THIS WEEK'S PUZZLE POEM

My first you'll find in fiddle, but not in any bow. My next in hey-diddle-diddle, a rhyme of long ago. My third is not in lover, yet this time in every beau. And my fourth is in all athletes, without it they're no go. My fifth is in all motor trucks, but never in a van. My sixth is in all creatures, but not in any man: My whole, a well known gent in town, and I would have you know, sir. That if I would catch up to him, I certainly must grow air. Now in the line preceding this, I've given you a clue. He serves most folk with rations, no doubt he serves you too.

Thursday of last week at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Anderson, on the occasion of Barbara Joan's first birthday. Miss Margaret J. Macdonald returned yesterday from an interesting trip through the Canadian West to the Pacific Coast, and thence to San Francisco and Los Angeles, where she took one of the Panama-Pacific steamships through the canal and on to New York.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Swackhamer and family are very appreciative of the kindly help by neighbors during the illness of their son, Leslie. The kindness shown to Leslie in so many ways have all been greatly appreciated.

HARD LUCK

"Ah," exclaimed the touring manager, hopefully as after a week of disappointing houses, his dispirited company unloaded themselves at the station of another country town. "This looks better! And see! There's even a cheerful sunset to welcome us!" "Sunset" snuffed the parier. "That's the theatre. It's been on fire all afternoon."

RIDDLE

The professor had been lecturing on mining engineering and when he had finished he asked: "Would anyone like to ask any questions?" "How," said the bright student, "do you calculate the horsepower of a donkey-engine?"

Acton Wins and Loses to Take Second Place

(Continued from Page One) a 10 to 3 win over the Paper Towners. The homeaters fielded their strongest team in an effort to pull out one more win, but their efforts were fruitless. The game had no bearing on the League standing and Acton fielded what looked like a patched-up team, but the boys crossed everybody up and played a bang-up game of baseball. Gordon worked on the mound and limited the Georgetown sluggers to only six hits. Walters went to short, Mooney to second, and Lindsay covered the initial sack. Woods was on the receiving end and Bus Morton on the hot corner. Tyler, Guthrie and Bayless patrolled the outfield and made no mistakes. Woods was the big hitter for Acton, collecting three bingles out of five tries. Mooney covered second like a veteran, and provided one of the fielding features of the game, when he retired A. Ritchie in the third. He also garnered a double and a single both hits being real smashes. Bayless, in right, made some nice catches, and also had two hard drives, one being good for an extra base. Gordon helped the cause along with two ringing doubles. Walters boosted his batting average with two hits, and Bus Morton, Lindsay and Tyler collected one apiece. Alcott did the chucking for Georgetown, but was no puzzle and in the sixth "Pat" Walters relieved him. In all, the locals gathered fifteen solid hits, ten off Alcott's offerings and five off Walters. Two beautiful catches were made by Tyler and Guthrie in the fourth to retire Alcott and Bill Ritchie. Gordon struck out the two big guns, Ward and Beaumont. In the fifth, Beaumont and Bryden drove out doubles for Georgetown, and A. Ritchie Ward, Chaplin and McManis a single apiece. CATTLE ARE INCLUDED IN NEW ONTARIO GOVT. ACT

Owners of Both Cattle and Sheep Entitled to Compensation—When Animals Killed or Injured by Dogs. All owners of cattle or sheep killed or injured by dogs are entitled to compensation, either by the dog owners or by the municipality, according to legislation sponsored and piloted through the Ontario Legislature at the last session by the Hon. Duncan Marshall, Ontario Minister of Agriculture. "Injured or mutilated" applied to injuries caused by mauling, worrying, terrifying or pursuing. Up until the last session of the Legislature, the Act applied only to sheep. Many reports of cattle being killed or maimed by savage dogs were received by Hon. Mr. Marshall, that he decided legislation should be introduced to provide compensation for these cattle owners. The result being "The Dog Tax and Live Stock Protection Act," which clearly defines the responsibilities of dog owners and municipalities in cases where animals are killed or injured. Whether or not the owner of any dog killing live stock is known, the municipality in which the live stock were killed or injured shall be liable to the live stock owner for the amount of damage as ascertained by live stock valuers appointed by the municipality. In order to collect, the owner must notify the municipality within 48 hours after he has discovered the killing or injuries, and the carcass must not be destroyed until it has been seen by the valuer for the municipality. If the owner or the Municipal Council is dissatisfied with the report of the valuer, they may appeal to the Minister of Agriculture, the Hon. Duncan Marshall, within thirty days of the award. This appeal must be made in writing, accompanied by a $25 deposit, and the Minister may name a valuer to make a further investigation. The report of the valuer shall be final and conclusive as to the extent and amount of the damage. The money is refunded if the appeal is successful, but forfeited if the appeal is lost. If no live stock valuer has been appointed by the Council or Clerk of any municipality the Minister of Agriculture, on application of the owner of live stock, may name a valuer whose report shall be final and conclusive. Repairs of the cost of vaccination as well as amount of award. Reports of the award will be forwarded to both Council and live stock owner. Where live stock has been killed or injured in territory without municipal organization, the owner of the dog shall be liable for damage, and it will not be necessary to prove the dog was vicious or accustomed to worry live stock.

