

FIELD
In spring the fields of promise trownly lie
Turrowed and waiting for the eager grain.

Green and unresting as a billowed sea
The summer fields, when combing winds go through;

Changeful as youth as fair, as strong, as free
The gray cloud chance of the silver rain.

So ends the pageant, and the autumn yields
Nature's last rite—a snow winding sheet.

Serent's quaintness, winter fields,
When all the lovely cycle is complete.

SILVER SCURF OF POTATOES

Although silver scurf is not regarded as a serious disease of potatoes it is considered of importance in Canada, particularly in the Maritime Provinces.

Undoubtedly this is an old disease although the first record of its occurrence was made in the year 1871 in Europe and in the United States in 1897.

A few years later the Dominion Botanist drew attention to its appearance on Canadian grown potatoes.

Silver scurf attacks only the tubers, original infection taking place in the soil. In the early stages it appears as slightly sunken and discolored areas upon which will be seen the sclerotia or the winter stage of the causal fungus, the Latin name of which is Spondyliocladium atrovirens.

When diseased tubers have been in storage a few weeks the affected areas become more conspicuous and take on a silvery appearance, the character suggesting the name of the disease.

If the surface is rubbed with the hand this symptom is even more noticeable. Where infection occurs, either in the ground or in storage, the tuber is noticeably flattened in the region invaded by the fungus.

While the diseased areas are seldom as conspicuous as in the case of scab the fungus, nevertheless, injures the skin which results in a loss of moisture followed by a shrinking of the tubers with their market value appreciably reduced both for use as seed and table stock.

Furthermore, rot producing organisms gain entrance, which, even under good storage conditions, results in loss and inconvenience. In the case of poor ventilation, and especially where there is excessive moisture, silver scurf develops with great rapidity, a fact which has been supported by observations made at the Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology, Charlottetown.

It has been demonstrated likewise that when potatoes are stored in sacks the conditions thus provided are ideal for the development of this disease.

Inasmuch as seed treatment does not destroy silver scurf its progress must be arrested by other means. This is best accomplished by allowing the harvested crop to sweat in the pile before placing in permanent storage which should have thorough ventilation at all times.

Avoid storing in sacks and poorly constructed bins. For further details communicate with the nearest Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology, where all enquiries will be answered free of charge.

"True, auntie," the girl replied, "but he's certainly a mighty poor beauty doctor."

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR SUNDAY, OCTOBER 18

PAUL IN THESSALONICA AND BEROEA

Golden Text.—Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law.—Ps. 119: 18.

Lesson Text.—Acts 17: 1-12. Study, also, Acts 17: 1-15; 1 Thes. 5: 12-23.

Time.—A. D. 52. Places.—Thessalonica and Beroea.

Exposition.—I. Paul in Thessalonica, 1-9.

Paul had at this time a quite uniform mode of procedure: first, he began with the Jews at their regular place of meeting, the synagogue (cf. vs. 10, 17; ch. 9: 20; 13: 6; 14: 1; 18: 4; 19: 8); second, he made use of the Sabbath Day, the regular Jewish day of assembly. Those already Christians met on the first day of the week for their own distinctive service (Acts 20: 7). In order to reach the Jews, Paul wisely made use of their day, as missionaries among the Jews still do. Third, "he reasoned with them from the scriptures." Nothing else was the power to convince, convict and convert and regenerate, save the Word of God (Gal. 3: 10; Jer. 23: 29; 2 Tim. 3: 15-17; Jas. 1: 18; 1 Peter 1: 23; Luke 8: 11). In his preaching, Paul emphasized three points: (1) The Christ must suffer. Why the Christ must suffer, we are told in Isa. 53: 6; Matt. 20: 28; 26: 28; Heb. 9: 22; John 19: 36, 37; and are therefore under the curse of the broken law of God (Gal. 3: 10), and He must suffer even unto the death by crucifixion to redeem us from that curse by taking the curse upon Himself (Gal. 3: 13). He must become sin on our behalf in order that we may become the righteousness of God in Him (2 Cor. 5: 21).

(2) The Christ must "rise again from the dead." This, too, he proved from the Old Testament as Peter did on Pentecost; (3) That "this Jesus whom I preach unto you is the Christ." There are many in these days who wish to substitute some other Jesus from the One whom Paul preached, some Jesus of their own conception or fancy, and not the actual historic Jesus. But this Jesus being the Christ, it is of the highest importance that we accept Him and no other Jesus and no other Christ.

