TALKING TOO MUCH

The people who talk most are those whose words carry the least weight. The chatterer is hardly listened to. Words that come in an incessant flow have the same effect as the rustling of the wind in the leaves, or the pattering of the rain on the roof.

Do not talk too much. Socially the chatterer is unpopular. The people who have to listen all the time, and never get a chance to say anything, resent it. In the business world no one is looked on with more suspicion than those who are always talking, and when the perplexed seek counsel, they never turn to the chatterer. There is a great amount of fun made of President Coolidge's taciturnity, but that does not lessen the confidence the people have in his judgment, and it adds weight to his words, when he speaks out.

"Do not talk too much. Do not be known for the number of your words rather than the worth of the statement you make.

September Weddings

BARNES-EASTERBROOK

A pretty autumn wedding took place Saturday, September 26, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Easterbrook, Guelph Road, Campbellville, Ontario, when their eldest daughter, Elvira, was married to Mr. J. H. Tansley Barnes, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Barnes, Ashgrove, Ontario. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. Mr. Gandier in front of a bank of autumn foliage, yellow and bronze marigolds. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of beige embroidered net, ankle length, with a brown transparent velvet jacket and carried a shower bouquet of blush pink roses and maiden hair fern. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Edna Easterbrook, who wore brown satin and carried roses and fern, while the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Horace Barnes. Little Vera Hall made a dainty flower girl in peach crepe and carried a basket of rose buds. The wedding music was played by Miss Tyra Wilson, who also accompanied a cornet solo, played by Mr. Lloyd Easterbrook during the signing of the register. Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served to about thirty guests. Later Mr. and Mrs. Barnes left on a motor trip to North Bay, Sault Ste. Marie and Detroit. The bride wore a brown travel tweed dress, brown tweed coat with natural wolf collar, brown French felt hat and matching accessories.

GRIEVE-McDONALD

A wedding of interest locally was solemnized on Monday, September 28, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Neil McDonald, 313 Cromwell Avenue, London, when their elder daughter, Hazel Luella, became the bride of Andrew Gilbert, second son of Mr. Ninian Grieve, of Ilderton. The ceremony was performed at high noon by Dr. Bruce Hunter, pastor of Metropolitan United Church, London, in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. To the strains of the wedding march, played by Jean, the bride's sister, the groom took his place under the bridal arch, and awaited the arrival of the bride, who entered on the arm of her father, and took her place beside the groom. She was tastily gowned in a dress of beige georgette and chiffon velvet, with silk crepe shoes and hose to match, and carried a sheaf of Talisman roses and wore a chromium Loreo wrist watch, the gift of the groom. After the ceremony was concluded, and customary congratulations extended to the bridal couple, the bride led the way to the dining room, where a delicious buffet luncheon was served. The toast to the bride was, in a few well-chosen words, proposed by Dr. Hunter, and responded to by the groom. The happy couple left by motor on a short honeymoon trip to Hamilton, Peterboro and other points, the bride travelling in a tan colored silk and wool suit, trimmed with brown, with other accessories of a matching shade. On their return they will take up residence in London. The gifts to the bride were of such a nature as to show the high respect in which she is held among her friends. The staff of the Cities Service Oil Co. (with which both of the contracting parties were identified) with a host of friends, extend heartiest congratulations and join in wishing them bon voyage through life.

