"Which was formully opened with appropriate ceremony last week. It is a commodious building, with ample accommodation for both Public and Continuation Echool pupils. There are two class rooms and assembly room and science room for the Continuation School upstairs, and a teachers' room. There are fifty-two pupils in attendance at the Continuation Echool. The Public Echool has three rooms downstairs and an attendance of nearly a hundred pupils. A new modern steam heating plant has been installed and splendid lighting is obtained in all rooms by the large windows installed in each classroom. The alterations and the placing of the second storey, with the additional rooms, cost $18,000.
