MARRIED

GRAPP-TATE—At the United Church Parsonage, Acton, by Rev. O. L. Poole, B. D., on Thursday, August 13, 1931, William John Grapp, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Grapp, Acton, to Elizabeth Tate, of Acton.

DIED

STOVEL—At the General Hospital, Guelph, on Saturday, August 15, 1931, Susannah Brown, beloved wife of George Stovel, of Guelph.

COKE—At Guelph General Hospital, on Saturday, August 15, 1931, John MacLaren Coke, younger son of the late James Coke and Margaret Ellen Coke.

SMITH—At the home, Young Street, Acton, on Friday, August 14, 1931, Hazel Anna Cole, beloved wife of James D. Smith, in her 39th year.

Acton Fair is less than four weeks away.

Schools re-open in less than two weeks.

The exhibition opens a week from tomorrow.

Vacationists are commencing to return home again.

An ounce of performance is worth a pound of preaching.

The Canadian National Exhibition waterfront is 1 1/2 miles long.

Every advertisement has a saving of its own—read them thoroughly.

Acton Fall Fair prize lists for 1931 are now in the Secretary's hands.

Acton Fair, September 15 and 16, is noted as the outstanding rural fair.

When trouble comes who men take to their work; weak men to the woods.

Acton Legion and Acton Band will attend the Exhibition on Saturday, August 29.

The value of the Canadian National Exhibition buildings, park and plant is $21,000,000.

Corn on the cob is quite the delicacy on the family menu these days, and it's cheap, too.

Don't throw waste paper on the streets. It gives the community an untidy appearance.

Judging from present indications Acton Fair this year will be another record-breaker for attractions.

A couple of runaway boys from a neighboring farm home were returned to their parents by Chief McPherson yesterday.

Music Day, one of outstanding attractions at the Canadian National Exhibition, fall this year on Thursday, September 3.

The added bus service of the Arrow Lines on Saturday necessitated two buses on many of the trips to care for the week-end traffic.

Don't be a quitter. Be like the child, who, when someone asked him how he learned to skate, replied: "By getting up every time I fell down."

The Northern Whig and Belfast Post, of Ireland, recently contained a splendid tribute to the late H. P. Moore and the influence for good he exerted on the community.

Lacrosse is making a start in Acton again, there being a crowd of boys down practicing last night. Everybody who has a stick be down at the park with it and let's get the old game going again.

The Milton Champlain says: "Port Hope Town Council has reduced the annual grant to the town band from $800 to $400, to be paid in three annual instalments." We wish the Port-Hope Band annual success three times a year.

Exhibition chorists of 2,000 voices, accompanied by St. Hilda's Band, will be heard in four concerts at the Canadian National Exhibition this year. This, the most famous choral organization in America, appears in the Coliseum on August 29, September 3, 8 and 12.

IT'S WORTH A TRIAL

Two men were standing on the corner of a busy street in an eastern city comparing notes about employment, or rather about unemployment.

"I have two days off each week," remarked one, "but it's not entirely waste time anyway. You know that piece of ground to the right of my home? I leased it from Sam Fisher, and if you stop around in about a month or two I will show you the finest little garden you ever saw."

"I haven't had a garden for twenty years," replied the other wistfully. "Somehow or other I never had time. But that idea of yours if worth a trial. Even if I can't lease a piece of ground I have plenty of it going to waste around my own home."

He stopped for a moment and smiled. "It would not surprise me," he added, "to find that I can take care of a little garden almost as easily as I can keep the grass cut and the weeds from growing. With more than my usual amount of spare time, and with meals of fresh home-grown vegetables 'before me,' I again say that it's certainly worth a trial."

