LOCALS

The cooler weather has been quite a relief. Just two more days of the "X" for this year.

Georgetown Fair is being held next Thursday and Friday.

Acton Fair is just a week from next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Orangeville Fair is held for Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

Get your exhibits ready and plan now to attend Acton Fair this year.

Quite a number from Acton attended the Centennial event in Georgetown last week.

Acton Citizens' Band took part in the Centennial Pageant at Georgetown on Friday evening.

Standard Time has its convenience, too. For instance, the morning mail is received when it is more useful.

The new social room at the Y.M.C.A. almost completed and will be ready for the opening immediately after the Acton Fair.

C. E. McMillan, of Erin, was second in the Old-Time Fiddlers' Contest at the O.N.E. and John McKell, of Linthouse, won third this year.

Entries and enquiry already made with Secretary F. I. Wright indicate that the Coronation Year Acton Fair will have a finer exhibit than ever.

Old friends will be glad to welcome former residents back home in Acton on September 21st and 22nd, and present one of the best Fairs ever given.

Miss Emily Young was successful in her summer school course and secured her certificate for Elementary Manual Training. Mr. Harvey Hassard was successful with his course in Elementary Agriculture. Congratulations.

HEALTH OF CHILDREN IN THE BLACK HOUSES OF LEWIS

The children born and raised in the Black Houses of Lewis have the best bones and most enduring teeth of any children in Scotland. This is the opinion of the Medical Research Council of Great Britain after a complete investigation of the health of Scottish children.

These homes are Black Houses. There are no windows. Often the only door is that leading through the byre. There are no chimneys. The smoke from the peat fire is obliged to circle about and finally settle on the walls. Hence the name Black House.

The children rarely see the sun during the first year of their lives. The secret lies in their food. They are nursed for the first year by their mothers and the food of these mothers is essentially cod-liver oil, supplied by a diet consisting largely of sea fish.

In the early hours of the morning the housewife bakes her man a large scone which she takes with him to his boat. Embarking the man scots catches a fish, rips out the liver, cuts it in slices and places the slices between the two layers of scone.

NO HARDSHIP. Father: "So you've been fighting again, have you? Then you go to bed without supper, young man." Freddy: "All right, dad, I've only got two teeth left, anyhow."

"Pacifists are not necessarily cowards, nor militarists brave. War is not necessarily manly, nor Peace effeminate."—A. A. Milne.

Cutting the Corners

By Foul Tip

The best wishes of the Acton Baseball Club and fans go to Milton in their quest for Ontario Championship honors.

Saturday's exhibition of the pastime was a treat to watch after last Wednesday's nightmare.

That was a close one when Terry was called out in the ninth.

Woods turned in a good game on third. He made two nice catches in the second, to retire Essard and Patterson. His hit waltz for a triple in the same session, when the ball took a bad bounce.

Lindsay made a nice pick-up off B. Clement's hot one in the seventh.

That extra counter in the ninth looked plenty big. Proved just that, too.

Taletka made a beautiful catch off Mooney's bid for a hit in the ninth.

That was the nicest twirlers' duel seen in Acton this year.

Anderson turned in a great game behind the plate. Plenty of credit is due this fighting little catcher for going in there with a bad foot.

Had the boys put up as good a game defensively in the previous games, the result would have been vastly different.

The loss of Norm Morton, through illness, and a long lay-off, however, were big factors in this series.

The team has three nice twirlers that can be counted on to win games next season. In the Morton brothers and Gordon, and Lambert and Cripps in reserve.

Manager Farrell was called away on Saturday, owing to Mrs. Farrell's illness, and Terry was in charge of the team.

We have tried to give the fans plenty of local baseball chatter this season, and trust we have succeeded, both in game highlights and information regarding League meetings.

Our thanks to the editor and his staff. So long. POUL TYP.

PRESENTATION AND SHOWER

An event of much interest in the community took place at the home of Mrs. Annie Stull on Friday evening, August 27th, when a large number of neighbors and friends gathered in honor of the approaching marriage of Miss Eva Sinclair and Mr. Aldon C. Patterson.

The famous English writer, George Eliot, said, "I like not only to be loved, but to be loved that I am loved, the realm of silence is large enough beyond the grave."

So we, your friends, wish to put into words our friendship toward you and our good wishes for your future.

We hope that in the year to come the knowledge that your neighbors have expressed these thoughts toward you will be of greater worth to you than the gift that accompanies them and which we now present to you.

May success and happiness and our sincerest friendship be with you throughout the future.

Signed by the Committee. MRS. FRANK SMITH, MRS. WM. TAYLOR, MRS. ANNIE TAYLOR, MRS. JOHN SNOW.

A miscellaneous shower of many useful and dainty presents followed. Mr. Patterson and Miss Sinclair replied, thanking everyone for their many good wishes and beautiful gifts.

Mrs. Hull's orchestra entertained until lunch time and the remainder of a very enjoyable evening was spent in dancing.

THE SIXTH LINE IS ROUGH

Jack Nicola, a visitor from Michigan at a farm on the sixth line, found out on Saturday that this particular bit of road is no speedway. In fact he doubted even if it was fit to travel.

LOYD D. DINGLE Conservative Candidate for Election in Provincial Election

Burlington, Ontario, September 24th, 1937

TO THE PEOPLE OF HALTOUN COUNTY

In this letter I wish to state my stand on the question of labor problems.

