DEED
PERRYMAN—At Brougham, on Monday, May 22, 1933, Thomas Perryman, formerly of Acton, beloved husband of Fanny Christie, in his 84th year.

This and that

This is the sheep-shearing season.
The maples are out in full leaf now.
The crop of mosquitoes is very early this year and very prolific.
The showers of the holiday were downpours, but were soon over.
The apple trees, with their pink and white blossoms are a picture now.
Orangeville has reduced the tax rate from 48 mills to 46 mills this year.
The facilities at the bathing place at Fairy Lake are now being utilized.
The early potatoes are up through the ground and will soon be ready to hill up.
There was a noticeable lack of display of flags about town on Victoria Day.
Even the fishing stream had too high water to make that pastime profitable.
The picnic parties planned for the twenty-fourth had to be called off this year.
Mr. B. G. Arnold's residence on Wilbur Street has been newly painted and decorated.
The tulips are in full bloom in the gardens about town and present a wonderful appearance.
The best values are always advertised. It pays to do your shopping with an eye on the sale. And it's easier, too.
Mr. C. H. Harrison is having his residence on Bower Avenue re-shingled with attractive new colored asphalt shingles.
The church parade of Lorns (Scottish) Rifles will be held in Acton on Sunday evening, and led by the Regimental Band.
Some nice catches of speckled trout have been reported from the local streams. The times there are no catches aren't reported.
The Victoria Day weather hardly lent itself to the usual holiday plans. It was a splendid day, however, for the setting out of plants.
The little dandelions are brightening the hillside in their bloom. The flowers aren't so carefully gathered these days as they were a few years ago.

WELL, REALLY!

"Jones is boasting about his family tree."
"But does it amount to anything?"
"Oh, yes. It's all right as trees go. I believe it's shady."

CULLING THE FLOCK OF SHEEP

With the lambing season on, or coming on, and with shearing not very far away, the farmer comes in more or less contact with the individual members of his flock, and a little close attention at these times in tagging individuals for culling is well worth while.
Udder troubles are fairly common and show up most prominently following lambing. Udders that give trouble one season in all probability will give more trouble the next, and in most cases these ewes should be tagged for disposal.

Ewes that fail to conceive should also be marked for early disposal unless, due to the large number of failures, the ram is indicated as being at fault.
Certain ewes make much better mothers than others and if notes or records are kept of this it will also assist in electing individuals for culling. Some ewes are wild and flighty and a continual source of nuisance. The disposal of these may add greatly to the peace of the flock.

At shearing time a close observer will be able to make good selection of various individuals as to breed type and to quality of the wool. While wool prices are low it is all the more important to try and improve the quality and quantity, and a great deal of information in this respect can be gathered at shearing time.

In the shearing flock of Hampshire at the Dominion Experimental Station at Windermere the range in weight of fleeces ran from 8.5 pounds to 15 pounds with the average weight being 10.8 pounds. At prices received in 1932 for the wool there was a difference of approximately 45 cents in value between the high and the low fleeces. While feeding has an influence on the quantity and quality of the wool, breeding and selection are undoubtedly the biggest factors, and a great deal may be done by culling ewes with poor fleeces, and by using rams with outstanding qualities in this regard.

At shearing time the quality of the fleeces can be most readily observed and selections made accordingly. Black hair and wool are some of the most undesirable features, while length, density, quality and lustre are important considerations.
In times of adversity it is all the more important that farmers, by breeding and selection, should improve the quality of their product, and this selection is possible most easily made at lambing and at shearing time.

Agred Journalist Dies
One of the oldest working journalists in Canada, Phillips Thompson, died at his home in Oakville on Saturday, in his 89th year, following an illness of almost two months. A prodigious worker, Mr. Thompson died as he had lived, in harness. The end came as he was dictating an article to his daughter, Edith, who of late years had acted as his father's secretary. Edith left the room for a moment and returned to find her father dead. Born at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, he came to Canada with his parents in 1857. The son of a storekeeper, Mr. Thompson, with characteristic energy, put himself through law school and for a time practiced as a solicitor, but the call of the press, which at that time was enjoying a vigorous growth following years of suppression under the Family Compact, was too strong for him.

