LANGAN, Georgetown

In the death of John Langan, who passed away yesterday morning in his ninety-fifth year at his home in Georgetown, the town lost a fine citizen, who was greatly beloved. Inspector Guthrie, of the Toronto Police Department, paid a tribute to the deceased, claiming he was "the finest old man that ever lived." The late Mr. Langan, who had lived the greater part of his life in Georgetown, was, for many years, Customs Representative in that town. He was actively interested in sports, particularly lacrosse, and was said to have been an excellent player in his youth. He was a Catholic in faith. He is survived by eight children, Mrs. McGee and Mrs. Rowe, of Chicago; Mrs. Conway, of Aldershot, Ont.; Mrs. Arnold, of Acton; Miss Elizabeth, of Toronto; Mrs. Treanor, Miss Lisha and Miss May, of Georgetown. The funeral service will be held from the residence at 9.30 on Friday morning.

PROFESSOR WADE TOOLE

Following an operation for appendicitis on Saturday, from which he failed to rally, Wade Toole, Professor of Animal Husbandry at the Ontario Agricultural College and well-known live stock expert, died at the General Hospital last Thursday. Professor Toole was born in Whitevale, Ontario County, on March 3, 1886. Following his Public and High School education, he farmed for eight years with his father, John Toole. In 1907 he entered the Ontario Agricultural College as a student, graduating in 1911. After completing his studies, the late Professor Toole accepted the position of live stock editor of The Farmers' Advocate, and held that position for two years. He was promoted to the post of managing editor, which he occupied until 1918, when he received the appointment of Professor of Animal Husbandry at the O. A. C., succeeding Professor George E. Day. Since Professor Toole took charge of the department his accomplishments were many. His great knowledge of live stock made him one of the most valuable men to the industry in the Province, and he was considered to have few equals as a judge of farm stock. Well-known in Masonic circles, Professor Toole was a member of Waverley Lodge, A. F. & A. M., and the Lodge of Perfection Scottish Rite. He was an enthusiastic lawn bowler, and had been for some years an active member of the Guelph club. In addition to his widow, who before her marriage was Miss Mabel Leary, of Whitevale, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Toole, 55 Kirkland Street, Guelph; two sons, John, aged, 14, and Grant, aged 12, and one daughter, Marion, aged 6.

JOHN STALKER

Very suddenly one of our oldest and most highly esteemed residents passed away during the week, when John Stalker, Esqr., of the third line, was called home. On Saturday afternoon Mr. Stalker and his daughter, Miss Annie drove to Fairview Cemetery to attend the funeral of his friend, the late Arthur Stewart. Just as the burial service was concluding he was noticed to stagger a little, as if slipping on the icy sward. Friends were at his side in a momegt. He remarked that he felt queer and dizzy, a feeling he had never had before. He was assisted into the car and his daughter drove him home at once. By this time he was in a comatose condition, and spoke a word or so to his daughter, Miss Minnie, when she met him at the home. He never spoke again, and though under almost constant medical care and skilful nursing he gradually sank, until Wednesday morning he passed peacefully away, surrounded by all the surviving members of the family. Mr. Stalker was born on the farm on which he ended his long and useful life, eighty-three years ago. His parents, John Stalker and Marion Patterson, were born and married in Perthshire, Scotland, and came to Canada about ninety years ago, and settled on the homestead, lot 23, concession 4, Esquesing. Here they spent the remainder of their lives, and from this home they passed to their reward. His half-brother, David Black, died in 1909, and his brother, Duncan, in 1913. On November 22, 1878, Mr. Stalker and Miss Annie Ross daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Ross, of an adjoining farm, were united in the bonds of holy wedlock by their minister, Rev. D. B. Cameron, of Knox Church. Four children blessed this union, all of whom survive: William Ross, Annie, Jean (Mrs. F. H. Graham), and Minnie. Mrs. Stalker departed this life on June 2, 1926. Her death was greatly lamented by the family, but none felt the blow so keenly as her devoted partner-in-life. Mr. Stalker never rallied from the loss thus sustained. He was a member of Knox Church from his young manhood; a member of the Board of Management from the time of erection of the present church, and was one of the most regular members in attending the services of the sanctuary. He was a successful farmer throughout his day and generation. He was a charter member of the Sons of Scotland; was for five years a member of Esquesing Council, and was an esteemed agent of the Halton Union Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company from the time of its organization, thirty-eight years ago. John Stalker was a man of sterling character, upright and honest. He will be sadly missed, not only by his son and daughters, but by the community. The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon at two o'clock, at the home, and interment will be made in the family plot at Fairview Cemetery

