This and that

-Guy Fawkes' Day is on Saturday.

-Less than eight weeks until Christmas.

-Remembrance Day—a week from tomorrow.

-It won't be long until the hockey season opens.

-Rain or snow seem to have been quite regular the past week.

-Ontario's new Lieutenant-Governor Dr. Herbert Bruce, assumed office this week.

-Plan to participate in the Remembrance Day service in Acton on November 11.

-Keep the doors and windows well locked. Several cases of petty thieving are being reported.

-These are days of great values. The advertisements tell of the greatest offerings to be secured.

-Acton's Remembrance Day service will commence at 10 o'clock on November 11. Plan to be present.

-Potatoes are a better price than last year. At 50c to 65c this crop is better paying than last year's price of 20c.

-The property damage was not serious about town this year. The weather had a dampening effect on Halloween ardor.

-Doesn't it make you mad when "postage due" has to be paid, and you find the envelope only contained a circular.

-Canadians have faith in the Dominion. The loan is being readily taken up and the short term bonds were soon oversold.

-The Arena certainly proved a very useful recreation centre when the disagreeable weather prevailed on Halloween.

-The teacher asked little Mary what the function of the stomach is, to which she promptly replied: "To hold up the petticoat."

-The Dominion loan, at four per cent, proved almost as attractive to those with money to invest as the one at six per cent.

-Acton Legion is certainly doing a commendable work in their educational effort to make Remembrance Day have a real significance and not just another holiday.

-Miss June Frank, who is attending Normal School at Hamilton, has been elected to the Literary Executive and appointed pianist for the School Orchestra there.

-The Ace of Club's dance in the Town Hall last Friday evening proved a very successful and enjoyable event. It was well patronized and the young people had a good time.

-Polson liquor at Hamilton takes lives of four persons," reads a newspaper heading. Let's see, isn't that the kind of liquor which was supposed to be done away with by the Liquor Control Act.

-Gordon Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harding Price, was successful in winning the silver cup donated by the T. Eaton Co. to the pupil who won the highest number of points at Limehouse School Fair.

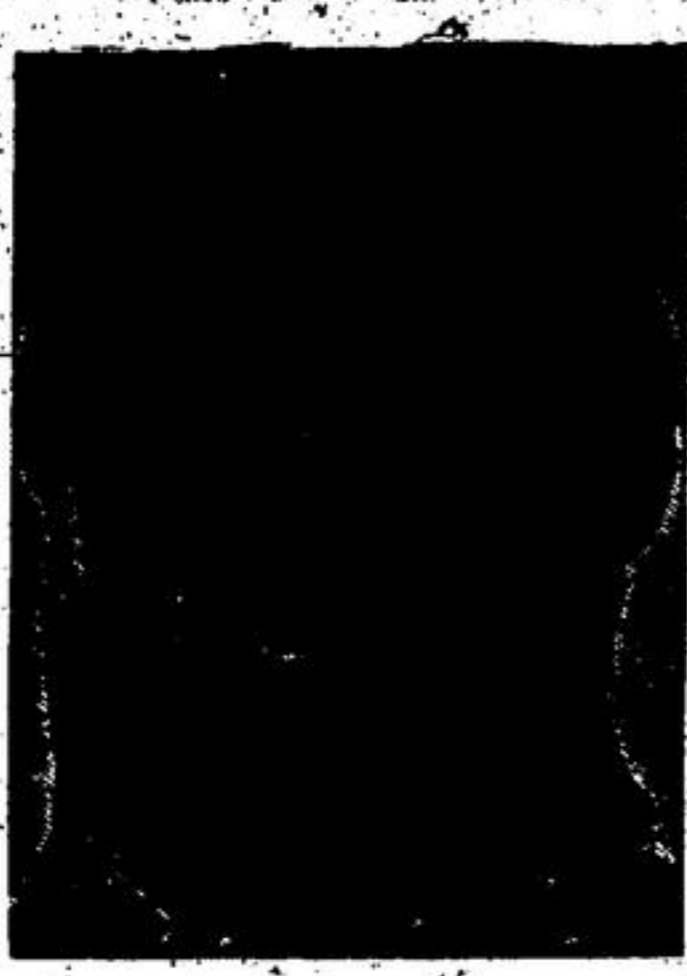

-Bruce B. Brewer's subject this week in The Free Press is "Ad Writer Free." It is a message of interest to local business men. Each week one of these special copyright articles appears in The Free Press.