More than 43,000 Students
Students of university grade enrolled in the universities, colleges and professional schools in Canada as at June, 1932 numbered 43,143, an increase of 2,500 over the 1931 enrolment. The 1932 enrolment shows a total increase compared with the enrolment in 1922 of 55 per cent, and an increase of 320 per cent, compared with 1901. Some of the factors that have contributed to this increase are: the population of university age has increased about 80 per cent; the proportion of women to men in university courses has increased and there have been pronounced increases in the facilities at the disposal of teachers and others for obtaining a higher education by means of summer schools, evening classes and other part-time instruction, including correspondence. The proportion of boys in Canada getting as far as university graduation is about 4.5 per cent; girls, 1.5 per cent, or about 3 per cent of the population as a whole. Among the universities in Canada, the University of Toronto has the largest enrolment of full-time students of the regular session, with 6,009; the University of Manitoba, in Winnipeg, second, with an enrolment of 2,646; McGill University, Montreal, is third, with 2,442.

THE WINGS OF A DOVE

The Old Testament writer who wished for the wings of a dove, expressed a feeling that all of you have experienced at some time or other. When things get particularly trying, you feel that you must escape at all costs. If you could only drop your load of responsibility here, and get somewhere else, you would find everything peaceful and restful.

Pernaps one of the reasons you are not equipped with wings is that God does not mean to make it too easy for you to escape. In fact, flying away is no better than any other kind of running away. If your folly or wrongdoing has got you into trouble, the thing for you to do is to stay where you are, and do your level best to make matters right. Evading responsibility solves no problem.

It is no use wishing for the wings of a dove. You do not have them, and for a very good reason. Escape only means that wherever you "light," you will be confronted by new troubles, new difficulties. Stand your ground. Fight your battle where you are.

TO-DAY IS LIFE

Too many of you young people think of life as a rounded number of years, seventy or even eighty. These long distances, comprehensive views, however, are misleading. You need to keep in mind that to-day is life. You quarrel with your friends because you think you have time enough to make up and live happy after. You shrink because you deceive yourself into thinking that all that you do not do to-day, can be done to-morrow. To-day is life, and you should live it as though it were the sum total of life, with a high ideal, with inflexible purpose. You want friendship, happiness and success from life, or you do not rely, then, on an uncertain to-morrow. Ask all these blessings of to-day.

THE PEOPLE OF WHOM YOU ARE AFRAID

The other day a sturdy young man crossed the street in the middle of the block, dodging automobiles, and making in the minds of spectators the fear that he was bent on suicide. The trouble was that he had seen coming toward him a man he was afraid to meet, an acquaintance from whom he had borrowed twenty-five dollars, to be repaid when he received his month's salary at the end of the week. Nearly a year had passed since he had made that promise. Not a cent had been paid on the twenty-five dollars, and the debtor was afraid to face his creditor.

Remember that the only people you have reason to fear are those you have wronged in some way. If you have wronged anyone about an acquaintance, you can never meet his eyes without wishing to drop your own. If you have broken up a friendship by base insinuations, the presence of either of those alienated persons will make you uncomfortable. If you want to go through life, afraid of no one, wrong no one.

"Men may not look to the immediate economic future with complete assurance, but to-day they are at least facing it unafraid."—Odeen L. Mills.

