SEVERE STORMS LAST WEEK

Much Damage Done by Rain and Lightning — Barns Burned — Hydro Service Disrupted

The rains and severe electrical storms of last week created havoc generally but culminated their worst ruin in the storms of last Friday afternoon and night. The heavy rains beat down the crops and in many cases laid the heavy grain so flat that cutting will be well nigh impossible.

The lightning was very severe. During the first storm in the afternoon two sections of the town were shut off from Hydro power by damage to transformers. Lightning shattered shingles on Mr. M. C. Overholt's house on Wilbur Street and struck the radio aerial on Mr. B. G. Arnold's house, adjoining.

Power was restored again after the first storm and a second storm, between five and six o'clock in the afternoon, came on. During this storm a pole on the line near the Brick Church was burned off and a further interruption occurred, which lasted until after eight o'clock. Power was restored to town, but wires were down and certain sections only received power on one phase until eleven o'clock, when service was again fulfilled. An oil switch at the fire pumping station was burned out. On Saturday morning Superintendent Wilson had to replace 47 lamps in the Mill Street lighting system, which were destroyed.

In Nassagaweya and Eramosa Townships two barns were destroyed by lightning. The barn on a farm owned by Mr. Thomas Storey, in Nassagaweya, was completely destroyed. The building was an old one and was not on the farm Mr. Storey is occupying.

On the highway, about two miles above Crewsons Corners, in Eramosa, the barn of Robert Ferris was struck and destroyed by fire. Only the east half of the barn was lost. It contained ten loads of hay, but is also on a farm not occupied by Mr. Ferris. A small amount of insurance was carried.

The storm was the most severe and destructive that has passed over this section in some time.

Do Not Court Disaster

When motoring concession lines, or sideroads to Provincial Highways don't fail to come to a full stop, whether a "stop sign" has been erected at that point or not. Crossing a highway without stopping at the approach or joining the traffic without observing the same precaution, is courting disaster.

20 Months for Cattle Theft

A sentence of 20 months in the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph for the theft of four head of cattle, the property of Wallace Lasby, of Acton, was passed on Wm. Charles Howard, aged 45, of Nassagaweya Township, by Judge Elliot in Halton County Court House, Milton on Saturday. The character evidence given by Frank McNiven, Reeve of Nassagaweya Township, on behalf of the accused, was taken into consideration.

Municipalities Should Cut the Weeds

If the officers of the province enforce the provisions of the "Weed Control Act," and prosecutions for failure to observe it follow, numbers of Ontario municipalities are liable to receive summons. Send in the News

The main aim of the weekly newspaper as the name implies, is to give news of its own district. It may have other aims, such as to give the merchants a chance to tell of their goods in its columns or to try to influence public opinion through its editorials; but first of all it must give the news. Some of this news is not easily obtained and no editor can cover it all without assistance. Especially is this true when you have visitors. Many of the ladies think that personals are the most interesting reading in the whole paper. Your visitors are usually glad to have their names appear, so send them in. Sometimes people come in and give the impression that they are asking a favor when they want us to insert the names of their friends who have been spending a few days with them. No person need feel that way about giving us news items, for we are glad to get them.

Fatal Crossing Accident at Guelph

Struck by Canadian National passenger train No. 184, and dragged along the roadbed on Kent Street, near the Glasgow Street level crossing, Guelph, shortly before 10 o'clock last Thursday morning, George H. Gallagher, aged 29, of 78 Northumberland Street, Guelph, suffered injuries which later proved fatal and he passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital that evening. Gallagher was standing on the right of way, watching passenger train No 181 pull out for the north, and apparently did not hear or see the other train coming in. He stepped onto the track directly in front of the incoming locomotive, according to the story of Engineer Adam, of Palmerston, who was driving the engine. One of his feet was caught on the step of the locomotive pilot. The injured man had been missing from his home since the previous morning, and at the request of his wife, police were searching for him when word of the accident reached the station. A jury inquiring into the accident brought in a verdict of accidental death.