-It was with some surprise that an item was read in the daily papers that the Directors of Erin Fair would cut prize-winners money by ten per cent. After reading of a crowd in the same papers estimated at 10,000 attending Erin Fair and now a lack of funds—Well, as the Englishman would say, "Somebody's been spooning us."

LIVING UP TO THE SLOGAN

"Another bill," sighed her husband, "we decided we were going to put by for a rainy day."

"Sighing, but don't you see the my new raincoat?"

A SHEPHERD FROM GALILEE

Coming to Acton United Church to present his musical travogue, "The Seven Wonders of Jerusalem and Galilee," under the auspices of the church, on Thursday, November 10, at 8 p.m., a North American citizen made a pilgrimage to the Holy Land recently, but it was made under different circumstances than the usual tour of Galilee and Palestine, for this American was going home, home to the land of his birth. In his boyhood he had tended his father's flocks of sheep on the hills around the Sea of Galilee. He had come to North America, where by dint of his own hard work he had his college and university education. And he returned to the land of his fathers, the Holy Land of all Christendom.

INSECT ROBBERS

Flowers offer many inducements to insects to visit them for their cunningly concealed nectar. Color, shape, scent, markings are all displayed to this end. It is intended that the insect seeking the nectar shall carry away to another flower the pollen necessary to fertilize the neighboring flower's seeds. But this does not always come to pass.

The balsam "Touch-me-not" is difficult to enter, so frequently the bee straddles the spur where the nectar lies, bites a hole, sucks the sweet, and goes off to do the same to another. It has been known to visit ten in one minute.

Of course, such flowers wither, unfertilized, and no seeds follow.

"Bumble" bees will bite the spurs of Columbine, and the honey-bees help themselves to the nectar which they cannot reach with their short tongues by entering the flowers.

Butterflies will sip nectar without paying for it by fertilizing the flower's neighbor. They steal from the blue fig and from sweet peas and vetches.

Many moths, too, are robbers. Beetles are shocking marauders, and devastating to roses, poppies and St. John's, which they visit for pollen. Some beetles will eat the anthers of grasses, and the rose chafer eats the stamens and petals of the rose.

Wasps prefer to rob a flower of its nectar rather than go in by the front entrance and do a little work in exchange for the sweets provided for it.

Red clover, dead nettles and larkspur are some of the flowers that suffer from this unfair treatment at the tongues of the insect robbers.

DISAPPEARING NEEDLES

When a needle falls upon the carpet there is often so much difficulty in finding it that one is tempted to leave it. This is a dangerous thing to do. If an ordinary magnet attached to a string is included in the sewing outfit, it is a simple matter to run it over the carpet; the needle will at once fly to the magnet. Fine needles may be threaded with ease if the cotton is first drawn across a candle, this stiffens the end of the cotton without making it thicker. If a rusty needle is placed between the strikers of two boxes of safety matches and rubbed briskly it will become perfectly clean in a second. Scissors have a habit of disappearing from view when sewing is strewn about the table. To avoid loss of time and temper an excellent plan is to tie a tiny bell on to the handle, using a bright ribbon for the purpose. A little shake given to the pile of material will reveal the hiding place.

SOMETHING WRONG IN LAND OF LOVE

Georgetown, British Guiana, October 31 - Maybe Cupid is working as effectively as ever, and probably betrothed couples have not dispensed with the conventional diamond ring. But there's something radically wrong in the world of love and luxury.

The famed diamond mines of British Guiana are far less active. Pearly tears fall from eyes that once gleamed with the joy of selling more and more glittering gems to the outside world. The diamond market has gone all to pieces.

