DIRT

COX—In Milton, on Saturday, November 9, 1930, Margaret G. Sumerville, beloved wife of Thomas Cox, in her 64th year.

TURNER—In Trafalgar Township, on Sunday, November 9, 1930, Howard L. Turner, beloved husband of Edna Galbraith, in his 42nd year.

THOMPSON—At her home, Peel Street, Acton, on Tuesday, November 11, 1930, Sarah McLean, beloved wife of the late Joseph H. Thompson, in her 86th year.

JOHNSTON—At the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, on Thursday, November 14, 1930, Francis Eugene, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Johnston, aged 5 months and 11 days.

This and that

- It was a real day of remembrance.
-Christmas is just six weeks from today.
-There was ideal November weather for Thanksgiving Day.
-It seems hard for a real rain to materialize these days.
-A new time table is now in effect on the Arrow Coach Lines.
-Crease were plentiful and low enough in price for Thanksgiving.
-We may be advertised by our friends, but most of us do it all ourselves.
-The temperature mounted to 54 on Sunday. Quite salubrious for November 9.
-Municipal nominations are just a week from tomorrow—Friday, November 21.
-Judge Munro held a sitting of Division Court at the Town Hall here on Thursday last.
-It has been a glorious autumn, anyway, even if we may expect winter just around the corner.
-The body of an unknown man was washed ashore from the lake, a short distance east of Oakville.
-Armistice Day was remembered loyally for the twelfth year in succession. We will not forget.
-The Royal Winter Fair opens in Toronto next Wednesday, November 19, and continues until November 27.
-Mr. James Stephenson, of Toronto, sang with much acceptance a tenor solo in Knox Church on Sunday evening.
-If you don't take advantage of the specials offered in the advertisements weekly, well, it's your loss, that's all.
-The season for wet, slippy pavements is here. Motorists, for your own sake and the safety of others, be careful.
-The Foxe Park Travel Club contest is creating quite an interest and many are selecting their favorites who will win the prizes.
-The old-fashioned way of doing business without advertising was all right in the days when there was little business to do.
-Blow to and fro, light flakes of snow fall fitfully on field and fen, but in the heart hope has a part; bright days will surely come again.
-Visitors or other news items are all necessary to keep your home paper interesting. We appreciate your assistance in collecting it all.
-Thoughts, appropriate thoughts, of Thanksgiving and Armistice Day, characterized the sermons in most of the churches on Sunday.
-It is difficult to remember everybody if you leave your Christmas shopping until the last hectic week before the great "festal" day.
-When a car overturned in the ditch near Bronte, on Tuesday, the four occupants made their escape and the car was completely demolished by fire.
-Now come gray days when through the haze the old church spire is dimly seen; the trees are bare, and everywhere is shadow, where the sun has been.
-Blank spaces marking lines sold out are appearing with regularity in the Foxe Park Christmas card assortment. May we impress upon you the wisdom of selecting yours now.
-Thanksgiving Day was celebrated in countryside and town and city. The doors of the home stood open wide, and the children came from far and near. All Canada gave thanks.
-The candidates in the Foxe Park contest have slumbered down to those who will share in the prize awards. Give your help to your favorite now or within the next week, when it will count most.
-The Belwood banker who was guilty of $350 theft, received a three-year term in penitentiary. He might better have engaged in the stock brokerage business as returns would have been higher and sentence lighter.
-A series of meetings throughout the inspectorate has been arranged by Public School Inspector J. M. Denoy for the purpose of acquainting Trustees and auditors with the new basis on which grants are operative.

RUSSELL DONALD PERRIN JAILED

Was Leader of the Cooper Store Burglary in Acton—Sentenced by Police Magistrate Moore to Four Years

After nine months of diligent following-up of clues the officers of the Ontario Provincial Police at Toronto succeeded in apprehending Russell Donald Perrin, alias A. E. Archer, D. Ross, etc., who led the gang who burglarized the clothing store of W. M. Cooper, Acton, on February 6, last.

During the nine months Perrin had been in Toronto in Winnipeg, in Chicago, in Cleveland, and was apprehended by United States detectives at Ashtabula, Ohio. He waived extradition proceedings and was taken to Toronto by Inspectors Gurnett and Miller. There a large number of charges awaited him. He was tried on several of these and was sentenced to twelve years in Kingston Penitentiary.

On Thursday last, on a warrant issued upon an information laid by Inspector Gurnett, before General V. A. E. Williams, who is a Police Magistrate for Ontario, Perrin was brought to Milton to be tried before Police Magistrate Moore, on the charge that "he did on February 6, 1930, break and enter the store of William Cooper, Acton, and did steal therefrom a quantity of clothing and merchandise over and above the value of $200.00."

When the charge was read to the prisoner, and the Magistrate gave him the option of being tried forthwith before him, or by a Judge and jury, Perrin said: "I object to be tried before you." When requested to plead on the charge against him, he said: "I plead guilty."

The Magistrate then pronounced the following sentence: "Russell Donald Perrin, you are committed to the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph, for a term of two years less one day, as a deterring period; and to an indeterminate period of two years less one day; this sentence to run concurrently with the sentences of imprisonment previously imposed on other charges in the courts at Toronto and Ottawa."

When interrogated by the Magistrate as to the possibility of making restitution to Mr. Cooper for his loss Perrin said: "I think I can recover a part of the goods stolen; I will do all in my power to make amends."