Entered Into Rest

THOMAS PERRYMAN, Brougham
Just a week following the death of his sister, Mrs. Thomas Perryman passed away at his home in Brougham on Monday, May 22, and the funeral of brother and sister were on the same week-day just a week apart. Mr. Perryman was in his eighty-fourth year and has been gradually failing in health. Thomas Perryman was a son of the late Thomas and Eliza Perryman and was a native of Acton and spent his early years here. For a number of years he conducted a store in Acton, and his visits to the old home town were always a great pleasure to him. Just a few years ago Mr. and Mrs. Perryman observed their golden wedding anniversary. For a number of years now they have been residents of Brougham. One sister remains, Mrs. Robert Watson, of Niagara Falls. Besides his widow, who was previous to her marriage, Miss Fannie Christie, one daughter, Mrs. Love, of Toronto, and two sons, Edwin, of Brougham, and Rolland, of Trenton, remain to mourn his loss, and revere his memory. Friends in this community, where the deceased was so well-known for his extending sympathy in the bereavement. Mr. Perryman was a member of the United Church. The funeral was held yesterday from his home in Brougham and interment made in Salem Cemetery.

MR. MARTIN L. BUCK, Owen Sound
From the Owen Sound Sun-Times we glean the following obituary of Mr. Martin L. Buck, father of Mrs. A. K. Mann, Acton: "Another veteran of the Great War passed away suddenly on Thursday, May 11, at his home, 1707 Fourth Avenue West, Owen Sound, in the person of Mr. Martin L. Buck. Mr. Buck, who was in his 62nd year, was born in Jarvis, Ontario, and resided in Manitowlin Island with his parents when ten years of age, where he resided, till coming to Owen Sound seven years ago. He enlisted and went overseas in 1915, and served with the 159th Battalion, in Railways Troops, until the end of the war. He was married on November 1, 1905, to Janet Hopkins, who is left to mourn his loss. He also leaves two daughters, Mrs. A. K. Mann, Acton, and Pearl, at home; and eight sons, Austin, Richard, George, Herbert, Martin, Alvin, Kenneth and Billy, all residing in that city, also three sisters, Mrs. Edward Thompson, of Clovis, Cal.; Mrs. H. Young, of New Westminster, B. C.; and Mrs. Anne Howden, of Vernon, B. C.; and three brothers, Alanson, of Regina, Sask.; and Alonzo and Joseph, of Providence Bay and Spring Bay, Manitowlin Island. The late Mr. Buck was a member of the Baptist Church, also a member of the Loyal Orange Lodge, and the Canadian Legion. The military funeral in charge of the Canadian Legion took place at his residence, and was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Farmer, of First Baptist Church. The Rev. A. D. Cornett, minister of Knox United Church, and Legion Chaplain, conducted the military service at Greenwood Cemetery, Owen Sound."

ROBERT SWANSTON, Guelph
The death occurred on Monday evening, May 15, of Walter Swanston, well known resident of Guelph. He left home at noon in his usual health, and while engaged in a game of horseshoes was suddenly stricken and died in a few minutes. The deceased was the third son of the late Walter Swanston and Elizabeth Fielding, and was born at the old homestead, third line, Eramosa, where his brother's family now resides. He farmed in Eramosa Township until 1919, when he sold his farm and retired to Guelph. His first wife, Sarah Bathgate, predeceased him twenty-five years ago, as did also an infant daughter, Elizabeth. His second wife was Edith Laird, who, with two sons of the former marriage, Walter Earl and Lindsay Bathgate, are left to mourn the loss of a loving husband and father. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Peter Beattie and Miss Elizabeth Swanston, of Guelph; two brothers, Andrew Swanston, of Walkerton, and George Swanston, of Walkerton. A sister, Mrs. Lane, and another, Wm., predeceased him. In politics he was a staunch Liberal, and was a faithful member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Guelph. The funeral, which was largely attended, was held from his residence, 55 Duke Street, Guelph, on Thursday afternoon at three o'clock. The services at the house and grave were conducted by Rev. Mr. Marshall. The many beautiful floral offerings testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held. The pallbearers were: Andrew, George and Milton Swanston; Charles Bell, John Thomas and Robert Elliott.

AT CLOSE RANGE
One of the hardest tests in the world is to recognize greatness at close range. You find it difficult to believe that the boy who lives across the street can be a hero; that the girl in your class in school can achieve distinction; that your chum in the office has the makings of a leader in the world. Perhaps the reason for this is that we are members of your own family!