This question has had a tremendous amount of publicity in the press ever since Mr. Hepburn interfered in the Oshawa strike, recruited and drilled at the taxpayers' expense 400 special troops to put down a strike which was law-abiding and orderly at all times, and finally was a party to a settlement with the United Automobile Workers of America, which is itself affiliated with the C.I.O., the very organization with which Mr. Hepburn was determined not to negotiate.

A great deal of the publicity given this question has been caused by those newspapers which have deliberately misrepresented Mr. Rowe's stand and have charged him with endorsing the C.I.O., which charge is absolutely false. Mr. Rowe has never at any time endorsed the C.I.O., or any other organization.

On their pledged words, both leaders are in complete agreement up to a certain point. Neither Mr. Rowe nor Mr. Hepburn will permit in the Province of Ontario lawlessness or violence of any kind in connection with labor disputes. But where they differ is as follows: MR. HEPBURN SAYS that he (Mr. Hepburn) will decide for the working man what labor unions he may join. He also says: "I do not approve of the C. I. O. and I will keep it out of Ontario."

MR. ROWE trusts the working man and says: "The working man shall decide for himself what labor unions he may join, provided that all labor unions must obey the law."

Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal Government at Ottawa and his Minister of Labor, Hon. Norman Rogers, are observing a discreet silence on this question. There is no doubt but that they do not approve of Mr. Hepburn's stand. On the other hand, Hon. R. B. Bennett and Hon. Arthur Meighan, former Conservative Prime Minister, do approve of Mr. Rowe's position. Does it seem reasonable that Mr. Hepburn, who has made so many mistakes, would be right on this question and these other prominent leaders of both the Conservative and the Liberal parties would be wrong?

Speaking at Brantford just the other day, Mr. Hepburn changed his tune. For months he had been saying in his usual blustering way: "I will keep these C. I. O. organizers out of Ontario." At Brantford he said: "Now one Toronto newspaper has been pointing out that I am powerless to keep these people out of Ontario. That is true. But even though I can't keep them out, I can keep them from inciting riots when they get here. If they don't obey our laws, they will go to jail as fast as they won't know what has happened to them."

This is what Mr. Rowe has been saying from the first, but, unlike Mr. Hepburn, who has shown great bitterness and bias against the working men and their labor unions in his statements, Mr. Rowe has never been bitter but has kept on an even keel and in accordance with the established practice of governments for generations has refused to take sides in labor disputes.

Mr. Hepburn in admitting that he can't keep these people out so long as they obey the law, has vindicated Mr. Rowe's stand.

There is another factor in connection with this question which should be kept in mind by all fair-minded people. On any moral issue it is always the easier course to refuse to take a stand, but to follow the line of least resistance.

When this question first came into prominence at the time of the Oshawa strike, Mr. Rowe patriotically refrained from making any statement calculated to embarrass the Government. When it appeared that a large proportion of the press was supporting Mr. Hepburn's stand, it would have been an easy thing for the Conservative Leader to have supported the stand taken by the Hepburn Government and declined to make an issue of the question.

But Mr. Rowe would not take a stand which he knew to be wrong, he refused to be stampeded into taking a position which he knew to be fundamentally unsound; and undeterred by misrepresentation, he showed a courage and a determination to do the right thing, which must be the admiration of all friends and foe alike.

Mr. Rowe is taking the only reasonable, the only democratic stand. Mr. Hepburn is taking the position of the dictator, compelling labor to walk the dotted line. The right of the workers to choose their own union has been conceded for years and from the first Mr. Rowe has taken the traditional British stand of trusting labor to play the game, while insisting that law and order be maintained. The British people have reached their present high position in world affairs by being capable of trust, by having sterling qualities of character and there is no finer type of British citizen than the Canadian working man. These men are certainly worthy of trust. Is it not apparent that the stand of Mr. Hepburn is that of a dictator, the stand of Mr. Rowe is that of a statesman, who honestly believes that his position is the best for all classes of the population?

On this question Mr. Rowe has refused to take the easy way. He has taken the most difficult path, the only possible path to one who was prepared to stand or fall on a question of principle. I endorse Mr. Rowe's stand on this question. With him, I believe it is only British and democratic that labor should have the right to organize in any way it sees fit so long as it obeys the law.

Yours faithfully, LOYD D. DINGLE Liberal-Conservative Candidate.

QUEBEC'S GOLD OUTPUT INCREASING Quebec's gold output, which reached a record value of $23,325,000 in 1936, has been increasing steadily since the beginning of 1937. During the first five months production amounted to 285,353 fine ounces valued at $9,987,000 compared with 262,475 fine ounces valued at $9,187,000 in the corresponding period of 1936. Fifteen or more properties are contributing to the output, the three largest producers being the Noranda, Sorel and Lamaque (Tech-Hughes) mines. Interest in gold operations in the province continues to be centered largely in the Cadillac and Malartic areas where several properties, including the O'Brien and the Canadian Malartic mines, are in successful production. As a result of developments in the northwestern part of the province, Quebec is now Canada's second largest gold producer. While Quebec has a long history as a gold producer in a small way, it is only within recent years that its output has attained important dimensions. Placer gold is said to have been found in the valley of the Chaudiere river in the province of Quebec as early as 1823 or 1824, but no systematic attempt was made to work it until nearly twenty-five years later. All Quebec's recorded production up to and including 1900 was placer gold, from 1901 to 1914 it was chiefly lode gold, and since 1914 it has all been lode gold except a few ounces from the Chaudiere placers.
