USE

AND SAVE FOOD, FLAVOR AND MONEY

Ice costs pennies, while food spoilage wastes dollars. It is false economy to take money from one part of the family budget to buy good, fresh foods unless provision has already been made for plenty of ice and a good ice box to keep those foods in the same fresh, palatable conditions all the way to the table.

Regardless of the season, ice is necessary to keep food fresh, pure and wholesome. It is the only refrigerant which preserves the flavor as well as the food.

In the summertime, ice not only keeps food cool and fresh, but prevents waste on the table by making it more appetizing and edible.

To keep foods fresh, sweet, and wholesome, and to protect their delicate flavors, requires more than keeping them cold. There must be pure air circulating with proper atmospheric balance—and that is what ice accomplishes.

Ice provides air that is clean and cold enough to keep foods fresh; dry enough to prevent mold; moist enough to retard the drying out of meat, cheese, butter, eggs, fruits, and vegetables. It thus preserves the savory healthful juices, and delicate flavors of foods. The most precious thing about food is its flavor. Excessively dry cold draws flavor out—and once lost, it is gone forever.

Dublin's Re-union Was Fine Success

Many Former Pupils and Teachers Gathered to Renew School Day Acquaintanceships

For months efforts have been in progress for a re-union of the Old Boys and Girls of Dublin School on Dominion Day. The response to the invitations sent out was highly gratifying when a gathering of between 700 and 800 assembled at the school on Tuesday afternoon.

The thunderstorm on Monday night cleared the atmosphere and cooled the temperature, and the day was consequently delightful for a function of this character.

The old school looked uniquely attractive in a new coat of paint of agreeably contrasting colors with a carefully shorn school playground, and the addition of Mr. Donald Waldie's meadow, adjoining, gave ideal accommodation for platform, games and sports, and parking places.

There was an excellent programme, varied and carefully carried out by attentive committees, but the foremost feature of the day's proceedings was the meeting and greeting of pupils and teachers who had been connected with Dublin School through the years from its founding in 1858—seventy-two years ago. The historic event was most enjoyable in this respect. Many happy meetings of schoolmates, who had not seen each other for years, occurred. Many incidents of former days were recalled. Many enquiries were made concerning present homes and activities. The eight or ten former teachers who were present were greeted most cordially by hundreds of the pupils who came under their purview during the years of their professional career in the school. Messrs. Alex. C. McPhail, of Brampton, and John Irving, ex-Mayor of Milton, who succeeded him, were the oldest teachers present. Mr. McPhail taught in 1854-5, and Mr. Irving in 1856-8—43 to 46 years ago. They were both given a right royal reception.

An interesting co-incidence in connection, the long honor roll of Dublin teachers, which was revealed during the proceedings, was the fact that three succeeding teachers each married husbands by the name of Somerville, a most honored name in this community. Miss Bessie McKeown married Dr. William Somerville, of Haileybury; Miss Kinks Harvey married Mr. A. W. Somerville, of Manitoulin; and Miss Ella Armstrong married Mr. George Somerville, of Acton.

The re-union attracted old pupils and their families from a wide area. They were present from all parts of Ontario, from the cities and from the rural districts, from New Ontario and New York, from Gloversville and Johnstown, from Toronto and Hamilton, from Detroit and Rochester, from Buffalo and Ballinafad, from Guelph and Georgetown, and from Esquesing and Nassagaweya, Milton and Brampton, and naturally a large contingent from Acton.

The programme was diversified and interesting. Johnston Brothers, a trio of Scottish pipers from Toronto, enlivened the proceedings during the afternoon with the strains of Highland airs. There were baseball games, on three separate diamonds, horse-shoe pitching, waltzing on the dancing platform, but above all the meeting of old friends and the rehearsing of incidents of personal acquaintanceships and community life.

After a bounteous supper, in which the menu was wholesome, attractive and generous, the crowd was assembled at the platform. There Auctioneer Kerr auctioned off the famous autograph quilt, prepared by the Dublin Women's Institute, Mr. Duncan McDougall being the highest bidder.