The people of Nazareth thought it impossible for Jesus to be all He claimed, because they had seen Him working in a carpenter's shop, and his relatives lived there in the town. Human nature has changed very little in that respect. You would be likely to treat those with whom you come in contact constantly with more respect, no doubt, if you realized that there may be in them, too, great possibilities.

THE HOT FORMALDEHYDE METHOD FOR TREATING SEED POTATOES

Inexpensiveness, simplicity of operation, high disinfecting qualities, low cost and rapidity of treatment make the hot formaldehyde method popular, especially to those farmers accustomed to treating large quantities of seed potatoes. The solution is made up by adding two pints of formalin to 25 gallons of water. This must be heated to not more than 128 degrees F. nor less than 120 degrees F. The duration of treatment is three minutes. Using wire baskets or wooden crates the seed tubers are immersed in this hot solution for the time specified and at the completion of this operation the treated tubers should be placed in a heap and covered for one hour, using tarpaulins or Burlap bags. This precaution ensures thorough disinfection by confining the formaldehyde gas around the potatoes. Upon removal of the covering they are allowed to dry off, thus putting a stop to the action of the formalin. The hot formaldehyde method costs from 50 to 75 cents per acre. It satisfactorily controls rhizoctonia and common scab on the seed tubers and is a reasonably satisfactory method of controlling powdery scab. The various systems of treating potatoes have been investigated by the Division of Botany through its Laboratories at Charlottetown and Fredericton. Those interested in the subject should secure a copy of Pamphlet No. 134, New Series, issued by the Dominion of Canada Department of Agriculture. It may be secured without cost from the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Any further information required may be secured from the nearest Laboratory of Plant Pathology.

THE WORST HANDICAP

The worst handicap is fear. It is astonishing what difficulties people can overcome while they have courage and determination. Men lose their legs and get ill responsible positions; their eyesight, and still earn a living; their hearing and still acquire wealth; their health and yet are influential in the community. Those who lose courage, however, cannot possibly make a success. As a rule that loss incapacitates them for holding down a job. People are down and out, not because they are half-educated, nor because they are not strong physically, nor because they lack influential friends, but because they have lost courage.

Most failures comfort themselves by the reflection that they were beaten by a combination of circumstances. As a matter of fact, no one is beaten except by himself.

"There is a law of self-defense superior to all wretched bourgeois prattle about law and order."—Adolf Hitler.

WASTE TIME

When you talk of wasting time, you are using a figure of speech. If you did your utmost, you could not lose or destroy a second out of the years you live. There is no way of making a dent of time, much less of breaking out a fragment, or throwing any away. You cannot waste time, but you can waste energy and effort. You can waste opportunity; you can waste yourself; you can waste life. Are some of you doing all of these things?

THE HABIT OF CONQUEST

Form the habit of conquest. Winning once or twice or a dozen times is not enough. You must form the habit of winning. Roosevelt said that the young man who was going to count in any way, must make up his mind not merely to overcome a thousand obstacles, but to win in spite of a thousand repulses and defeats. Look on all setbacks, therefore, as temporary. Make up your mind that nothing is permanent but victory.

Gloom and regret never do any good. Dwelling on them deadens our outlook.

Your Chickens Deserve It

When you pay for one hundred chicks you aim to raise one hundred. Every chick you lose increases the cost to you of those remaining. Every chick that does not develop into a big, husky youngster represents just so much added loss.

MASTER CHICK STARTER MASH

Will positively help to reduce mortality to a minimum. It contains just those ingredients needed by the chick to promote health and steady, sturdy growth and feathering. The low fibre grain base, supplemented with an abundance of Buttermilk Powder and Nopco XX Cod Liver Oil, together with other choice ingredients, provides a mash of unsurpassed and proven quality.

Your dealer can give you further particulars and can refer you to successful feeders in your district who have used Master Chick Starter Mash. See him to-day and arrange to have your requirements delivered.
