ARE YOU BORED BY YOUR OWN A COMPANY?

There is a story told of a prominent man who was asked how he enjoyed a social affair he had attended. He replied that if he had not been there himself, he would have been terribly bored. The remarks sounds conceited-it is conceited -but after all there is something about it that strikes the right note. At least this man was good company for himself. He was not bored in a crowd because he had himself to fall back on. By the same token he could not be bored any

Too many of you young people are bored by your own society. If you sit down with nothing to read, you are in a panic. You would rather have the dullest thrown back on your own resources. Of course, it follows, that you are bored the greater part of the time because you never can escape from your own com-

To be too easily bored by anybody's society is not wise. Most people have something interesting to say if you know how to draw it out.
