Halton Protective Association

At the annual meeting of the Halton County Protective Assolcation, held in Milton, the Secretary reported the Association to be in a flourishing condition financially and otherwise. During 1932 the only loss of animals was three ewes belonging to Frank Ford, farmer of Trafalgar Township. The Association paid Mr. Pord two-thirds the value of the stolen sheep. Officers elected for 1932 are as follows: President, W. E. Mc-Cready, Milton; Vice-President, W. J. Clements, Milton; Secretary-Treasurer, Robert Bush, Jr., Milton.

CHANGING OUR MINDS

Don't be afraid of being inconsistent. Maybe you will say something to-day which you believe absolutely, and tomorrow you will say the contrary. Don't let that disturb you. The man who never changes does not progress. It is better to be wrong to-day and right to-morrow than wrong both to-day and

It is a tragic thing to be wrong: But to discover that you! are wrong and to insist upon maintaining your position merely for the sake of being consistent is even more tragic. NOT A LUXURY FOR THE RICH

Bruce Barton has recently written an article about his mother which shows a different point of view. This mother began her philanthropy when, as the wife of a young home missionary in the Tennessee mountains, she took into her home a poor boy who had been ill treated. The husband and wife educated this boy, sent him to college and medical school, and now he is a successful physician in a southern city. He was only one. Although five children were born to this couple, they educated fifteen young people beside their own family, and most of them were members of the household for a longer or shorter period. This was only a small part of the helpfulness these two gave freely. On minister's salary, with five children to bring up, they made themselves felt in many lands. When this quiet little woman died, her family received more than a thousand letters and telegrams most of them from people she had help-

HOW TO BE POPULAR

Many young people are wondering ho to be popular, but the fact of the matter is that people are liked for little kindnesses more than for great talents. In a certain music club the most popular member was a woman who never had out of reach. They are kindness, sym- means an ignoble life.

Just for a week keep strict account of the number of hours you actually work. Probably the way you count them up, they seem many.