Entered Into Rest

MRS. JAMES D. SMITH

A happy little home on Young Street, Acton, was sadly bereft of its guiding spirit and two little children were left without a mother when Mrs. James D. Smith passed away suddenly on Friday afternoon, in her thirty-ninth year. Mrs. Smith was, before her marriage, Hazel Anna Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Cole, of Ballinfad. Eleven years ago she was joined in holy wedlock to James D. Smith, of Acton. Theirs has been a happy home with two little children, aged six years, and Margaret Elizabeth, aged nine years, and the sorrowing husband the deepest sympathy of the community goes out in their bereavement and loss of a loving mother and wife. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Cole, and a brother, John, and two sisters, Miss Mary and Miss Beattie, all of Ballinfad, are also left to mourn the loss of this young life. Mrs. Smith was a member of St. Alban's Church, Acton, and the funeral on Sunday afternoon was conducted by her pastor, Rev. P. A. Sawyer, assisted by a former pastor of the Ballinfad Church, Rev. Mr. Waddell, now of Hamilton. Friends from Ballinfad and Acton congregated on Sunday at the funeral in large numbers to pay their last respects. Among those from a distance who attended were: Mr. and Mrs. Nelson, Miss Margaret Clendinning and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Burt, of Conlangley; Mr. and Mrs. H. J. R. Shortill, of Brantford; Mrs. L. T. Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Miller, Toronto; Dr. Abbott, of Erin; Prof. Joe. Cook, of the Dominion Experimental Farm, Ottawa; and numerous friends from Ballinfad, Erin and Georgetown. Interment took place in Fairview Cemetery, Acton. Among the floral tributes were offerings from Mr. H. Price and family; Tyler family; Mrs. H. Price and Mrs. A. McEachern; Mr. O. Woodhall and Mrs. Munnell; Mrs. Pootit, Mrs. B. Turner and Mrs. H. Simethurst; Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hansen; Mrs. Collier and Mrs. C. M. Anderson; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hall and family; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Eccleshall; Messrs. Warehouse Employees; Congregation of St. Alban's Church; Beardmore Leathers Ltd.; Acton Lodge I. O. O. F.; Sons of England; Miss Thompson; Husband; Mr. and Mrs. P. Cole and family; Mr. and Mrs. W. Waller and family; Mr. and Mrs. P. Rawlings; Mr. and Mrs. Huggan.

TRY A LEMON RINSE

One does not have to be a Hollywood star to enjoy a refreshing lemon rinse for the hair. One does not have to be a millionaire either, for this rinse is merely the fresh juice of one or two lemons to a washbowl of water, followed by a clear water rinse.

When you wash your hair, a flimsy curd is formed by the soap and this curd coats practically every strand of hair. Correct on it and while the curd remains the hair is more or less sticky and hard to manage.

The fresh, mild, harmless citric acid of the lemon cuts the curd away, and the water takes it off, so the hair is free from any trace of soap. There is no bleaching from this rinse, except the lighter color that is brought out by cleanliness.

Use the juice of a lemon to a quart of water just before the final rinse. Then take a basin of fresh warm water and rinse thoroughly. No further directions are needed.

MADE NOT BORN

When the proverb tells you that poets are born not made, that settles the question for most of you. You have a pretty strong conviction that you were not born a poet, and since there is no hope of making yourself a poet, that writes itself to this corner as far as you are concerned. Luckily poets are the exception, however. If you want to be a business man or a telegrapher, a farmer or a minister, you can make one. By taking the ordinary human endowment and making the most of it, you can fit yourself for most callings. You can make yourself almost anything you wish to become.

Perhaps it is fortunate that poets are born not made, for useful as poets are, there is no need for a great many of them. It is fortunate, too, that to realize your ambitions, most of you do not need any rare endowment. You can make yourself whatever you want to become by taking yourself in hand and making the most of your material.

HOW'S YOUR BRAIN?

This is a trick—so don't say we didn't warn you. Read this sentence: Federal taxes are the result of years of scientific study combined with the experience of years.

Now, count the 'r's in that sentence. Only once—don't go back and count them again.

There are six 'r's in the sentence you read in the paragraph above. An average intelligence recollects three of them. If you spotted four, you're above average. If you got five, you can turn up your nose at most anybody. If you caught all six you're a genius, and a lot too good to be wasting your time on foolishness like this.