Following this an interesting historical sketch of Dublin School, its origin, its buildings, its Trustees and their annual meetings, its teachers for over seventy years, and salaries they received and incidents relating to all these was given. Mr. Alexander Macdonald and Magistrate H. P. Moore were the Historical Committee, and the latter presented the result of their researches. It was ascertained that the School Board was organized on January 1, 1858, and that John Kennedy, Matthew McCann and Angus Kennedy were the first Trustees. The first school was a log building, but in 1873 steps were taken, under the following resolution, for the erection of a new and more commodious schoolhouse: "Moved by Samuel J. McKenzie, seconded by Matthew McCann, that the Trustees of this school be instructed to raise $800.00, from the Municipal Council of the Township of Esquesing, for the erection of a new schoolhouse." An interesting co-incidence is the fact that 29 years later the school building was re-built, clad with brick, and otherwise improved by J. B. Mackenzie, the present Mayor of Georgetown, and son of the mover of the resolution for the erection of the school.

The following well-remembered residents of the section were Trustees: John Kennedy, Matthew McCann, Angus Kennedy, Alexander McDonald, John Robertson, James Bell, William Firstbrook, James Gibbons, John Stewart, Benjamin Anderson, C. J. McDonald, Hugh Kinnaird, John McDonald, Peter Gibbons, Henry Vernen, Alexander Waldie, Patrick Lamb, Thomas Elliott, Samuel J. McKenzie, John Stalker, and William Mullin. The only one living of this list is the last named, and he was present at the re-union.

A very creditable feature of the afternoon's programme was the marching and drills by the present pupils of Dublin School, under the direction of their teacher, Miss E. E. Young. The pupils were attractive costumes of red, white and blue. Their numbers were greatly enjoyed.

The scholars sang this improvised song, with fine effect:

COME BACK TO DUBLIN
Tune: Come Back to Erin

Come back to Dublin,
Old Timers! Old Timers!
Come back again to the land of thy youth,
Old Timers,
Come back with maples and springtime,
And our real welcome shall blend with thy mirth.

Sure when we sent you the warm invitation,
Little we thought of the many there'd be,
Little we thought of the ones who were coming
Over the mountains, the bluffs and the sea!

Then come back to Dublin, Old Timers,
Old Timers,
Come back again to the land of thy youth,
Come back to Dublin, Old Timers, Old Timers,
And our real welcome shall blend with thy mirth.

The following is the list of competitions that were held during the afternoon:

In a softball game, between a home team and a team of the visitors present, the home team was victorious.

A tug-of-war between teams of visitors and home men, was also won by the home aggregation.

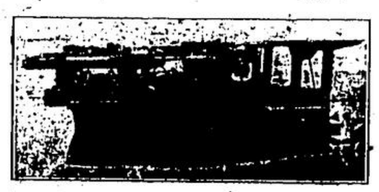
In the evening the grounds and platform were brilliantly illuminated with electric light—the first time in the history of the school. An excellent programme of songs, fancy dancing, etc., was contributed by Mr. Alex. McDonald, J. P., Toronto, Johnstone Bros. and Miss Johnstone. Dancing occupied the platform until a late hour. Frank's and Black's Orchestra providing the music.

Upon their return from their engagement at the Milton celebration the members of Acton Citizens' Band attended and contributed their quota to the programme.

The conveners of committees, through whose efforts the re-union was brought to so successful a conclusion, were: Refreshments, Peter McIsaac; Music, John Black; Sports, J. B. Mackenzie; Platform, J. Sproul; Booth, Duncan McDougall; Gates, Duncan Waldie and J. B. Black. They were assisted by a host of willing and competent workers.

The event was historic and was thoroughly enjoyed by the hundreds who attended.

Free Press Instals Modern Newspaper Press



As intimated last week, arrangements were under way for the installation of a modern newspaper press at the office of THE FREE PRESS. Yesterday the installation of this Babcock Optimus Press was completed and the first pages of THE FREE PRESS were printed on this modern machine yesterday, with the final forms today. The press was purchased through the British Printing Machinery Company, of Toronto, and has been installed by Mr. H. Knipe, of Toronto. To these and a loyal staff of helpers THE FREE PRESS owes much for the prompt and careful installations and the completion of the work enabling us to issue THE FREE PRESS promptly on schedule.

Possibly a few facts concerning this newly installed equipment will prove interesting. The total weight is over eleven tons and a solid concrete foundation was necessarily constructed to set the machine on. It is capable of printing four pages of the size of any of the Toronto dailies at one time, at a speed of 1,800 papers per hour. The press is 15 feet 2¼ inches long, by 12 feet 2 inches wide, and 6 feet high. Its installation will also equip THE FREE PRESS to handle a larger variety of job work than has been undertaken in the past, and put this office in the forefront with equipment for offices in towns of Acton's size.

