the Association, which appeared in the Halifax Herald, the following morning, left some doubt as to many of the faces and small wonder, one would say, as mpet eyes-were-a bit drowsy.

But the convention was but started, and two addresses and reports and business made a busy morning in the convention room. 'At 12.30 the party left on a sixteen mile motor trip, via the Dartmouth Lakes, for luncheon at "Green-Acres." Here His Worship Mayor Mitchell extended an official welcome to the party. That afternoon the ladies were guests on the Bermuda boat, "Lady Drake," where afternoon tea was served. The men continued in convention program and discussion of problems confronting weekly newspaper editors.

At 7,30-that evening we were reminded that Nova Scotia boasts of being Scotch province. The bag pipes played and the pipers paced up and down in the mom adjoining the banquet room. And shortly after it was Premier Angus Macdonald who was led to the head table with other distinguished guests. That evening, following the meal, we were addressed by the Premier and Prof. John Oasey, of Oklahoma University. The addrames, were broadcast over a national network. An interesting feature was the presentation to each lady present of MacAskill picture and each editor was made a member of the "Order of Good Times," and duly presented with a certificate of membership. The party were guests of the Province of Nova Scotis at this dinner and the menu very indicative of the province, who were hosts.

Sessions started the following morning at 8.30 and even made use of the breakfast hour for executive and divisional presidents. Two addresses, by Mrs. P. . Clotworthy, of Toronto, and Prof Casey, of Oklahoma, were especially of keen interest to newspaper folks as wel as other business matters presented.

Luncheon was served at the Lord Nelson, as guests of the Halifax Herald and the guest speaker, Rev. A Stanley Walker, who had just the day previous been made President of King's College Halifax. Convention sessions were con tinued for an hour or so, and then the party were guests on the "Banshee," or a boat trip in Halifax harbor and some dea of its size could be secured. The harbor was comparatively calm and the sea breezes all they claim for them. And what a crowded evening that las

It was at the latter that the party was entertained at a supper dance on Friday evening. A committee meeting interfered with our taking part, even in the luncheon served. But we are assured it was one of the finest of the convention program.