Five Men Injured When Truck Capsizes

When a light truck, owned by the McArthur Engineering and Construction Company, used for hauling gravel, overturned on the old Berlin Road, now used as a detour to Kitchener, Tuesday evening, Tony Decarlo was seriously injured, and five other men were badly cut and bruised. They were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Guelph. Decarlo sustained a broken shoulder blade and his upper jaw was fractured, while A. ("Nap") Richardson, driver of the truck, J. Pestoso, A. Pinoro, D. Pinoro and F. Pinoro were all more or less seriously bruised and cut, and all are suffering from shock. The men, employees of the company, were being transported from the mixing plant on the Guelph-Kitchener highway, where paving is under way, to the gravel pit on the Berlin Road. The small truck, from some unknown cause, ran into the ditch, which is not deep at the point. The driver turned it out again, but it ran back again, and turned turtle twice, landing completely upside down on the roadside. The occupants were hurled out of the truck on to the road. The truck, although it was left lying with the four wheels in the air, was comparatively undamaged, and with the changing of a wheel, was ready for the road next morning.

Marathon Dances Banned

Although marathon dances have yet to gain a place on the Olympic programme, they made decided strides towards athletic status yesterday when the Ontario Government passed an order-in-Council bringing them under the control of the Provincial Athletic Commission. The step constituted a recognition of the contests as feats of endurance but it was by no means a concession to them. It was taken only in order that the Government might prohibit. There are to be no more marathon dances in the Province. Having just stamped out the craze insofar as it was represented by one contest at Crystal Beach, Attorney-General Price was immediately threatened yesterday afternoon by the prospect of another in Toronto. It was known that "Cash and Carry" Pyle, celebrated dance promoter, was in the city, prepared to stage a marathon here if arrangements could be made. Hon. Mr. Price, accordingly, took instant steps to clarify the law in the matter by having an order-in-Council passed bringing the dances under the control of the Athletic Commission, which comes under the Department of Health in the Government. The order-in-Council provides that no dance marathons shall be held without securing a permit from the Athletic Commission. It is understood, however, that this provision amounts to a prohibition. Hon. Dr. Godfrey, Minister of Health, is entirely opposed to the contests on medical grounds, and states that no permits will be forthcoming.

ANOTHER PHIL FORBES FAMILY EPISODE

Officers' Raid Reveals Continuance of Bootlegging Activities Under the Liquor Control Act

The Liquor Control Act certainly failed to relieve the community of the bootlegging activities of the household of Phil Forbes, the notorious bootlegger, who plied his trade assiduously when he was out of jail or reformatory during local option and Ontario Temperance Act days. Phil was sent to Kingston Penitentiary for a long term a few months ago, but the bootlegging continued uninterruptedly at his home, a house leaned on the crossroad at lot 20, concession 7, Esquesing, a little over a mile west of Georgetown.

Provincial and county officers, having been informed that the place was a rendezvous for numbers of thirsty visitors, raided the premises on several occasions. While they discovered much circumstantial evidence it was difficult to secure such as would warrant laying an information against the place.

Early in May the officers raided the place. They discovered no liquor, but secured Mrs. Phil Forbes' passport for purchasing liquor under the Liquor Control Act. The permit was confiscated.

Rumors continued to be rife, and last Sunday evening, about nine o'clock, Provincial Officers Joseph Allen and Thos. H. Owens, and County Constable Marshall, of Georgetown, raided the place. They found all the doors locked and to effect an entrance were obliged to force their way in. Three men were found sitting at the dining room table. Mrs. Forbes' eldest daughter, a child of about twelve years, was seen hurrying to the kitchen with three glasses, which she deposited in a pail of water. Besides the men, Mrs. Forbes, her six children, and Myrtle Ryder, of Acton, were in the house.

A search was made for liquor. Three bottles were discovered in a bedroom in the bed. Mrs. Forbes was sitting on the place, where between two mattresses two bottles containing liquor were discovered. A third bottle was found between the mattresses at the foot of the bed.