Christ is not at all the historic Jesus Christ. If we do not accept this Jesus whom Paul preached as the Christ, an awful weight of guilt rests upon us (Acts 2: 34-37; 3: 23, 25). Paul set an example in what he preached worthy of all imitation by modern missionaries and preachers. Politics in Thessalonica were in a bad enough way, but Paul did not preach politics, nor reform. He went at the root of things. God-blessed this kind of preaching. "Some of them believed" (cf. 1 Thes. 1: 6). This is the usual result when the pure Gospel is preached in the power of the Holy Spirit.

In the Epistle which Paul wrote to them later we get a very charming picture of them (1 Thes. 1: 6-10). Those who believed threw in their lot with Paul and Silas; true converts always seek the society of other Christians. But the Gospel caused division as well as union in Thessalonica; union of believers, division between believers and the world.

Paul's success aroused the envy of the Jews; every successful preacher must expect to be envied by smaller men. There was much truth in the charge brought against Paul and Silas (v. 8); but Paul was never ever did as much to "turn the world upside down" as this man Paul. There is great need to-day of preachers who turn things upside down and thus get their right side up. They accused him, too, of "saying that there is another king, one Jesus." He did say that, and it needs to be said again and again to those who see no king but some king of this earth. Some day all must own His kingship (Ps. 2: 8-12). But while Paul said there was another king, he sought to turn no man from his duty to Caesar (Acts 25: 8; Romans 13: 1-7). The persecution was not allowed to go very far yet (v. 9); the converts were young and God will not suffer any of His children to be tempted above that which they are able to bear (1 Cor. 10: 13, R. V.). But the converts there were genuine and, while persecuted of men, they rejoiced in the Holy Spirit (1 Thes. 1: 6).

II. Paul in Beroea, 10-12.

The departure of Paul and Silas from Thessalonica was no mark of cowardice, but simply prudence and in accordance with the specific directions of Christ (Matt. 10: 23). The Church did not go to pieces upon his departure (1 Thes. 1: 3-6), nor did Paul lose his interests in the converts he left behind him (1 Thes. 2: 18, 19; 3: 1, 2, 6-7). As soon as Paul and Silas reached Beroea, they at once began preaching again, and to the Jews at that; no matter how Paul and Silas might be treated in one place, the next town they struck they went to preaching again (cf. 1 Thes. 2: 3; Acts 14: 5-7).

No one ever had a better patient to nobility than these Beroeans; their nobility is seen in two things. (1) They "received the word with all readiness of mind," they had a hunger for the Word of God (cf. Job 23: 12; Jer. 15: 16; ch. 2: 41). They opened their mouths wide to receive it; some people receive the truth when you compel them to, real lovers of the truth are hungry for it.

"Thus received, it brings salvation and blessing (Jas. 1: 21; 1 Peter 2: 2). When to the one who does not receive it (2 Thes. 2: 10-12). (2) They searched (or examined) the Scriptures daily whether or these things were so." They wanted to be sure that they had the mind of God about it, and the Scriptures were the final authority. They were model Bible students: (1) They studied the

SOME APPLE FACTS

The apple is, without question, the king of fruits; whether fresh, dried, evaporated or canned it is a wholesome food, easily prepared, attractive and palatable at all times.

Apples vary in flavor and texture. They are best when picked at the hard-ripe stage, and when thus picked their quality improves in proper storage until they are marketed.

Some varieties are better suited to certain purposes than others. Broadly speaking, the finest colored red varieties make the finest appeal to the eye and palate, and are preferred for dessert and eating purposes, while a green color usually indicates exceptional cooking quality for pie, pudding and sauce purposes. The sound tart apple is best for preserving, but care should be taken to use such apples in their season.

There is no waste to a good apple, even the paring and core are excellent for use as jelly. The apple is the one fruit which contains a maximum of flavor and nutrition.

Apples should be bought by grade and size. More care is being taken to-day than ever before by growers and shippers to market apples with special regard to quality. A convenient range of containers is used for the marketing of apples, and all packing is done in accordance with government standards.

Scripture "as the Word of God." (2) They "examined them," no superficial scurrying over them. (3) They were systematic and regular in their study, they examined the Scriptures "daily."

(4) They studied with a definite purpose, and that the highest, to find out the truth about Christ, to find if the things Paul and Silas taught about Him "were so." They did not waste their time in the examination of curious theories about the human authorship of the various books of the Old Testament. No, they studied what the Scriptures had to teach about the Christ, so it is recorded "therefore many of them believed." Paul's converts in Beroea were of all classes, many society women and many men were included in the number.

