COMPANIES

A statement of deep interest to the hundreds of thousands of policyholders of the Sun Life Assurance and North American Companies was made by the Prime Minister of Canada, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett' when, speaking in the House of Commons on March 14, he characterized as "malicious and malignant" attacks made upon the company and expressed his complete belief in the solvency of the institution.

His knowledge of the position of the companies was founded, he said, upon Mr. and Mrs. R. A. McKinney and his personal inquiries, upon the investigations of the Dominion Insurance Department and upon the audits of the insurance departments of 38 States of Mr. Eugene McPherson was home from Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Browning and the United States, as well as those of other countries in which the Sun Life at the homes of their sister and brother does business.

"I need hardly say to the House," said Mr. Bennett, "that no matter with which I have had to deal in my official position gave me more concern than this. Why? Because it touched the lives of hundreds. of thousands—yea, almost millions—of Misses Margaret Grindell, of Stratford people, as well as many yet unborn, and Toronto Normal School, are holidaying mere guess, but to endeavor by every means in my power to see to it that our officials should make a report which would enable me to say to the people of Canada and elsewhere, who were dependent upon the solvency of this great enterprise that it was solvent. Many owners of these ancient pieces have brought them to dealers to be turned into cash without being aware that they are worth far more as works of art. DON'T SIT CROSS-LEGGED

The habit common to most of us. of sitting cross-legged, appears harmless nough, but it is beset with dangers, nevertheless.

The blood that circulates in the foot and leg below the knee is returned to the heart by veins that unite. Joined together they make a vein as large as an ordinary pocket book pencil, which crosses the joint behind the knee.

When the legs are crossed, as they are often when women sew or knit, this vein is so pressed upon that it is stopped, and the impure blood is retained in the leg. After a while the veins become so' full, and press so upon the nerves that the leg "goes to sleep.' Then it is removed, and the other one, "for a rest," is put up instead.

This habit, along with others that degenerate the blood vessels, tends, when persisted in, to produce varicose veins and, in extreme cases, abscesses in the ankles. The practice, and the consequent harmful effects, show themselves most among the class who are obliged to sit on a chair or stool, such as dress-