The officers, knowing that Mrs. Forbes had no permit, demanded from Myrtle Ryder hers. This she produced, from which it was found that 60 bottles of beer had been purchased on this permit at Guelph on the Friday before. The officers demanded the whereabouts of this liquor. Myrtle Ryder finally volunteered the information the beer was hidden in the grass and weeds a few yards west of the front gate, and the whiskey in a similar cache east of the gate. She accompanied the officers to the place where the beer was located. There they secured 54 quart bottles of beer, contained in two cartons and a bag. In searching for the spirits they were less successful, Jo's hiding place was not discovered.

As a result of the evidence [illegible] was arrested and lodged in jail. Informations were laid against her on the charge of having liquor in an illegal place, and for having liquor for sale. A charge was also laid against Mrs. Forbes of having liquor for sale.

The charges against Myrtle Ryder came up for hearing before Magistrate Moore at the Court House, Milton, on Tuesday afternoon. The charge against Mrs. Forbes was remanded, inasmuch as she had given birth to a child ten or twelve days before the raid, and it was decided that her case should not be called for several weeks.

The evidence against Myrtle Ryder of having liquor in an unlawful place was conclusive. She said she went to Guelph and purchased the liquor and had it shipped to the sixth line on the radial railway, that she and the Forbes kiddies conveyed it to the Forbes place from there on a child's wagon. Miss Ryder also testified that after Mrs. Forbes lost her permit she persuaded her to purchase a new permit in her name and gave her the money to pay for the permit, and all the liquor purchased.

The permit showed the following purchases since Myrtle's permit was secured on May 10 last:

May 10—5 quarts spirits.
May 10—48 quarts beer.
June 14—5 quarts spirits.
June 14—48 quarts beer.
July 17—60 quarts beer.
August 3—6 quarts spirits.
August 3—60 quarts beer.

The approximate cost of the liquor and permit was $136.40.

Quite a business in liquor was evidently being done at the Forbes premises.

A conviction was registered against Myrtle Ryder. She was fined $100 and costs, and in default of payment to one month in the county jail. The court made the fine $100 instead of $200, in consideration of a solemn promise made by the defendant that she would not return to Mrs. Forbes' place either to reside or to visit at any time in the future, with the understanding that a violation of this promise will mean the imposing of the higher penalty. The liquor secured was confiscated.

Officers of the Children's Aid Society will visit the Forbes' place to determine whether, under existing conditions, it is a fit place for the children to reside. They may be made wards of the Children's Aid Society.

HARRY J. BEASLEY

Mr. Harry J. Beasley passed away at his home on the fourth line of Eramosa on Monday, July 30, after an illness extending over five years. GRANDMOTHER'S BOOK

When grandmother's birthday approached Ned did not know what to give her. He conferred in anxious whispers with his mother and sisters, but their suggestions did not help him. Their advice was really not very sound, but they did not know that until later. As the News tells the story the family were surprised. This is what happened:

After some days of indecision Ned went to a bookstore and bought a book that the dealer recommended, and which Ned knew was a good one. He had read it himself, and knew that it was full of thrilling scenes and romantic adventures.

"What are you going to give grandma?" asked his sister the night before the birthday. "I'm giving her 'The Pilgrim's Progress.' Minnie has a pretty shawl for her, and father is going to give her 'Thoughts From Great Minds.' Uncle Horace has sent her 'The Problems of To-Day,' and Aunt Eva has a volume of Carlyle's 'Essays.'"

"I've got a book, too," said Ned, rather feebly.

"Anuh! I book for her? What is it?"

Ned framed the novel with some reluctance.

"What! For an old lady! That frivolous love-and-swords affair for her! Why didn't you use better judgment?"

"What's the matter with it?" demanded the brother.

"Well, it's too late to exchange it now, I suppose, but you'd better suggest to her that if she prefers you will exchange it for something more substantial."

"Maybe you know," replied Ned, "but I don't believe in marooning old folks with a bunch of dry-as-dust books."

When grandma came down to breakfast the morning of her birthday, Ned's novel stood in all its glory in the midst of the more serious volumes.