THOMPSON-DEWAR

Old St. Andrew's Church, Toronto, lovely with blue delphinium and pink asters, was the setting for an interesting wedding on Saturday at 3 o'clock, when Mildred Jean, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William J. Dewar, of Milton, Ontario, and sister of Dr. William F. Dewar, was married to Dr. Clarence E. Thompson, of Detroit, Michigan, only son of Dr. and Mrs. B. E. Thompson, of Stoney Creek, Ontario. Rev. Dr. J. R. P. Sclater conducted the ceremony, and Miss Ruth Curry played the wedding music. Dr. Harvey Doney sang during the signing of the register. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Dr. Dewar, was becomingly gowned in white bridal satin. Her frock was made on princess lines, with fitted bodice and long sleeves which were trimmed with pearls for buttons. The full, ankle-length skirt formed a long train, and her veil of silk net was fashioned simply with a fold across the top of the head, caught with orange blossoms at either side, and falling in graceful folds over the dress and to the end of the long train. She carried a shower bouquet of blush pink roses and lily-of-the-valley. Miss Edith Dewar, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, in a gown of coral chiffon, and Miss Nora Henry, daughter of Premier and Mrs. George S. Henry, was bridesmaid, wearing French blue chiffon. Their frocks were made alike with fitted bodices, tiny puff sleeves and full skirts on which a ripple flounce of the chiffon flared diagonally across the hip-line, both back and front. Each wore a large hat to match their dress, trimmed with uncut ostrich, and they carried large bouquets of pink roses and blue delphinium. Dr. Goldwyn Henry, of Hamilton, Ontario, attended the groom, and the ushers were Dr. R. G. Knowles, and Mr. George Stevenson. A reception followed the wedding ceremony, and was held at the Old Mill, where Mrs. N. S. Chisholm, sister of the bride, received with the bridal party in a becoming frock of black lace, with which she wore a black velvet hat and corsage of Talisman roses and lily-of-the-valley. Mrs. Thompson, mother of the groom, also received, wearing a black lace dress, with a black hat and a corsage of roses and lily-of-the-valley, and Mrs. M. E. Mitchell, aunt of the bride, was in smart black gown, with matching hat and corsage of orchids and lily-of-the-valley. Leaving by motor for the Adirondacks and Green Mountains, the bride wore a green and gray crepe dress, with green accessories and gray travel coat, trimmed with a large fox collar, and on their return Dr. and Mrs. Thompson will reside in Detroit.

WHY THEY MARRIED

During the cold weather last winter, an Irishman applied for a ticket for the church soup kitchen, and the minister was surprised to recognize in him a man whom he had married only a week before:

"How is this?" he said. "How come you to take unto yourself a wife, and not be able to keep her?"

"Well, since yer riverence wishes to know, O'll tell you. You must know, surr, that she applied for soup, and her being a single woman narry a drop they would allow her. And O! applied, and narry a drop would they allow me. If I had bin a married man, they said, it would have been another thing. So your riverence, we got married to get the soup."

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

That the advertisements inform you of of what is new on the markets.

Advertisers know that business policy demands the absolute truth about their merchandise, it is quality and price and that it must be as advertised or you won't come back for more.

Advertised merchandise will look as good to you when you get home as it did at the store.

Shopping right is very important, as it means the saving of money.

You should always insist on getting advertised merchandise because it is better.

Advertising introduces you to new goods and service. It always pays to shop at the stores that advertise.

People who are hunting bargains find them by reading the advertisements.

Nowadays people know that it pays to buy what they read about, instead of buying things they never heard of.—Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Oklahoma.

A NATIONAL CONGRESS

With 2,800 Congregations of the United Church Participating in Convention at Massey Hall

In the discharge of its duty toward the people of the prairies and other outposts of the Christian faith, the United Church of Canada is convening a Missionary Congress in Massey Hall, Toronto, for two days, October 1 and 2. Representation of more than 2,800 congregations in Ontario and Quebec is planned, in order that the church's task and opportunity in the present world situation may be considered.

The Prime Minister of Canada, Right Hon. R. B. Bennett, and the Moderator of the United Church of Canada, Dr. Oliver, have signified their intention of being present and will address the Congress on the opening night. A distinguished visitor from abroad, Dr. Toyohiko Kagawa, of Tokyo, Japan, is to be welcomed by the Congress in the name of the United Church, and will bring the message of the Kingdom of God Movement to the thousands of delegates.

The whole programme is such as challenges the attention of all members of the United Church and, indeed, of all who are interested in the welfare of the church of Christ. Our community is one which has shown an early interest in the Congress because of its strong emphasis on the noblest plans and purposes for world betterment. Gatherings such as this are a witness to the virility and aggressiveness of the Christian religion in grappling with the problems of our time.

