NO SAND IN SANDPAPER

Familiar as sandpaper is to everybody, yet there are very few persons indeed who know that this universally used product has no sand in it.

Sand cannot be used for making sandpaper because it is not efficient for that purpose, due to the fact that most sand is waterworn and the particles are therefore more or less rounded and have no sharp cutting edge.

The fine abrasive particles used in the manufacture of sandpaper, with a few exceptions, are not true crystals, nor are they alike.

SOME OLD-TIMERS

Dear FREE PRESS: This (June 28th) issue of THE FREE PRESS, brings to my attention names of several men, supposed to be old, whom I, approaching the same distinction, well remember.

Yours, J. S. COLEMAN, 4057 Wilson Avenue, Montreal.

CANALS TRAFFIC SHOWS GAIN

Freight traffic through Canadian canals during the calendar year 1933 totalled 18,780,489 tons, the largest tonnage handled since 1918. An increase of 819,839 tons over 1932 was registered despite the fact that the movement of agricultural products showed a decline of 1,085,267 tons for the year.

Almost half the total freight tonnage moved through the Welland Ship Canal, Canada's newest and largest canal. During the 1933 season of navigation freight traffic on this important waterway amounted to 9,194,130 tons, a new high record. This was an increase over 1932 of 656,670 tons.

FATHER and son, tied at smoking together on an old carpenter's bench behind the huge red barn in the peaceful twilight of a late June evening. It was a favorite spot of theirs, a spot where confidences came easily.

It was the first confab they had had in many long months and now Ted Williams, Jr., eyed his father sidewise through the haze of tobacco smoke.

"Same old dad," said Ted, Jr., affectionately after a moment. The father, who looked tall, his son, lithe and slender and well dressed, alert and self-assured—a typical young college fellow.

"Your career!" exclaimed Ted. "Why, I thought you'd always run a dairy." "So I have, but when I entered the state college I'd intended being a civil engineer. I always loved the work, but soon after I finished my second year I met your mother—and we ran away and married. Of course, I had to get out and make a living, so I took the first thing that came along, always hoping that after awhile I'd get enough saved up to go back and finish my engineer's course."

"Not I, dad, I'll keep away from the women to get my degree, and there isn't any girl on earth can keep me, from here." "Yes, because Guelph has a sense of humor he sent Carl McDavid over to the Williams place the very next afternoon to borrow a cake recipe from Ted's mother.
