D. H. MCCAUGHERTY The death took place early Sunday of D. H. McCaugherty, of Streetsville, a many years he took a promisent part in agricultural affairs in the district and was widely known. He is survived by his widow, formerly Sarah Hutton; two daughters, Mrs. W. Thompson, Hornby; and Miss Jean McCaugherty, of his pastor, Rev. H. L. Bennie, M. Guelph: William and Irvine, at home.

Another pioneer of this district passed away last Thursday when Miss Bella Manson died in her eighty-fourth year For over sixty years Miss Manson has been a resident of this district, having emigrated from Calthness, Scotland, when a young woman. She resided with her nephew, Mr. James Douglas, at lot 18, concession 1, Esquesing Township. About a week previous to her death Miss Manson fell down the cellar steps at the home, and suffered head injuries from which she never rallied. Miss Manson was a fine type of woman-& neighbor in the truest sense of the word. During her lifetime there was no home in the district in which she could assist sickness or trouble that a willing hand was not freely given. Evidence of the esteem in which she was held was to be seen in the largely attended funeral on Saturday afternoon. MOTOR COACH TIME TABLES CO-ORDINATE

Passengers' travelling from one Ontario. point to another are now assured of a practically uninterrupted through service, through the co-ordination of the time chedules on the fourteen principal coach lines operating in the Province. Foster, Vice-President, Ontarlo-Association of Motor Coach Operators, means the elimination of all unnecessary stopovers and delays in motor coach travel. The new arrangement has been worked out with the co-operation of the Ontario Department of Highways, to which all common terminals for the convenience of service follows several years of close cooperation between the operators and the epartment of Highways. No one can establish an interurban hus service without the sanction of the Provincial authorities and the permit is contingent upon the operator's maintenance of standards which the Department has established for the convenience and protection of the public. Taxation of interurban buses it is pointed out, comes to something around $1,000 annually for a typical 29passenger coach travelling 30,000 miles yearly on the King's Highway. Such a coach would pay-$145 in license fees, about $350 in gasoline tax, and $525 for seat tax, or a total of $1,020. Further, the contribution of coaches to highway maintenance has been increased recently by higher license fees. All the modern vehicles, such as those in use on the principal lines are equipped with balloon tires and in the opinion of engineers these tires are not destructive of the modern type of highway which has to be built of a definite thickness to with-