THE HABIT OF PUTTING OFF

A good many young people form the habit of procrastinating without realizing it. They start by putting off the work they do not want to do, and frequently the habit spreads until it includes the tasks they do want to do. It is easy to see why people put off a visit to the dentist, although that is an extremely wrong way to do; but why do we put off writing a letter to a dear friend, or visiting some famous spot in the vicinity?

A few years ago a rich man died in a city forty miles from Washington, District of Columbia. This man had visited Europe a number of times and had frequently been in Washington, but he had never gone out to Mount Vernon. He had always intended to do so some day, but had put it off since it was a visit he could make at any time. What happened in his case is constantly occurring. We put off not only the affair we dislike to attend to, but that which we want to do, with the consequence that it is never done.

Guard yourself against the habit of postponement. Once it is fixed, not only achievement is doomed but also happiness. How often we put off the affairs that would mean most to us!

A CHAMPION FAMILY

One of the most remarkable of American families is the Ruddy family, which has specialized as champions. The father, who is still under fifty, has taken seven hundred and fifty prizes in athletic contests and has twenty-six sets of championship medals. One of the sons, a boy of fifteen, won twenty-nine out of thirty-one swimming contests in which he entered last fall, and his brother, two years younger, has won thirty prizes. The oldest of the sons is an outstanding athlete in the Naval Academy, and the two girls are medal winners.

It is interesting to notice what the head of this remarkable family has to say about the way they have achieved such successes. Having expressed himself as to the importance of simple fare, fresh air, and plenty of exercise, he winds up with this statement: "Let me add that none of us has ever smoked, not even corn silk, and I don't think any of us ever will, at least as long as none of us try to compete with a locomotive."

A strong, sound body is necessary for those who are ambitious to excel in athletics. Are they the only people to whom it is important?

BEFORE AND AFTER

A country physician whose skill and devotion have saved many a life, commented recently on the difference in the attitude of the people who call the doctor after one of the family is taken sick, and when they pay the doctor, after the patient's restoration to health. This same difference may be noticed in prayer. The intense, prolonged, fervent prayers almost always are asking for something. The giving of thanks is frequently compressed into a few conventional phrases.

The people who are ready to fall on the neck of the country doctor when he battles his way through a blizzard to get to the bedside of a sick patient, may leave his bill unpaid weeks and even months. Do not take such people as your models. Do not pray earnestly for some desired blessing and then when it is yours, express your gratitude in a few perfunctory phrases.

KEEPING FRIENDS TAKES TIME

It is generally understood that it takes time to make friends, but sometimes we overlook the fact that we must take time to keep friends. You let a friend's letter go unanswered for a year, and you might as well not write. You excuse yourself by saying that you have not time for writing letters, but anyone can find a spare half hour in say, three months, in which to answer a friendly letter. You let another friend pass through an illness or through bereavement without hearing from you, and that friendship is marred.

It takes time to make a friend, and you must take time if you hope to keep your friends.

PHILANTHROPISTS IN APPRECIATION

The son of a distinguished American told a large assembly recently that his father, many years ago, resolved that when he noticed anyone doing work especially well, he would express his appreciation. This has led him, the son said, to write congratulatory letters to presidents and cab drivers, and to men of all classes between these two extremes. The father is a noted philanthropist, but we cannot help wondering whether or not the large sums he has given away have brought any more pleasure than his habit of expressing appreciation of all the good work that comes under his observation.

So far as the giving of money is concerned, the benefactions of most of us are extremely limited. There is no reason, however, why we should not all be philanthropists in giving appreciation. How little it costs to compliment a good breakfast, to thank the motorman who holds the car a half-minute until we can get aboard, the people who squeeze a little closer on the already full seat so we can sit down. The habit of noticing every little kindness and courtesy, and expressing our appreciation would add more to the happiness of the world than many a widely advertised philanthrophy where nothing was given but money.
