Rockwood

The funeral of the late Frank H. Bernard, last week was attended by close and intimate friends and acquaintances who gathered to pay their respects to one who was held in high esteem. Rev. E. Brillinger, of St. John's Church, conducted the service at the home, and also at the grave, and assisted by Rev. P. A. Sawyer, of Caledonia, a former rector of the church, and a former friend, who brought a comforting message to those present. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Charles Hamilton, Charles Stovel, Norman Wilson, Desmond Tilt, John Cummings and George H. Pearen. Numerous floral wreaths bore silent tribute to the worth and respect of the deceased, both in the home and at the church. Interment took place in the family plot at Woodlawn Cemetery, Guelph. The sympathy of the community is extended to his brothers and sisters, who mourn his passing away.

On Sunday evening, the Young People of the United Church again repeated their sacred drama, "Whatever You Sow," to a large attendance at Ospringle. Last week, Mrs. A. J. Elliott, Secretary-Treasurer of the Horticultural Society, entertained the exhibitors of the recent show, to a "Horticultural Dinner" at her home, where a table was spread on the lawn, and full justice done to the good things provided. During the evening, the gathering adjourned to the front lawn, under the shade of a large maple tree, and the prize money distributed to those who were successful with their exhibits. The President, Mrs. George H. Pearen, spoke briefly, and called on Mr. W. W. Simpson, of Guelph, who was accompanied by his wife, and spoke at some length in reference to our late show. Mr. Simpson also brought echoes of the Canadian Gladstone Show, held at Midland on August 25th and 26th. A social time was enjoyed by all present. During the evening, some interest was taken in Mrs. Elliott's little oak sapling, grown from an acorn.

PRESENTATION TO MRS. J. F. ROBERTSON AND FAMILY

On Monday evening of last week about eighty friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bracken to pay farewell to Mrs. J. F. Robertson and family, who were leaving the community to make their home in Guelph. It seems difficult for us to realize that your home and the hospitality that your presence in it has given is about to terminate and so we gather with you this evening, with deep feelings of regret, but also to assure you of our best wishes for success in your new home in Guelph. Your home has known its joys and sorrows, but through the shadows, as well as the sunshine, the friendships of the years have been welded and proven true as steel. We will all miss you. The community will miss the help-of-every one of you, as you were all active in its best interests. Words are inadequate at a time like this.

We have assembled these little gifts, which we hope you will cherish, not for their value, but as mementoes of friendships you have earned and won in the Women's Cheerio Club, and among your friends and neighbors. Again we wish you joy and unbounded success in your new home.

Mrs. J. F. Robertson and Family: Dear Friends: Many thanks for the gifts which you have presented to us. We will all miss you. The community will miss the help-of-every one of you, as you were all active in its best interests. Words are inadequate at a time like this.

MRS. BRACKEN, MRS. G. SOMERVILLE, MRS. G. BROWNLOW, MRS. D. McDUGALL.

Mrs. Robertson and family were asked to come forward, and at the proper time Mrs. McDougall and Mrs. Bracken presented Mrs. Robertson with two lovely wicker chairs, and Mrs. Brownlow presented Mary with a bedroom clock; Bill, Jim and Kay with fountain pens. Mrs. Storey presented Mrs. Robertson with a blanket.

Mrs. Robertson very fittingly replied on behalf of her mother and family for presents received, and extended an invitation to all to visit them at any time in Guelph. Lunch was served and the remainder of the evening spent in dancing.

CIVIL AVIATION IN CANADA

Canada leads the world in the use of aircraft for the shipment of freight and express. The pounds of freight and express carried by aircraft in the Dominion has grown steadily and rapidly, increasing from 2,372,467 pounds in 1931 to 25,387,719 pounds in 1936, including freight carried by provincial aircraft.

Commercial aircraft during 1936 flew 7,100,401 miles and carried 22,947,105 pounds of freight and 1,107,060 pounds of mail, which was 28 per cent. more traffic than carried in 1935. The number of paying passengers carried by commercial aircraft was 97,888 and non-paying passengers numbered 11,935.

The principal activity of commercial aircraft operators in Canada during 1936 was the carriage by air of passengers, freight, and mails to mining fields in the more remote parts of the country. Their work also included forest fire patrols, timber cruising, air photography, flying instruction, advertising, shore passenger flights, etc. in various parts of the Dominion.

The freight carried consisted largely of machinery, supplies, etc. for mines in the northern part of Quebec, Ontario, and the western provinces and the Northwest Territories. Many of these mines are accessible only by canoe in the summer and dog team in the winter or by aircraft. In most of the mining country of the north there are numerous lakes which provide suitable landing for aircraft with floats in the summer and with skis in the winter.

At the close of 1936 there was a total of 155 air harbors in Canada, not including those under construction for the trans-Canada route. Licensed aircraft, including private flying clubs, commercial and Dominion and provincial engaged in civil aviation numbered 450 as against 380 in 1935. These do not include military aircraft.

A noteworthy feature of civil aviation in Canada during 1936 was the high degree of efficiency with which operations were carried out. Only 16 persons were killed and 21 were injured in civil aviation, of which commercial air lines were responsible for ten deaths and sixteen injured, including six fatalities injured in shops, etc. The commercial aviation averages show per one million passenger miles, 0.522 passengers killed and 0.835 passengers injured and per million crew miles, 0.569 crew killed and 0.227 crew injured.