Horse and Buggy Stolen in Guelph

In broad daylight on Saturday morning, a horse and buggy, the property of James Ryan, Lane Street, Guelph, was stolen from where it was left standing on Macdonnell Street, Guelph. The owner reported the loss to the police, who made an investigation. The missing horse and buggy was discovered standing on Eramosa Road across the bridge on Saturday by a kind citizen, who put the animal up for the night and fed him. Mr. Ryan claimed his horse and the buggy Sunday

Old and Appreciative Subscribers

Each week we get another name or two of old subscribers who have been continuous readers of The Free Press since 1875. Mr G. H Brown has been a reader of Acton's paper since its inception and is still a valued subscriber on our lists. Mr and Mrs. Jas Taylor, of London, who have been very appreciative subscribers for a number of years, in renewing wrote the following kind note: "Enclosed find $2.00, being subscription for current year. We cannot claim to be your oldest subscribers, but one can surpass us in wishing you the success you deserve. We have been on your lists now for our entire married life of twenty-years and, all being well, see no reason why you cannot count us among your enthusiastic supporters for another decade. As far as we know, all former Actonians in this city are doing well."

FATHER'S TURN

Letty tried not to be unreasonable. She told herself again and again that she, the luckiest girl in all the world, who had now had two months and seventeen days of unshadowed happiness, should be able to take a little disappointment without fussing. A month would pass quickly if she and Steve wrote to each other every day, and it was such an honor for Steve to be sent on so important an errand by his firm! Moreover, she could get so much done! That was where the second troubled thought struck her. For her mother to be called away because of Aunt Angies illness just then seemed she had so much sewing that she wanted to do! And for all the important things Letty needed her mother. She drew a long breath that sounded much like a sob. "Oh, I wonder why it all had to come so!" she wailed

The swinging of the gate made her look up. Why, it was father coming home at five o'clock! What had happened now? She flew anxiously down the stairs, but her first glance at his face showed her that he had no bad news. He seemed shy and embarrassed. If Letty had been observant she would have seen clearly what kind of small boy her father had once been, but she was not thinking of her father

"Sort of lonesome, little girl?" he asked

Letty nodded and angrily winked away the tears

Her father's smile deepened. "I thought you might be. That's why I came home early. What do you say to taking the car and running off for a supper at the lake?"

"I don't believe——" Letty began faintly

But her father happened to be hanging up his overcoat and did not hear her. "Remember how you used to like to run away with your old father?" he asked, turning and looking at her in eager anticipation. "You told me once that you liked it better than Christmas. I never shall forget that. Then you got into high school and there was a crowd of young folks the way it ought to be, and then a certain young man began to call pretty regularly, and you and mother got so busy I began to think there wasn't going to be any place for father before you left us for good."

Letty ran to him with a little cry of father, what a selfish pig I've been, when you've been doing things for me all my life!"

"I'd like to hear anybody call you selfish!" her father cried indignantly.

"I have been, oh, I have! But this week, father dear, is going to be our week, just yours and mine and nobody else's in all the world. We'll go off just the way we used to. O father dear!"

Upstairs as Letty was changing her dress for the ride she allowed her thoughts to run on. A week for father! Twenty-three rich years, and for so many of them she had just taken him for granted. Oh, how glad she was that she had not found out her thoughtlessness too late!

Paring a corn is both risky and ineffective. It is much better to use Holloway's Corn Remover and eradicate them entirely.

Esquesing Council's First Meeting

Lengthy Budget of Accounts Passed and Much Business Transacted

Esquesing Township Council held their first meeting for 1928 on Monday of last week at the Council Chamber, Stewarttown.

