COMBAT WEED SEEDS

The greatest difficulty in maintaining successful farming, and particularly in notice. producing a more abundant supply of clean forage and grain seed, is the prevalence of weeds. New weeds are introduced on farms with imperfectly cleaned By C F Leatherland, Acton, Ontario, cereal, clover and other commercial seeds. and with commercial feeding stuffs which often contain vital weed seeds. seeds are spread frem district to district through the various transportation facilities, are disseminated within a locality in stable manure from towns and cities. and are distributed from farm to farm through threshing machines, and from field to field by farm implements. The wind carries weed seeds long distances: streams disperse them along their courses, and herbivorous animals and seed-feeding birds help to swell the evil brondcast.

It is important to consider not only the large number of weeds sown with improperly cleaned grain but also those already in farm soils. Some of the worst weeds in Canada are so prolific in the production of seeds that relatively clean fields may become badly contaminated in two or three years if these weed seeds are allowed to go to seed. For example, a single plant of wild mustard, stinkweed, foxtall, pigweeds, or campion produces from 10,000 to 20,000 seeds, wormseed mustard about 26,000, shepherd's purse about 50,000 and tumbling mustard. about 1,500,000. With such productiveness, soils become quickly infested with weed seeds, although the presence of the seeds is not fully realised at the moment, owing to their inconspicuousness. Only a careful examination will reveal their k.i:ds and numbers, and with this object in view the Seed Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture gathered information on the prevalence of weed seeds in farm lands. Part of this work is to be found in Bulletin 137, "Weeds and Weed Seeds," an 80-page illustrated publication which deals fully with the weeds in the Dominion. The bulletin may be obtained free on application from the Publicity and Extension Branch of the Department at Ottawa. Much information is also given on seed cleaning and seed cleaning accourrements.