RUSSIAN DANCING

Anyone should be able to become proficient in modern Russian dancing. Merely fold your arms in front of you and start running rapidly while sitting down. Simple, isn't it?

Reformatory Guard Charged with Theft

Charges of theft of about 50 electric light bulbs and five pairs of mittens have been preferred against Gordon A. Kennedy, until a few days ago a guard at the Ontario Reformatory. Kennedy is alleged to have stolen the articles from the Reformatory. He was remanded until Tuesday on bail of $2,000.

Five in Auto Mishap

When their automobile, on the Guelph-Hamilton highway last night, the Guelphers turned over in the ditch, five persons were injured, two of them seriously. Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Jones, of Guelph, are in the General Hospital suffering from internal injuries and severe cuts, while Joseph Hazard, St. Catharines, is also in the hospital with back injuries. Leroy Pert and W. Harley, also of St. Catharines, escaped with minor hurts. The automobile was a total wreck.

Endeavoring to Establish Identity

Almost conclusive proof that the man whom the coroner's jury at Brampton declared several days ago was George Graham, well-known knight of the road, was not that person was found Tuesday. Provincial Officer Thomas Owens met the real Graham on the way to try to identify the man now lying in the anatomy department at the University of Toronto. Graham will inspect the body tonight, and declared his belief that the man killed by the car was Geo. Graham, who had been a wanderer in the district for many years, and whom he had warned time after time to be careful on the highways. Confronted by Graham, Owens admitted that he had erred.

Keep Your Eye on Oakville

Lou Marsh had the following comment in the Daily Star the other evening that will be interesting to hockey fans locally, inasmuch as last year Acton was grouped with Oakville and it is evident that this year will run up against a stacked team: "Keep your eye on Oakville this season. I pulled up for gas there the other day and the chap who said 'How many, sir?' was Joe Raybould, Walkerton star, and 'Bozo' Kelly, the Palmerston goalkeeper, and a couple of Owen Sound and Ixowal youngsters. I recognized an pretty handy with hockey sticks joined in a chorus of 'Test your oil, mister?' and with a side line of 'How's your battery?' And I did hear that Bill Hancock, the well-known coach, was billed to handle the collection. You know, Oakville has half a dozen smart home brews, too, who would not look short in any intermediate company."

Drowned at Port Credit

William Montgomery, aged 39, of 434 Delaware Avenue, Toronto, employed as an Inspector in the Department of Public Health at the City Hall, Toronto, was drowned in five feet of water near the mouth of the Credit River at 3.30 yesterday afternoon. Montgomery had gone to Port Credit earlier in the afternoon, taking his daughter, Mrs. Herbert Everleigh, at the Centre Road. After visiting the Centre Road home, Montgomery and his mother and sister went to the banks of the Credit River to spend the afternoon. He took advantage of the occasion to bathe, and waded out about 12 feet from shore. Just at the point where he was seen to sink, about six minutes after he had entered the water, there is a steep drop, almost perpendicular, and the river bed becomes very deep. It was at this identical spot that Lynn Murphy, of New Toronto, sank and lost his life on June 15. Montgomery was not a swimmer and sank as his mother and sister were looking on.

"FEEDING" THE CANDIDATE

Politics, says the Argonaut sagely, are the staple of the world over. Certainly the following story, which comes from England, will remind our politicians of some of their own peculiar tactics.

It is told of Lord Carmarthen that he once was an election mainly because of a smart remark that he made in answer to a heckler. As the story goes, the heckler shouted from the back of the hall:

"Does your mother know you're out?" Lord Carmarthen retorted, "Yes, she does, and next Tuesday she'll know I'm in!"

But the interesting sequel has just come to light. "It was perfectly true," Lady Carmarthen once admitted. "We sent one of the footmen with instructions to call out that very question."