That night, at a late hour, when Ned's sister tiptoed quietly to her own room, to avoid waking the other members of the family, she saw the light burning in grandmother's room. Surprised that the old lady should be up at midnight, the girl looked in at the partly opened door. Grandmother was reading. She was more than half-way through the book, which it was easy to identify by its binding. It was not "The Pilgrim's Progress," nor "The Problems of To-Day," nor yet the masterful essays of the great Carlyle. With bright eyes and flushed cheeks grandmother was following the fortunes of the hero and heroine of the novel Ned had chosen.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lambert and family, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Mack and Mr. Wm. Mack, of Everton, motored to Woodstock and spent Sunday with relatives there.

Mr. R. F. Johnstone and family spent Sunday here while en route for Montreal for holidays. Mrs. Johnstone, who had been spending the week here, joined her husband on the eastern trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Graham, of Winnipeg, Man., were callers in town on Monday. They were en route for Toronto and Montreal, and will spend a few days in town on their return trip.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Campbell Clark and babe spent the holiday with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Gould. Mr. Clark has been transferred from Chatsworth to the managership of a new branch of the Bank of Montreal in Strathroy.

Sir Donald Mann, of Toronto, visited his old home town on Sunday and worshipped with the congregation of the United Church. He was greeted by numbers of former friends and schoolmates and members of their families.

HOLES

Pat was hired in a lumber office. The proprietor was a young man and he decided to have some fun with the new hand, so Pat was left in charge of the office, with instructions to take all orders which might come in. Going to a nearby store, the proprietor called up the office:

"Hello! Is this the East Side Lumber Company?"

"Yis, sor."

"Send me up 1,000 knot holes."

"What's that?"

"One thousand knot holes."

"Well, now, an' ain't that a shame! We are just out of them. Sold them all to the brewery."

"To the brewery? What do they want with them?"

"They use them for bunghules in barrels."

HARD TO CONVINCE

The fondness of dyspeptics for eating any food which particularly disagrees with them is well known. Mr. Wilson, a highly esteemed resident of a New England town, is a dyspeptic, and his wife's trials are varied and many.

"I don't know that Mr. Wilson will continue to eat cucumbers now," she said, with a sigh, in answer to the question of a sympathetic neighbor. "I think when he gets over this attack he will be convinced that they really don't agree with him."

"I thought he'd had three attacks lately from eating them," said the neighbor, bluntly.

"That is the way it appears to outsiders, I know," said Mrs. Wilson, "but this is the way he explains it. His first attack came after eating cucumber salad—in spite of my warnings—at his Cousin Mary's, when we took dinner with them. But when he recovered, he said it might have been something else that made him ill, so he insisted on having the salad made at home, and eating a great deal of it. Then, after he recovered from that attack, he said he didn't feel sure the trouble was caused by the cucumbers, it might have been the dressing.

"So, as soon as he was able, he ate over half a cucumber, sliced, and with vinegar. This has been the worst attack of the three, and I think he is satisfied."

Just then Mr. Wilson, the picture of forlornness, entered the room.

"Marla," he said, looking at his wife with a gleam of fresh hope in his eyes, "I believe it was the vinegar that upset me, and not the cucumber at all! I'll try sugar next time!"

Mrs. Wilson groaned, and the sympathizing neighbor left the room without a word.

STILL TALKING "GALLAGHER'S"

"To take or not to take that is the question." Almost everyone has to take some kind of medicine in this age of high pressure living and refined foods and it is most important the kind of medicine we take. You believe with me that Herb Medicine is the only safe kind for continual use. All our internal remedies are guaranteed to be purely vegetable in composition. Gallagher's Blood Purifier is a laxative that does not lose its effectiveness by continued use. I know a man who six years ago was a nervous wreck. For six years he has taken two ounces of Gallagher's Blood Purifier per day, and each year has steadily improved, is well and strong to-day works every day and has a complexion like a child. We have many customers taking it for their constitution alone as it gives the skin a clear healthy color. Quit salts and pills, go to A. T. Brown for a bottle of Gallagher's Blood Purifier and see if it will not do that which I claim.

Yours truly,
Ralph Speir.