After the members elect had subscribed to the declaration of office they took their seats as follows: Reeve, T. L. Leslie; Deputy-Reeve, M. J. Carton, Councillors, George Cleave, George Currie and G. W. Appelbe.

A lengthy docket of road accounts and miscellaneous expenditure made a big amount for the accounts passed at this meeting.

The Reeve and Treasurer were empowered to borrow money to meet current expenditures to the amount of $35,000

The by-law to appoint a member to the Board of Health and a Sanitary Inspector was also passed. E. V. Barrachough was appointed to the Board of Health and J. H. Smith was made Sanitary Inspector.

By-by-Law H 16, Minnis and M. H Trainer were appointed auditors at a remuneration of $60.00 each.

Assessors were appointed for the various wards as follows: N. Thompson for wards 1, 2, 3 and M Campbell for wards 4, 5 and 6, and they will receive the sum of $150.00 each for their services.

Moved by Carton, seconded by Currie, that the Department of Highways be requested to continue the Provincial Highway from Brampton to Galt along No. 5 sideroad as we believe the said road would be a very great convenience. Not only to the farmers and citizens in general, but would create a large tourist traffic. The Council also wishes to point out that this road is the direct route from Brampton to Galt and has no natural obstacles to its construction in the Township of Esquesing and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Minister. Carried

Moved by Cleave, seconded by Appelbe, that whereas the demand for good roads in the Townships is increasing yearly and the standard of roads built has to be raised in order to meet the heavy truck traffic, thereby raising the cost per mile of construction and maintainence to such a high point that many ratepayers are unable to meet their taxes. Therefore be it resolved that this Council urge upon the Ontario Department of Highways the wisdom and advisability of increasing the bonus on Township roads from thirty per cent. to forty per cent., and that copies of this resolution be sent to the Minister of Highways and to S. L. Squire, Secretary of Ontario Good Roads Association to be brought before the next Good Roads Convention. Carried.

M. J Carton gave Notice of Motion as follows: As regards the expenditure of monies on roads and bridges in the Township as follows

1st That a superintendent be appointed for each end of the Township His duties to be set out by a by-law.

2nd That each of the Road Divisions that were in force prior to the new Act, shall receive or equivalent to a set sum to be mentioned by Council upon their road Division

3rd That all such money so expended shall be spent by order of Council or Road Superintendent, so that the Government Grant may be given

4th That all grading be done by order of Council or Superintendent, so that a uniformity of roads as required by law shall exist

5th That all money so set aside for each Division to be used by the ratepayers for either gravelling or dragging may at the pleasure of the Council be increased by such sums as the Council see fit.

6th That each Road Superintendent shall heartily co-operate with the Council that the very best results may be obained for the Township, and the work may be completed as early as possible in summer

The Council adjourned to meet again February 14 at 1 p. m.

"OUR"

Henry Brimble of Henties, poor and lazy, married Louisa Lufkin, capable and well to do, but no sense of undue obligation to his wife ever disturbed his spirit nor did the covert gibes and open criticism of the townfolk ruffle his amiable calm. If he recognized his position, it was in one way only he never called anything of his own his. But as he ever called anything of his wife's hers, it would have been difficult to decide whether this were a manifestation of pride or humility or both

Certain it was, however, that if Mr. Brimble's use of the plural possessive personal pronoun were any sign, there was no other couple in the place so conjugally confidingly constantly and completely united as he and his wife. Mine and thine had no existence in the Brimble household there was only ours.

Louisa Henry from his hammock was once heard to call drawlingly after that estimable woman as she started to go down town "there's that little ball of ours to pay at Shomans, new trousers and repairing coat collar and I think we owe a trifle at the grocery for tobacco and Louisa? You'll be going right by the town hall, would you mind just stopping to pay our poll-tax?"

Louisa complied. She did not, however, on election day obligingly step round to the polling booth to deposit "our" vote, although a unanimous Hentley would have voted for the better man

If I can't make the goal I pick my man
And pass the ball to some one else who can