Russell Donald Perrin was a soldier in the late war. While in action he suffered the loss of his right leg. After returning to Canada he spent some five years in returning to the interests of disabled soldiers. He is an intelligent fellow, small of stature, but rather possessing in appearance. He told the court that he regretted his mistakes very much, but he had been unfortunate in getting into bad company, which resulted in his downfall.

Just a Little Short

The discharge of Alf. Bishop from the Toronto Police force is the subject of investigation by Toronto City Council. The city dailies have carried lengthy articles on the case. It seems Alf. was taken on prior to the police games, and later the discovery was made that he was seven-eighths of an inch short in height of police requirements. Alf. helped the Toronto force win points in the games at various places, but he didn't get all the facts they expected. The process of Alf. in athletics is well known here, where his home is, and now the exactitude of the city police force is also being measured. Seven-eighths of an inch. The tape line must have been made to shrink prior to the games and later to stretch.

BALLENAPAD

Miss Beatie Blinnie and Miss Milligan, of Toronto, spent the week-end at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Binnie.

Mrs. E. J. Wright and Miss Mary McKown, Miss Helen and Grace Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. George Matthews, of Toronto, were visitors on Sunday at the home of Mr. Alfred Soper.

We are pleased to report that Mr. Fred Higgins is on the mend.

The thank-offering meeting of the Women's Missionary Society is to be held here on Friday evening.

The tea meeting of the United Church, which was held on Wednesday evening last, was a grand success.

The year is becoming old. A small time ago, and it was young and beautiful. Then, almost without our knowing it, the year has grown until—on Monday and Tuesday—we celebrated the last great days of the autumn season.

We Guides were glad to be taking part in the feast of Monday. There was a prouder, and a thrill, to be marching behind those in khaki and those who give us our music.

There were solemn feelings as we sat in the hall, but they were tinged with pride. We Guides were proud of those for whom the service was held, and glad that we were of the robes from which they sprang. You know we, too, are soldiers, in a way. Our Guide shield is the motto, "Be Prepared;" our swords and spears the Guide Law; and our Captain—He is the Great All-Captain.

Did you notice the hazy sun, on Monday? Like a good old chap, he rose to the occasion and stood at intervals during the day. I noticed he frequently lit up the hall. He seemed especially fervent and glad about something.

Perhaps (if such a thing were possible) the Centolph was surprised to see those in blue uniforms again this year. Yes, the Guides marched last year, but then we had only started. Would we keep up? Well, if you help us (as you kindly have done), and if we help ourselves, and if everybody helps everybody (as Dickens might say) the Centolph will see the Guides each Armistice in the years to come. There will be more than one company, we are sure.

You know there is a whistle signal of Captain's, which commands us to "March." Despite the gentility of Mr. Finn, many people had small need of that whistle signal. Hrrrr! Wouldn't it be fine if some kind person took it upon himself to ask November that she not send a warm day for Armistice? We say "Ay!"

By the way, did you notice our shoulder sashes? They are quite smart, don't you think?

The present Guide room is inconveniently situated and very cold. Otherwise it is an ideal room. We have hopes of a warmer and more convenient meeting place, which will also be safe from outsiders. We have secured from the Halton Rifle permission to use their room in the Avenue.

It is indeed astonishing, when one notes the number of boys who are interested in Guide work—unfortunately our name is plainly "Girl Guides." That wasn't very courteous, was it? But then we should really be glad if we might work—or play—without audience of boys. Perhaps, sometime, we will have to our meetings all those boys who seem especially interested in Guides or their work. Would you like that?

What a talkative pen (?) this is—or is it "writative"? Anyway, this is enough chatter for this week. Indeed! Indeed! It is!

W. M. S. THANK OFFERING MEETING

Mrs. Frederick Clave Honored with Life Membership in the Society

The autumn Thank-Offering meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church, Acton, held in the School Room last Thursday afternoon, was a gratifying success.

The attendance of members of the congregation was large, the programme excellent; the special address by Mrs. (Dr.) Adams, Toronto, informational and inspiring and the thank-offering generous.

Mrs. A. T. Brown, the President, presided with her customary grace and ability.

Mrs. J. W. Harber's read the scripture lesson and Mrs. McLean offered prayer, which was centered upon the activities of the missionaries and the mission-fields.

Mrs. Roy H. Arnold displayed a very pretty piano selection, descriptive of a pathetic incident bearing upon the lives of some of the missionaries of our country.

Mrs. James K. Gardiner sang, with splendid effect, the selection: "Jesus of Galilee."

Mrs. (Dr.) Adams was the speaker of the afternoon. In a carefully prepared address she arrayed in effective succession from personal experiences gleaned from twenty years of work there, incidents relating to the life of the people of China in the western provinces; the salutary effect of the spread of the gospel through the missionaries' lives and service among them; and the great need for the continuance and extension of missionary activities. The successful work of the Women's Missionary Society of the churches was emphasized. The address throughout was full of information and naturally inspired the local members to greater zeal in their efforts to supply missions, schools, hospitals and other ways and means peculiar to the W. M. S.

An incident of the afternoon which was a kindly and much-appreciated recognition of service was the making of Mrs. Frederick Clave a life member of the Society, and the presentation of an emblematic pin and a certificate.

The school room was skillfully decorated in harmony with the autumn season.