TRUTHFUL FELLOW!

Plasmonger (to unsuccessful angler): "Anything I can do for you, sir?" Angler: "Yes, I want you to get three of your freshest fish and throw them at me." Plasmonger: "But why throw them at you, sir?" Angler: "Well, I want to be able to tell my wife I caught them: I may be a bad fisherman, but I do tell the truth."

NOTED SCIENTIST DEAD

SIR CHARLES SAUNDERS The death of Sir Charles Saunders in the city of Toronto the other day naturally recalls the story of Marquis Wheat and the confinement made to grain growing, particularly in Western Canada, by this eminent Agricultural experimentalist. Sir Charles Saunders has lived quietly in the city of Toronto for some fifteen years as he was compelled to retire from active work in connection with the Dominion Experimental Farms—on account of ill health, and so for some time has not appeared actively in connection with agricultural matters. The Honourable Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, was acquainted with Dr. Saunders and particularly with the work of the development of Marquis Wheat on the Western plains. Mr. Marshall went West in 1905 and it was two years later, in 1907, that twenty-three pounds of the newly-discovered Marquis Wheat was sent to the Dominion Experimental Farm at Indian Head, so that it might be multiplied on the Prairies. In 1929, when Mr. Marshall was preparing an agricultural publication, he visited Dr. Saunders at his home in Toronto and succeeded in getting from him the only interview which the Doctor has ever given with regard to Marquis Wheat and the part he played in it; for his Dr. Saunders written anything, at least that has yet been published, with regard to his work in this matter. Mr. Marshall, arranged with Dr. Saunders to have Mr. W. L. Smith, the well-known agricultural journalist in Toronto, visit him at his home and write the story. Dr. Saunders always claimed that he had a good start in connection with Marquis Wheat, because not only had his father, Dr. Wm. Saunders, then Director of the Dominion Experimental Farm, created several new varieties of wheat by crossing and selection, but Charles Saunders had the advantage of being the son of Wm. Saunders, and so, as a lad, had studied with his father the problem of producing an earlier hard wheat. Another man needs to be mentioned in connection with Marquis Wheat—Dr. Angus MacKay—Superintendent of the Experimental Farm at Indian Head. Dr. MacKay had been extremely anxious to secure a new variety of wheat with as good milling qualities as Red Fife, but which would ripen a week or ten days earlier, and so escape some of the damaging frosts, which seemed to arrive a short time before Red Fife ripened on the Prairies. In his farming struggle on the Saskatchewan "Prairie" it is interesting to note in passing that Angus MacKay was finding soil drifting problems back as far as 1880 and was doing a lot of tree planting in order to stem the tide of the dust storm which he felt that the soil was blown off the roots of the trees and so to-day on this farm these rocks can be seen exposed like so many winding snakes above the ground. To secure a new variety of wheat by crossing is a reasonably simple process and it is also comparatively easy to make rough selections from the crossing. One of the difficulties, however, is to get a new variety that will not revert to type, but will remain fixed and will also be up to quality. It was in 1927 that Dr. Wm. Saunders became the head of the Experimental Farms, and sixteen years later his son, Dr. Charles E. Saunders, officially entered the service at Ottawa, but before that time he had been doing a lot of work with his father. As Red Fife was the best hard spring wheat then grown upon the Prairies, it naturally formed part of the heritage, of practically all the crosses they were making. Laboratory tests were somewhat difficult to make in those days and Dr. Charles Saunders said he had to use very ordinary methods in making his tests. He began in 1903 to test the value of the crosses of wheat by his father. He handed over to him by his father. He decided that the best way to test the quality of the gummy substance of the wheat was to chew it into gum and then see how far it would stretch. He declared that in the winter of 1908-9 he chewed up what into gum, than all the boys in a dozen rural school sections who, in those days found this a cheap

NOT FUNNY

"Did I leave an umbrella here yesterday?" "What kind of an umbrella?" "Oh, any kind, I'm not funny."

IT WAS TERRIBLE

"It was terrible," said Mrs. Murphy. "There were twenty-seven English and an Irishman lost in the wreck." "Indeed?" exclaimed Mrs. Orogan. "The poor man!"

THE DOG TAX AND LIVE STOCK PROTECTION ACT

This legislation protects live stock owners against the ravages of dogs. This Act requires:— The taxing of dogs and the issuing of dog tags. Where live stock (Cattle and Sheep) are injured, the owner shall notify the local Valuer or the Heave of the Municipality within forty-eight hours after discovery of the damage. The local Valuer must make two reports, one for the Municipality, and one for the owner of the livestock. If either of these is not satisfied with the report, he may appeal to the Minister of Agriculture for another Valuer by depositing $25.00. This money is returned if the appeal is successful but is forfeited if the appeal is lost. The award made by the Valuer appointed by the Minister is final.
