WOMAN RUNS ENGLISH FERRY 72 YEARS For seventy-two years this pleasant faced woman, Mrs. Thelma Rowbottom, has been ferrying men, women, and animals across the Trent River at Castle Donington, in Leicestershire, England. Now she is to retire at the age of 97 years. During her long career Mrs. Rowbottom has carried many notables over the river, including scores of lords, and dukes, and marquises, and other nobility. Many famous hunters and their hounds also have been included on the passenger list. Through all these years Mrs. Rowbottom has depended upon her own strength to propel the boat. She has come to know personally the larger part of her passengers, and in retiring has great regret in that she will miss their daily greetings. They also say that the Donington ferry without Mrs. Rowbottom at the helm will not seem like the same boat. Advanced age forces her retirement.

TO AVOID BLOATING

Bloating is an ever present danger with dairy cows on pasture, particularly where the legume is alfalfa. Means for lessening this danger, advised by animal husbandry experts of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, include: Never turn a cow out on alfalfa pasture on an empty stomach; give a small feed of dry matter available in or near the pasture at all times; don't turn the cows out onto a freshly irrigated pasture, or a pasture reeking wet from rain, heavy dew or coated with frost. Much of the danger may also be avoided by mixing grass with alfalfa in seeding down the pastures. The cows prefer grass to legumes such as alfalfa or sweet clover and will take the edge off their appetites before feeding on these.

HOGGING CORN SAVES FEED

In a series of four tests at the Brandon Experimental Farm of the Dominion Department of Agriculture the practice of "hogging" corn, i. e. turning hogs into a field of mature corn to feed, show that material economies in meal feed are possible and that the returns from hogs so fed are substantially greater than the cost of growing the corn. The type of hog developed is entirely satisfactory; the practice of "hogging" saves considerable labor in feeding; and it supplies considerable grain for growing hogs at a time when farm grains are most scarce. An ample supply of fresh water must be available on the hogging lot, and tankage supplied by a self-feeder is desirable.

THE WRONG PRESCRIPTION

The great ocean liner rolled and pitched. "Henry," faltered the young bride, "do you still love me?" "More than ever, darling," was Henry's fervent answer. "Then there was an eloquent silence. "Henry," she gasped, turning her pale, ghastly face away, "I thought that would make me feel better, but it doesn't!"

What is the most indigestible age? Satirago.

TENT-ATIVE A kindly landlady inquired of the young bride how she and her husband proposed to spend their holidays. "Our plans so far," replied the bride, "are tentative." "Oh, how delightful!" exclaimed the landlady. "I'm sure you'll enjoy camping out more than anything else you could do."