However, nothing daunted, British Guiana has turned to another aspect of love and luxury. The export of gold from this country for the first six months of 1932 was 8,282 carats, compared with only 5,698 carats for the first six months of 1931. But British Guiana will not forsake the diamond business; not while the diamonds from Canadian National liners from Halifax and Boston and from other ships from Europe, continue to arrive almost as well-jewelled as ever before.

ADVERTISING PARADISE

Bermuda, known as "the Bermudas," "the Isles of Rest," "Britain's Oldest Colony," doubled its advertising appropriation last December in the face of hard times and a dark outlook. The result was 100,000 tourists in nine months—more than had ever visited Bermuda in a corresponding period.

Joseph J. Outerbridge, interviewed as he returned to Bermuda from Canada aboard the C. N. S. Lady Rodney, said more advertisements will be issued for the colony this winter.

LYE FOR MILKING MACHINE TUBES

The problem of keeping the rubber parts of the milking machine in a sanitary condition is one which concerns every dairyman who uses these machines. Many and various are the methods which have been advocated, and when properly carried out, the majority can be depended upon. However, practically all require an abundant supply of hot water for the washing of the machine, something that not many farms are equipped to provide.

While not questioning the desirability of hot water for washing process, the Division of Bacteriology at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, has been searching for some method whereby the tubes might be kept in reasonably good sanitary condition without requiring gallons of hot water at each milking.

As a result of studies extending over several years they conclude that the following method has the most to recommend it: Immediately after milking, wash out the milk residue as thoroughly as possible by drawing through by suction a pallful of cold water to each double unit; place the milk tube system on a home-made wooden rack, and fill the system with a solution containing one half of one per cent of ordinary lye.

Allow the lye to remain in the tube until the next milking, then drain it out. The tubes may be rinsed with cold water before using, although this does not appear to be necessary. Further details concerning this method may be obtained by writing to the Division of Bacteriology.

National Remembrance Day Ceremony

The fourteenth anniversary of the termination of the Great War is again to be solemnly observed in Ottawa, the Capital of Canada, when the National Remembrance Day Ceremony in honor of the more than 60,000 Canadians who died on active service, will be held on Parliament Hill, under the shadow of the Peace Tower on November 11, corresponding with the hour and date in 1918 when hostilities ceased on all war fronts.

The National Remembrance Day Ceremony this year, as in other years, is to be under the auspices of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League, and will be attended by Their Excellencies the Governor General of Canada, and the Countess of Bessborough, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada, Members of the House of Commons and the Senate, of the judiciary, of all the military units in the city, representatives of the legations of other countries, churches, patriotic and fraternal organizations and many thousands of persons from all walks of life.

The 20-minute service will begin with two minutes' silence in memory of the honored dead. At the conclusion of the service, wreaths will be placed on the Cenotaph, first by the Governor General of Canada, followed by the Prime Minister.

Canada's part in the Great War is briefly but eloquently epitomized in one of the tablets in the Memorial Chamber of the Peace Tower of the Houses of Parliament in the following words: "Six hundred twenty-eight thousand six hundred forty-two bore the badge of Canada in the Great War; sixty thousand six hundred sixty one met death and passed on."

Important Canadian Industry

What is officially classified as the Fruit and Vegetable Preparations Industry has made a notable advance in Canada in recent years. From 1921 to 1931 the number of plants in operation increased from 272 to 278, the capital invested from $24,558,889 to $49,152,245, the number of employees from 3,777 to 6,329, salaries and wages from $3,150,564 to $4,509,377, materials used from $12,003,946 to $18,668,100 and value of products from $20,967,476 to $32,572,580. The volume of fruit and vegetable preparations increased 95 per cent. This growth is indeed remarkable as it represents a corresponding increase in the domestic demand for these products, the foreign trade being relatively small as compared with the domestic production.

