A POINT OF VIEW

At quarter past twelve Gertrude Procman left the cashier's care, but on her hat and jacket, and walked down 8th Street to the cafeteria. Blue nodded curtly to the girl next her as also left, but they exchanged no words. The girl was young and pretty, and had a young man who walked home with her every night. Gertrude Preeman never had been pretty, was no longer young, and as she said grimly to herself, never had anything.

The cafeteria was in full swing-people with empty trays rushed to the counter. people with full ones steered their perilous way through the crowd, dishes clattered on trays and tables, the counterman monotonously called orders to the kitchen. How Gertrude hated it! With practiced hand she picked up her tray and began to put upon it the forks and spoons. Suddenly she felt a soft touch on her arm. authority to seek new capital.

No grant or subsidy from parliament is involved. It is entirely a matter of authority to offer new shares for purchase by investors, from time to time in the future as new capital is required for the growth of the system.

There are three reasons why the telephone company is asking parliament for this authority. Each of these reasons is important.

The telephone system cannot extend to meet the growth of the country unless there is a steady supply of new capital year after year. IN a progressive country like Canada the telephone system never stands still. Each year there are thousands of new telephones in new homes and officea. For the next five years the definite needs which the system is under public obligation to meet mean spending over $120,000,000 in new plant. Year after year, in good times and had, new money is needed for more telephones if the system is to keep pace with the country. And of this money a great part can be supplied only through the pur-changes before new telephones can go in. To wait until people are clamoring for service is too late. Such projects in the past have been undertaken because the company has been confident of securing money from investors to not the new equipment into full service.

But if the company is not able even to approach investors, its assurance vanishes and to prepare for the future becomes impossible.

IF there had not been an amendment in 1920 with the right to raise new capital, Ontario and Quebec today would be struggling with a telephone system so hopelessly behind public requirements that all branches of business would suffer.