Paul was not allowed to preach unhindered, the devil always raises difficulties when anything real is doing, but the persecution only served to spread the Gospel and to take Paul to Athens. In the closing portion of our lesson we have the apostle reminding those for whom he had labored, of his having spared nothing to bring them to Christ.

HOW FIRES START

The Fire Marshal of Woburnia has issued a bulletin which he terms a "Compendium of Errors."

He looked for a gas leak with a match, and found it.

He lighted a match to see if his gas-oline tank was empty. It was not.

He smoked while filling his auto tank, but will do so no more.

He smoked in bed, so did the bed-clothes.

He threw the matches into the waste paper basket. It is wiser now.

He threw a cigarette stub into some rubbish.

He saved his oily waste and oily rags and they burned his shop.

He washed his hands in gasoline near the stove.

He did not worry about fire as he had "plenty of insurance," and forgot the safety of his wife and children upstairs.

He stuffed up the chimney holes with paper and rags.

He cleaned her gloves with gasoline and saved 15 cents, but paid the doctor and druggist fifteen dollars.

He poured kerosene into the lamp while the wick was burning.

He put gasoline into the wash boiler on the stove to make washing easier.

She dried clothes too near the stove. She used the wrong oil can.

She burned sulphur all over the house to fumigate.

She used the woodbox back of the range as a waste paper receptacle.

She gave matches to her children to go out to burn leaves in the yard. The cotton dresses burned.

She was "singing right back," so left the electric current on her iron.

She swung the gas bracket too close to the curtains.

She fixed up a fine theme paper stove while one burner was on.

THE HYPOCRITE

Of all the stumbling stones in the path of young folks in the spiritual life the problem of the hypocrite is perhaps the largest one and the hardest one to get over or around.

Some member of the church does something wrong, and either with some think he should be "thrown out" at once. Again and again young men and women have milked and remained away from church services because somebody in their set or class has done them an injury.

Of course, this state of affairs is not confined to youth, by any means, but it is important that youth meet and solve the problem fairly and squarely. There are enough sinned, disgraced, unhappy beings who have remained outside the church all their lives because somebody inside did not live up to the rule.

Let us start with the proposition that there always were, and are now, too many inconsistent people in the churches. But what of it? Just at dawn some day and make out a list of the perfect Christians you know. It will not take long, and it will help you mightily.

Next consider that many of these people may be sincerely trying, even as you yourself are trying, to do better. They stumble and fall, but they rise to make another determined effort. It is to yourself, if they were my brothers, fathers, or sisters who stumbled would I wish to be thrown out myself if I fell? By that time the problem is easily solved, or at least many have solved it by this means.

Bladder Troubles Bother Many Past 40

Seven Out of Ten Are Victims But Writer Tells How "Uratals" Bring Swift, Amazing Relief With Renewed Vital Force

"No one knows better than I, the horror of joy-less days and sleepless nights. There have been times when I felt hopeless and helpless—and when my weakness caused me the most intense humiliation. Only those who have gone through such tortures can possibly realize my great satisfaction when Dr. Southworth's URATALS brought me quick relief. URATALS are truly wonderful, and I give them full praise." Such amazing evidence serves as convincing proof of distressing ailments so often a handicap to those in middle life.

Overworked, sluggish kidneys, and bladder weakness, arising on so many distressing ailments which so often lead to serious diseases that every sufferer from Lumbago, Pains in back and down through groin, scanty but frequent urination, "Chesting-up-Nights," Nervous Irritability and Lack of Force—should try the amazing value of Dr. Southworth's URATALS at once! Any good druggist will supply you on a guarantee of satisfaction or money back.

LEISURE IS NOT LUCK

The young persons who are always complaining of lack of time convict themselves by that confession of not knowing how to utilize their leisure. Two students every morning, and one of them used to be over or around. Some member of the church does something wrong, and either with some think he should be "thrown out" at once. Again and again young men and women have milked and remained away from church services because somebody in their set or class has done them an injury.

IF NO ONE IS FRANK WITH YOU

If nobody is frank with you, it is probably your own fault. There are some young men and young women so touchy that no one dares tell them the truth. Their friends pay them compliments to keep them in good humour and the criticism which would help them so much is suppressed, because no one will take the risk of offending them.

It is a compliment to you if people are frank with you. If they dare say what they think, it is a credit to your common sense. If no one is ever frank with you, if people evade and equivocate and come near falsehood rather than tell you the truth, the chances are that you are to blame.