The industry supplied over 95 per cent of the domestic requirements. The fruit and vegetable preparations industry is divided into two main sections (1) fruits and vegetables, canned, evaporated, and preserved and (2) vinegar, cider, pickles, catsup, sauces, etc. The most important branch of this industry is the canning of fruits and vegetables, which is carried on most extensively in Ontario, British Columbia and Quebec, where climatic conditions for the growing of fruits and vegetables are particularly favorable.

The principal fruits canned in Ontario are apples, pears, plums, peaches, cherries, currants, gooseberries, blueberries, raspberries and strawberries. In addition British Columbia has the apricot and loganberry. The vegetables canned include tomatoes, peas, corn, beans, beets, carrots, pumpkins, squash, spinach and asparagus. The canning season begins in June and continues throughout the summer and autumn until October, being at its height in July, August and September. In September of 1931 there were as many as 16,561 wage-earners employed in the canneries.

OLD-FASHIONED FANCIES

Do you believe that Anemia and jaundice can be cured by cooking sheep's parasites into jam? To take dog's lard and goat's fat will help in tuberculosis? A person will be protected against rheumatism if he carries a wild chestnut in his pocket? The severity of a disease can be judged by observing how many of nine pieces of charcoal swim on top after they have been thrown into water? An eye disease will develop when an enemy takes a photograph and pierces the eyes? In order to have an easy confinement one has only to open all windows, doors, cases, cupboards, boxes and drawers, untie all knots and loosen all laces. A hunchback child may be cured by pulling it through a split tree at the time of new-moon before sunrise. Epilepsy can be cured by carrying the charred bones of a magpie on the chest, or by wearing the skull bone of a donkey on the forehead? New-born infants should not lie on their left side because that will make them left-handed?

GERMANY BUYS OUR EELS

The largest market for Canadian eels, states a report of the Department of Trade and Commerce, is in Germany, where considerable quantities are shipped annually. A cargo of 50,000 pounds of eels, the second large shipment this season, has started the trade for the season.

CLEANLINESS NOT MERELY A MATTER OF SOAP

When Henry Ford was asked recently to give the fundamentals of leadership, he started with cleanliness. He did not mean mere personal cleanliness—although he laid emphasis on that—but to his way of thinking, the man who has it in him to make a success, will keep his surroundings clean and orderly. Dirt, in his opinion, is a sign of waste, and it may be mental waste as well as waste of material. Uncleanliness and untidiness show a lack somewhere in the mentality, and this lack may be enough to bring about failure.

Physical cleanliness is becoming general. Keeping the body clean and wearing clean garments is the easiest side. Orderliness is harder. Many a young man who goes to his work immaculate, sits down to an untidy desk. Some girls who wash their hair every week and keep their nails in perfect condition, choose for their reading magazines that are filthy from beginning to end.

Mr. Ford's emphasis on cleanliness is far-reaching. It includes immaculate habits in the care of your person, orderly habits in your work, clean thinking, high ideals. Do not estimate your cleanliness by the amount of soap you use. It covers more than that.

UNPROFITABLE INVESTMENTS

You may assure yourself that you are not harmed by reading a trashy book, or going to a questionable entertainment. The man who invests in stocks, however, does not say to himself that he will not lose any money by doing so. That side of the case does not interest him. He is hoping to make anywhere from ten to fifty per cent, on his investment. He would not think of bothering with a stock if the best he could hope for was that he would not lose money.

Why be so much wiser in regard to the investment of cash than in the investment of time and energy? If all you can say in regard to the time you have invested in reading a book or going to an entertainment is that it has not hurt you, then you have proved how unworthy you are to be trusted with the most important affairs of life.

USURPING AUTHORITY

A manager of a large firm—a hot-tempered man—had occasion, or thought he had, to rebuke one of his clerks for some mistake. The clerk attempted to explain, but the chief cut him short by exclaiming: "Look here, sir! Are you the manager or am I?"

"Well, I'm not!" said the clerk. "Then, if you're not the manager," said the enraged chief, "why are you talking like an idiot?"