We will be pleased to show this machine in operation to callers next week, when sections of the paper are being printed, or other work being put through.

A VERY HAPPY RE-UNION

Held on Monday at No. 3 School in Nassagaweya

The re-union of the pupils of No. 3 School, Nassagaweya, which was held on Monday afternoon and evening, fully realized the anticipations of those who conceived the happy idea. For months the matter has been talked about, invitations sent broadcast to former scholars, teachers and friends. The realization of the event was highly gratifying.

This last day of June was a perfect summer day. Early in the afternoon the people began to arrive and they continued to come until the spacious and attractive grounds of this venerable old school property, artistically decorated with flags and bunting, was taxed in its accommodations.

The people came from the east, the west, the north and the south; until a vast concourse of old pupils and their friends—covering the seventy-five years of the school's honorable history—had assembled. And no wonder. The spirit of welcome was manifest everywhere. The "welcome" banners attested it; the reception committee at the two entrances emphasized it; the provision made for the comfort and pleasure of all who attended was everywhere manifest.

The spirit of informality added to the pleasure of the occasion. So informal it was, that even a register of the guests attending was omitted. It did not seem to be needed; nor any formal introductions. Everybody greeted everybody else as friends, and all were friendly indeed.

The indefatigable Secretary, Township Treasurer Jas. Moffat, and his corps of workers, were most active in making things "go," and they succeeded admirably.

The large company present was made up of the school pupils covering the three-quarter century of the school's history. Numbers of the teachers who had worked so earnestly to advance their respective classes, and to maintain the fine reputation which No. 3 always enjoyed were present. Many of the pupils brought their families, some of them up to the third and fourth generation. There were preachers there, and doctors, and lawyers, County officials, Township Councillors, they were there from remote points of Canada and from various parts in the United States. They compared notes as to families; they enquired for old-time friends, they visited the old school room and sat at the desks which were theirs in the happy school days. There was gladness at successes and prosperity.

A feature of the day was the arrival of a round hundred of old No. 3 boys and girls from Guelph, who brought with them Guelph's picturesque and versatile Jazz Band. Those excellent musicians, with their lively musical airs and their grotesque antics, lent a lively bent to the afternoon.

Hundreds present were delighted to meet their former fellow-resident, Hiram Wallace, of Guelph, who this year is celebrating his hundredth year. The venerable old gentleman appeared to be in excellent health and vigor, and recognized with pleasure the many who greeted him.

The programme of amusements included baseball matches by lady teams and young men players; horse shoe games, in which even the preachers engaged. There was a dancing platform. The evening thunderstorm, however, rather interferred with the anticipated pleasures thereon. Frank's Orchestra and the Guelph Jazz Band were both there to add the terpsichorean activities. The picnic lunch feature was an incident which was also enjoyable.

When the company was gathered at the platform in the early evening Mr. James Moffat, who presided, read a letter from Dr. D. R. Gillies, of New York, who regretted his inability to attend, but was represented by his wife, who was formerly Jenny Canute. The Doctor, in his interesting letter, announced that he and his wife had arranged to donate a gold medal each year to the pupil of School No. 3, making the highest at his or her examinations each year, for the future.

Brief addresses were made by Dr. McCullough, of Rockwood; Thomas Moore, Secretary-Treasurer of Halton Union Fire Insurance Company, both of whom were teachers in the early days of the school; W. F. Ingram, who was Principal of the Milton Public School, and a former teacher of No. 3 School, was also present.

Among the County official present were David Hutcheon, County Treasurer; and Reeve Campbell, both of whom were pupils of the school; ex-Warden Agnew, Police Magistrate H. P. Moore, ex-Warden Duncan Campbell, and Township Councillors Finney, Lamb and Lillycrop, ex-Reeves David R. Hutcheon, M. J. Carton, Thomas Moore, James Moffat, all of whom were connected with the school, were present.

James Waldbrook, Liberal candidate for Halton, was an interested visitor.

The re-union was an unqualified success, and many hope that not many years will be allowed to elapse before a similar gathering is arranged for.

—The members of Maple Leaf L. T. B. Lodge will hold their annual Tag Days on July 11 and 12, in aid of the True Blue and Orange Home at Richmond Hill.