GIRL GUIDE NEWS

The ship's ready to be setting off and Saturday she'll sail out of the port, with a blue flag flying. Captain at the stern, and numerous blue-clad sailors on deck. If it weren't for frightening the timid, we could all break out into some pirate ditty.

Anyway, on Saturday, after having their pictures taken, the First Acton Company are off to camp, and mothers please note the following: The Guides will attend to all medicines, and if they bring food, it is to be handed in to the Quartermaster. Visitors are allowed and looked for only on Visitors' Day, Wednesday, from one o'clock to five o'clock. Visitors may bring their own supper and stay, if they wish. The Guides will supply tea.

The camp is an ideal place. Each patrol has separate bunk house, and there is one big dining hall.

The swimming place could not be better. There is a place roped off for the beginners, and of course we will have a fully-qualified swimming instructor. That is one of the rules laid down by Headquarters. We have our programme for each day. There is plenty of time for meals, for sleep, and for writing letters, and by the way, the Guides desire a regular deluge of letters from Acton. You see, we will feel so high and mighty when we inquire at the Tockwood Post Office, "Any mail for the Guides?" Two girls, a Patrol Leader and one of her patrol, will fetch the mail each day.

Our last day at camp will be Saturday and then the ship will come home again, with the blue flag flying. Captain at the stern, and a deck-load of blue-clad sailors. We will come home browner and brighter and within us the deep, exquisite something that camp always leaves.

PARTIAL VICTORY NOT ENOUGH

Some people have more temper than courage to control. Although at times they give way to fits of anger, they master the impulse to be angry many times a week. Those of you who are of a less temperament should respect them for the struggle they make for self control, in spite of occasional failures.

Those of you who are hot-tempered, however, must not be satisfied with partial victory. If you can conquer nine out of ten temptations to be angry, you can conquer the tenth. Conquer it you must, if you would escape disaster. An aviator cannot rest content with making nine successful flights out of ten. If he crashes on the tenth, his career may come to an end right there.

You are likely to make too many excuses for bad temper. Considering the great lengths to which you go to avoid harm it does, it ought not to be considered leniently. Those of you who profess the highest ideals often sow misery everywhere you go by your failure to control your temper. If this is your besetting sin, instead of adopting an exultant attitude toward it, look on it as something that must be conquered at all costs. Even if you only yield to one temptation in ten, that may be enough to wreck your own life and spoil the lives of those you love best.

USING FRUIT PEEL

Many delicious dainties may be made from fruit peels that are too often cast aside.

Grated orange and lemon rind are used by the best cooks to flavor cakes, pies, breads, desserts, frostings, fillings, sauces and other foods.

In grating, only the yellow portion of the rind should be removed. This yellow portion contains the oil cells from which come the volatile oils that give the flavor. The grated rinds are preferred by many to the commercially prepared extracts, which while made from the same oils, frequently lose their flavor more readily when heated.

Grated Peels: Grate only the yellow portion which contains the oil cells. Use fresh or mix with sugar and keep in a tightly covered jar.

Candied orange peel and marmalade are two other delicacies that the wise housewife will prepare quite often.

QUALIFICATIONS YEAR

"Sir, I would like to marry your daughter."

"What's your occupation?"

"Radio Announcer."

"Take her. You're the first man who ever said good night and meant it."

WORLD RECORD LAYER

A pert little White Leghorn hen, owned by Wm. Whitting, of Port Kells, B. O., must have taken to heart the slogan of Egg Laying Contests in Canada. "An egg is day keeps the axe away." So far an official records go no hen has yet been able to lay an egg a day the year around, but No. 2086 H.L. as Mr. Whitting's hen is named, came within eight of a perfect record when she laid 357 eggs in the 365 days in which she was a competitor in the B. O. Egg-Laying Contest at the Experimental Farm of the Dominion Department of Agriculture at Agassiz, B. C. Her record is official, being made entirely throughout the period of the egg-laying contest under competent neutral supervision of one of Ontario's official egg-laying contests.
