A Cross Word Puzzle A writer in the Manitoba Free Press finds the election in Ontario a bit puzzling. Mr. Ferguson, he notes, says to the electors: "If you will give me power I shall do wonderful things for you-lessen -taxation, extend assistance to rural users of Hydro, reduce the tax on motors and what not." Very good indeed. But why, he argues, shouldn't the electors io Mr. Ferguson: "Hadn't you power to do all these things for us without an election? Didn't you have complete control of the legislature? ... Hadn't you fifteen months left in which you could have bestowed all these blessings upon us? Why didn't following in the general trend of business amalga- Btar. you do them and then come to us for your reward?" mations. We have noticed, too, some very interested inspections by those who have the welfare of the Fall summary of the activities of the Port Colborne Fair at heart. And from them and others who have been anticipating the fair's progress, the project seems to open up new possibilities for a larger fuir and greater attractions. New features for a greater two-day exhibition are opened up by the two buildings. The curling rink, it would seem would house many exhibits and leave the main build ing free for a great exhibit on the first evening of the fair. What this will develop into will undoubtedly be the subject of discussion at future directors' meetings. Interest is keen in this latest addition to the community life of the municipality. Let us plan Citizen among our exchanges. It was one of Onto take full pleasure and profit from this recreation centre being provided. In 1026 there was a possibility that Premier Ferguson, with a new and untried (in Ontario) law, was endeavoring to promote temperance and sobriety. lo-day, with a record of increased consumption of liquor; a proven inability to control liquor; highways strewn with empty liquor bottles; and highway accidents through booze multiplying and fatalities increasing, the experiment has been proven unsuccessful. A manly admission of failure in view of the facts would therefore seem the admirable thing. But such hasn't been forthcoming from the experimenter-Mr. Ferguson. We are asked to take a big and stronger dose of this panacea, which has proven worthless.. Another four years is asked with a whole lot more promises, just in the same category as were put forth in 1926. Then there might have been some virtue in the dope, although it looked Liquor Control Act. like a quack remedy. Now the electors have seen what the Liquor Control Act won't do. They have also seen what the promiscuous selling of booze will do in this motor car age. Sure we're making money out of it. But wouldn't you rather work for the money than be a party to-ruining homes and lives with whiskey? Some people get carried away with the idea that winning the election for their party by any means is a great victory. Wouldn't it be a will make the safe and sane driver not want to be on greater victory, to win or lose with a clear conscience the highways. Many thousands of good Conservatives felt impelled to vote against their-party in the last election when this was the outstanding issue, and thousands of them will do so again if they are persuaded that by voting for the Government they are endorsing the present liquor system. Thought he probably does not intend it, Mr. Ferguson's speeches almost challenge them to do so."

County Officials Change

There will apparently be some changes in county Hagersville and Caledonia. Over 100 officialdom at Milton, if rumors now current have speker of the evening. any foundation. It is also proposed to appoint an Assistant Treasurer, and install a filing system in the office, but D. Hutchcon, the Treasurer, is strongly opposed to such a move. There is also a feeling that Wm. Panton, the veteran County Clerk, is getting too old for his job, and his head may fall into the basket, with the rest of the veterans. Archie McGibbon, the gaoler, asked for an increase in salary, and when he did not get it, resigned as caretaker of the jail, so a caretaker will have to be appointed at the end of the year. The dying hours of the County Council promises some interesting developments."

Amalgamations in the Newspaper Field

The amalgamation of newspapers is apparently Northern Mail. And from Ontario comes a surprising newspaper announcement. That splendid twiceweek publication, the Port Colborne Citizen, has ceased publication and joined forces with the Welland and its erection coming along nicely, it is not too Tribune and the new paper will be known as the early to plan for the sports, etc., to keep the building Welland Port Colborne Tribune. The job printing plant is not affected by the change in the newspaper business. In his Margaret Dickie at Elora over the week-Citizen and his explanation, Mr. Shore says: "But a newspaper located in a growing industrial town must needs continue to improve and widen its scope of influence and service. Facing the problem of further expansion and endeavoring to somewhat chart the sea of future months and years, the plan of amalga mating the Port Colborne Citizen and the Welland Tribune was decided upon as the next big step toward giving the people of Port Colborne, Humber- Herald. stone and district a local paper to more adequately meet their needs." We will miss the Port Colborne tario's outstanding weeklies. In the broader field to which Mr. Shore and his associates are entering we wish them, the continued success which has characterized their efforts in publishing such splendid weekly journal in Port Colborne.
